READY FOR SECOND STEP TOWARD PEACE.

Russia Formally Agrees to Meet Japan's Envoys to Discuss Terms.

Next Thing on Programme is Decision on Part of Both Powers as to Who Will Represent Them in Negotiations and Place Where These Parties Will Meet—Marquis Ito for Mikado, and Witte, for Czar, May Head Respective Delegations.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] News reached several of the legations and embassies tonight that the Japanese Minister, Kogoro Takahira, would, within a few days, be raised to the dignity of an Ambassador for the purpose of participating in the peace negotiations between Japan and Russia.

This change is to be made, it was stated, as an evidence of the friendly feeling of Japan for the United States and in recognition of the kindly services of the President in offering his offices to effect peace between the warring powers.

Minister Griscom, it was announced, would be "relieved" and another person appointed shortly to his place, the United States raising the post at Tokio from a Ministry to an Embassy.

Japan, it is said, has already announced her intentions and is pleased that the United States will reciprocate.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Official assurance that the President's efforts to bring Russia and Japan together to discuss peace will be crowned with success was brought to the White House today by Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, who called by appointment and in the name of Emperor Nicholas formally accepted the President's "offer of good will."

The following official statement regarding the conference was issued at the White House: "Ambassador Cassini has called to express the Russian government's assent to the President's proposition and to state that it would appoint plenipotentiaries to meet the plenipotentiaries of Japan to discuss the question of peace. The place of meeting is at present being discussed."

During the past two weeks, the President's efforts have been directed toward a mutual agreement to consider terms of peace. This he accomplished finally today. It remains now for the belligerent powers to name their plenipotentiaries and to agree upon a time and place for them to meet to discuss terms and to negotiate a treaty of peace. These details are now under consideration, with a bright prospect that such minor differences as may exist will be resolved within a few days.

SUPREME IMPORTANCE.

Conferences of supreme importance were had today in Washington. The Blue Room of the White House was the scene, and the President, Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, and Mr. Takahira, the Japanese Minister, were the principal conferees.

The President now has unequivocal assurances from both Russia and Japan of the acceptance of his proposition that they enter into negotiations for peace. The President likewise is assured of the absolute sincerity of both governments in acceding to his suggestion.

Japan was the first of the two powers to indicate its acceptance of the President's proposition. The formal response to his identical note of Thursday last was received from the Japanese government Saturday. Informal assurances of acceptance of the President's suggestion were received from the Russian government a little later, but assurances from St. Petersburg were not of the same definite character as had been received from Tokio. Early today, Ambassador Meyer, at St. Petersburg, informed this government that Russia had accepted the President's proposition and would name representatives with plenipotentiary powers to meet plenipotentiaries of Japan. While satisfactory, the response of Russia was not in the same definite form as that of Japan. It had been the expectation of the President to publish to the world the replies of the two governments to his identical notes but under the circumstances, this could not be done.

RUSSIA'S PROMISE VERBAL.

A few hours subsequent to the receipt of Ambassador Meyers's cablegram, Count Cassini, made an appointment to see the President at 11 o'clock today. The Ambassador, in the conference which followed, presented verbally Russia's acceptance of the President's proposition for a conference to discuss peace terms. He had been instructed by the St. Petersburg government to convey to the President the willingness of Emperor Nicholas to appoint plenipotentiaries to meet like representatives of the Emperor of Japan, to negotiate a treaty of peace. While the response of the Russian government was not reduced to writing, it was regarded for the time as sufficient for the negotiations. Shortly afterward, the official statement quoted was made public.

In addition to indicating the acceptance by the Russian government of the President's proposition, Count Cassini informed the President of Russia's desires as to the place of meeting of the plenipotentiaries and named those who probably would be delegates to represent the Russian Emperor. At the conclusion of the conference, Count Cassini declined to discuss for publication the details of his interview with the President.

Minister Takahira had a conference with the President at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The interview lasted thirty-five minutes. The Minister, in response to inquiries after the conference, said that the situation was so delicate that he did not feel free to talk about it.

PLACE OF MEETING.

It can be said that the place of the meeting of the plenipotentiaries of the two governments has not been finally settled. In the arrangement of this detail and others of like importance, the President is acting as an intermediary between Russia and Japan. Russia, through Ambassador Cassini, has indicated her preference for one place for holding the peace conference; and Japan, through Minister Takahira, has suggested another. It is known that neither Washington nor the battlefield in Manchuria was the selection of either Russia or Japan. Further than this, information of a definite nature was withheld.

Official assurance is given that at present the response made by Japan to the President's identical note will not be made public from Washington in precise form, inasmuch as the Russian reply is not available in similar form. Negotiations between Washington and St. Petersburg, and between Washington and Tokio are in progress, and the final arrangements for the peace conference in its essential details are likely to be a question of only a few days. As soon as the arrangements are completed definitely an armistice will be agreed upon.

PLACE FOR CONFERENCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador called at the White House tonight by appointment to discuss with the President the selection of a place for the peace conference. This subject had been discussed by the President in his conference with the Japanese Minister during the afternoon. Count Cassini learned from the President tonight Japan's views about this, and also as to the number of plenipotentiaries. Upon his return to the embassy, the Ambassador, it is understood, communicated this information to his government. On one point Count Cassini and Mr. Takahira are agreed, and that is the undesirability of Washington for a mid-summer conference.

What else was talked about at the conference is not known. Count Cassini not feeling at liberty to discuss his visit in any particular. Nor is it known whether the Ambassador's verbal assurances, delivered this morning, were delivered in writing tonight, as an Ambassador frequently communicates verbally, as the personal envoy of his sovereign, what a Minister, as the representative of his government, prefers to reduce to writing. Both forms are equally official.

It is understood in high official quarters here that Marquis Ito, Baron Komura, Minister for Foreign Affairs; and Field Marshal Yamagata, Chief of Staff are the three under consideration by the Emperor as plenipotentiaries and that the inclination of the belligerents is that each select two plenipotentiaries.

M. Nelidoff is understood to have been tentatively selected by Russia, and it is suggested as possible that he may be assisted by Baron Rosen, though this lacks official confirmation.

MAY MEET AT NEWPORT.

Elimination of Washington as the probable choice of the belligerents for their place of peace-making would not preclude the selection of an American city. Briefly, the situation is this: Japan does not wish Paris, and Russia is unfavorable to Mukden or Chefoo. Both are opposed to Washington for climatic reasons, though neither would oppose the selection of an American watering place, and among those already mentioned are Newport and Manchester-by-the-Sea. This idea is especially favored among the representatives of the neutral powers, who establish their embassies and legations in New England for the summer. Of the places under consideration in Europe, it is said Russia might accept The Hague. Geneva is also considered and it would not be objectionable to Japan. At a long conference at the Russian embassy this evening, between Mr. Vanswinderin, The Netherlands Minister, and Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador the belief was strengthened that Russia would seriously consider the selection of The Hague for the scene of the negotiations.

A point realized by the representatives of both belligerents here, and which has been emphasized in their dispatches, is that in order to take advantage of the President's offer to give any advice or assistance that might be solicited the selection of any American city for the conference would facilitate the negotiations in keeping in close touch with the President.

MIKADO SUMMONS COUNCIL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, June 12.—A special from Tokio to the Daily News says: "Emperor Mutsuhito summoned a Great Council this morning at 11 o'clock. It is believed the peace policy to be pursued in the case of Russia was the subject of discussion. Prince Sadako was present. The council consists of Prince Fushima, Prince Kanin and Prince Yamashina, the elder statesmen, the principal ministers and the chief executive officers."

ITALY'S INFLUENCE GIVEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, June 12.—The Italian government has instructed its ambassadors and ministers to do everything possible within the sphere of their influence in support of the movement to bring about negotiations for peace between Russia and Japan.

AGROUND IN ST. LAWRENCE.

Liner Tampican Firmly Imbedded in Sand, and Six Tugs Fail to Float Her.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HALIFAX (N. S.) June 12.—Word was received here tonight that the Leyland line steamer Tampican, from Montreal, went aground in the St. Lawrence soon after leaving port today. She was heavily laden with general cargo and 400 head of cattle. She is firmly imbedded in the sand and six tugs failed to float her.

WAS ONCE LINER RUNICK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—The Tampican is in command of Capt. Harrison and was bound to London and Leith. She is an iron vesel, 430 feet long and with a tonnage of 4833. Frederick Leyland & Co. of Liverpool are her owners. Formerly she was the White Star liner Runick. She had two compartments and is equipped with electricity.

RIO GRANDE AGAIN SWOLLEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EL PASO (Tex.) June 12.—Heavy rains have again swollen the Rio Grande River, and fresh washouts on the Santa Fé Railroad between here and Rincon, N. M., have caused trains to be tied up. Rock Island trains have been held up twenty-seven hours by a washout north of here. Eight cars belonging to a wrecking train which was dispatched to repair the damage were ditched at Cairrizzo. At Pecos, Tex., several hundred feet of track were carried out of the Pecos Valley road.

The Southern Pacific has also suffered from a severe washout west of El Paso, where a freight train was wrecked.

CHALLENGED TO DUEL.

Gen. Jose M. Gomez to Fight Senor Coronado, Editor of La Discusion, Because of a Letter.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special cable to the Tribune from Havana says that Gen. José Miguel Gomez, the Fusionists' candidate for the Presidency of Cuba, was challenged to a duel today by Señor Coronado, editor of La Discusion. The duel, which probably will be fought tomorrow with pistols, is the result of a letter written by Gen. Gomez, replying to La Discusion's editorials.

NEW ESPEE OFFICIAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—General Manager E. E. Calvin of the Southern Pacific Company today announced the appointment of J. O. Rhoades to the position as manager of the purchases and supplies department of the corporation. He will enter upon his duties June 15. Rhoades has been the purchasing agent of the Oregon Short Line for ten years.

MASS OF CAPITAL.

Ryan's Syndicate a Crack-a-Jack.

Equitable, Mercantile and Morton Trust Companies to be All in One.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This afternoon, it was said by a banker who is believed to be very close to Ryan that the latter's plan in connection with the purchase of Hyde stock contemplates the elimination from the Equitable business of the control of all subsidiary companies. This is to speedily result in the consolidation of the Equitable Trust Company, the Mercantile Trust Company and the Morton Trust Company (Ryan's own institution,) with the last named, of course, in control.

This would mean the largest and most powerful trust company in the United States, and one of the most powerful financial institutions in the world. The consolidation of the Mercantile and Equitable Trust Companies was arranged by Hyde last year, but a row prevented its consummation. The combined resources of the three companies would aggregate $178,000,000. The Equitable and Mercantile Trust Companies are controlled absolutely by the Equitable Life. The Morton Trust Company is controlled by Ryan and some of his associates. It was organized out of the old established banking-house of Morton, Bliss & Company.

The president is Levi P. Morton, ex-Vice-President of the United States, and the directory includes Joseph Laroque, D. O. Mills, R. A. McCurdy, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company; W. G. Oakman, G. E. Peabody, Samuel Rea, Elihu Root, Jacob H. Schiff, John Sloane, John Jacob Astor, George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank; Edward J. Berwin, Frederick Cornwall, treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance Company; James B. Duke, the tobacco king, Henry M. Flagler, George G. Haven, A. D. Juilliard, Winthrop Rutherford and Harry Payne Whitney.

It is evident from the names of those directors how far-reaching Ryan's coup is, in fact, it was generally conceded in Wall street that it means a close working alliance between the three big insurance companies for their mutual benefit, and that Morgan and the First National Bank interests were in alliance with Ryan and his associates, the chief of whom are the interests identified with the Mutual Life Insurance Company. The directors of the Equitable and Mercantile Trust Companies are a no less eminent body of financiers, and many of the interests represented by them are equally represented in other companies.

MORTON'S CIRCULAR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—Chairman Morton in his circular says:

"The Equitable Society has been severely tested, and the ordeal has revealed to the world its strength and prosperity with an emphasis which could never have been shown as significantly by an ordinary method of demonstration. The fears of timid policy holders have been aroused, and, many have been alarmed by exaggerated or misleading newspaper articles, but it is astonishing that the increase in lapses has been so small.

"The steadfastness of the body of the society policy holders under the strain to which they have been subjected has been as remarkable as it has been gratifying. All this furnished the highest tribute to the excellence of the society's condition and to the zeal and loyalty of its agents.

"The field force of the Equitable will be kept thoroughly posted in reference to future developments. Every effort will be made to develop the business along sound lines, for the benefit of policy holders and agents alike, and I pledge you my most cordial cooperation in carrying on this work."

Former President Cleveland has written a letter to Thomas Ryan concerning the trusteeship of the stock of the Equitable which he accepts. The letter was made public today, and is as follows:

"After a little reflection, I have determined I ought to accept this service. I assume this duty upon the express condition that, so far as the trustees are to be vested with discretion in the selection of directors, they are to be absolutely free and undisturbed in the exercise of their judgment; and that so far as they are to act formally in voting for the directors conceded to policy holders, a fair and undoubted expression of policy holding choice will be forthcoming.

"While the hope that I might aid in improving the plight of the Equitable Society has led me to accept the trusteeship you tender, I cannot rid myself of the belief that what has overtaken this company is liable to happen to other insurance companies and fiduciary organizations as long as lax ideas of responsibility in places of trust are tolerated by our people. The high pressure of speculation, the madness of inordinate business scheming, and the chances taken in new and uncertain enterprises are constantly present temptations, too often successful in leading managers and directors away from scrupulous loyalty and fidelity to the interests of others confided to their care.

"We can better afford to slacken our pace than to abandon our old, simple standards of honesty; and we shall be safer if we regain our old habit of looking at the appropriation to personal uses of property and interests held in trust in the same light as other forms of stealing.

"Yours very truly,

[Signed]

"GROVER CLEVELAND."

Nine policy holders today filed suits of intervention in the United States Circuit Court, asking to be made party plaintiffs with J. Wilcox Browne of Baltimore, who recently filed a suit in the Federal courts asking that a receiver be appointed for the surplus of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Browne also asked for an accounting, claiming the policy holders, of which he was one, had not received their equitable proportion of the surplus, as provided for in their respective policies.

PURCHASE OF HYDE STOCK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—Paul Morton, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, who went to Washington last night, will not return to New York until Wednesday. It is expected that the work of readjustment of the methods and conduct of the society's management will then be resumed.

Thomas F. Ryan, in response to a request for further details, concerning the purchase of the Hyde stock, gave out the following statement: "The purchase of the stock was absolute and free of any condition or commitment as to future actions. The general orders of the trusteeship of the stock have already been ordered in the letter to Mr. Cleveland. The deed of trust is now being prepared, and will be made public in due course."

State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks has finished his investigation of the Equitable affairs.

MONT PELEE SMOKING UP.

FORT DE FRANCE (Island of Martinique) June 12.—For the past few days, Mont Pelée has manifested a recrudescence of activity, which, while stronger than that of the month of April of the present year, does not seem to be of an alarming nature. Some dense clouds of smoke have been discharged from the volcano and have slowly fallen over White River Valley, afterward disappearing on arrival at the sea coast.

PUMPING OUT THE SUBWAY.

Underground Travel Suspended at New York.

Those Caught in Flood Had Terrifying Experiences.

Passengers Plunged Into Water to Make Escape.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—Under the most favorable conditions, it was admitted by the management of the Subway tonight, the road, which was blocked yesterday afternoon by the bursting of a water main at Forty-second street, could hardly be opened for through traffic before the rush hours tomorrow morning.

During the day underground travel was practically suspended, although some trains were run below Fourteenth street and above the point of blockade, leaving a gap of over a mile in which the tracks were under water and the tunnel filled with the fumes of charred insulation and ties. The few trains that were run were scantily patronized, and as a result, traffic was diverted to the elevated and surface lines, whose capacity was taxed to the utmost.

SEVERAL FEET OF WATER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—Underground traffic in New York was practically at a standstill today. For more than a mile in the center of the main line of the tube which connects downtown New York with Harlem and the Bronx, the tracks were covered to a depth of several feet with the water, which poured in a flood when a big main broke at Park avenue yesterday.

All night steam pumps worked to overcome the tide, but even after the main was closed, it was estimated that many hours would be required to free the tunnel of water. Both above and below the seriously-affected sections shuttle trains were operated today, but they were only scantily patronized. With the Subway blocked, travelers naturally turned to the elevated and surface lines. As a result, there were scenes such as have not been witnessed since the strike of Subway and elevated employés, several months ago. Every train on the elevated lines carried extra cars and every train was filled to its capacity. The surface cars, too, were taxed as they have not been in months.

The flow of water continued uninterrupted four and one-half hours, while subalterns of the city water department wandered about in the vicinity of Park avenue and Forty-first street, turning off one gate after another in a futile search for the proper shut-off to stop the destructive flood. Officials of the Subway frantically telephoned in all directions, but say they failed to find anyone in authority with the requisite knowledge of the mains. The damage was finally checked through information furnished by a private citizen employed by a contracting firm. It is estimated that the loss to the Subway alone will be $100,000.

Hundreds of persons were caught in the blockaded turns and almost smothered before they were able to reach fresh air, by wading through eighteen inches of water to the nearest station. Many women had their clothing practically ruined by water which spattered through the open windows.

There were thousands of persons waiting along the entire line for trains, and much time elapsed before news of the blockade reached them. Consequently many travelers bound for the Grand Central and other railway stations missed their trains out of town.

There were scenes of considerable disorder at the Brooklyn-bridge station. Coming from the beaches and other resorts, great crowds poured into the underground stations, and for half an hour after the trains stopped they continued to gather, tickets being sold as usual. Then the agents began giving out "blockade transfers," and guards were stationed at the entrance to warn away the would-be passengers. But the crowds from Coney Island brushed them aside, and continued to enter. After much delay, a short-train service was established as far north as Fourteenth street. To further complicate the situation, a car jumped the track on the spur from the City Hall to Rector street and blockaded traffic on that section. It was then found necessary to close the stations south of the City Hall.

Unfortunately, for the traveling public, the subway tracks just where the water main loosed its torrent, are depressed four or five feet below the average grade, and this quickly filled, making it absolutely necessary to pump out the tunnel, as there was no outlet. A big steam pump was quickly rigged, and at an early hour this morning was slowly gaining on the water.

Persons who were caught in the trains near the flood when the power failed had a terrifying experience. All the lights were suddenly extinguished, following a series of loud explosions. Men, women and children who filled the cars were thrown into a panic of dread as the tunnel suddenly became intensely dark. There was a rush for the doors when water began to spray their open windows, but the guards held their ground, and closed the windows.

The temperature became stifling, and finally the guards were unceremoniously pushed aside, while the passengers plunged into the water, and made their way to the nearest stations, groping along the walls in order to avoid the third-rail-current. Hundreds were afraid, however, to risk their lives. Workmen were soon on the spot with lanterns. The faint glow from this source aided the imprisoned passengers, and soon long lines of the frightened men, women and children were threading their way between the rails until the nearest platforms were reached.

A condition that attracted the attention of nearly everyone who was not too scared to observe it, was the sudden oppressiveness that filled the tunnel and stifled those in the cars. Within five minutes after trains stopped moving, the temperature appeared to rise many degrees, until the cars were like the hot room in a Turkish bath. Open windows gave little relief, and many persons emerged from the stations in a limp and exhausted condition.

In addition to the damaged roadway in the tunnel, burned-out motors and the fusing of hundreds of electrical contrivances added greatly to the loss. Private property along Park avenue also suffered severely. Quick work at the new Hotel Belmont avoided heavy loss. The building, which is partially completed, extends four stories underground. Employés on the spot got a pump into action and kept the flood moving into the sewer. Many private cellars in the neighborhood were filled, however, causing much damage.

While officials of the subway were execrating the city employés for permitting the flood to go unchecked more than four hours, thousands of passengers who had purchased tickets all along the line before notice was received of the blockade were demanding their money back. They met with refusal and riots were narrowly averted. In due season another order went round permitting the agents to give out transfers good for another ride within forty-eight hours. Each ticket had to be signed and dated, so that the crowds became very impatient. The police force was called at some of the stations before the disorder could be quieted.

"YELLOW DOG" TALK AND ITS REACTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Times says:

"We note with apprehension that on the Pacific Coast—of all parts of the land—there is a small, but perceptible attempt at agitation for the application to the Japanese of the outrageous treatment we have accorded to the Chinese. It has almost exactly the same basis—jealousy and fear of a race which is very efficient, pretty numerous, always saving and willing, especially at first, to work for low wages or low profits. Stories are current of farming industries embarrassed by the refusal of the natives to work with Japanese, and organized efforts to boycott employers or patrons of Japanese.

"If the movement takes shape in the election, there is some reason to fear that it may produce extremely disagreeable results. Probably few of our readers understand completely how far the anti-Chinese policy has gone, or to what ridiculous and shameful denials of principles of common justice and of what we have been used to regard as the fundamental constitutional guarantees of freedom we have committed ourselves, or have been committed by our legislators and our courts.

"Now, it is bad enough in all conscience to enforce such wicked and atrociously unfair rules against a nation like the Chinese, who are practically helpless, or have seemed so until recently; but it will be a very different matter to undertake like treatment of the Japanese, a people marked by a keen sense of self-respect and with a government quite willing and quite able to defend their claims to justice and to decent consideration. Americans who look to a revival of the 'sandlots' movement directed against the Japanese would do well to think twice of their project."

PROTEST TO THE PRESIDENT.

BIG INDUSTRIES REPRESENTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The President held a conference today with about thirty members of the American Asiatic Association, representing the cotton textile industry and the iron and steel trade of the United States. The delegation entered a formal protest against such an enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws as might imperil the export trade of this country with China. It was pointed out that the commercial organizations of China were threatening to boycott the American merchants, especially cotton and steel products, unless arrangements were made whereby Chinese merchants, students, literary men and travelers could enter the United States without the serious difficulty which they now encounter. The Chinese urge that members of the classes which, under our exclusion laws, are permitted to enter the United States are often subjected to inconvenience and humiliation by the immigration officers, and they insist upon a more liberal treatment of the exempt classes of their countrymen.

The delegation was headed by John Ford of New York, secretary of the American Asiatic Association, who said in part:

"Mr. President, the American Asiatic Association is an organization formed to coöperate with this government in maintaining and defending the trade and treaty rights of the United States in the countries of Eastern Asia.

"The occasion of this visit is to invite your attention to the present unsatisfactory relations with the Chinese empire, and the conditions growing out of those, which directly threaten the continuance of a profitable and highly essential part of our commerce. The friendly character of those relations has been of late adversely affected by the absence of a satisfactory immigration treaty between the United States and China and by the dissatisfaction of the mercantile class in China with what they conceive to be the unjust and oppressive operation of the rules adopted and enforced by the immigration officers of the United States in dealing with those of their countrymen whom our laws declare entitled to visit the country.

"The treatment accorded by the immigration officers of this government to the exempt classes of Chinese visiting our country is more oppressive than either the letter or the spirit of the law requires. Moreover, the plainest principles of international comity demand that the law shall be made more liberal either by amendments or by the negotiations of a new treaty or both.

"We urge upon you the extreme danger to the industrial and commercial interests of the United States of allowing the conviction which has been growing for some time in China to become a fixed one, that our government tries to discourage the coming here of the merchants, students and literary men of that country.

"The members of this delegation feel confident that they will not appeal to you in vain in asking that a remedy should be sought for the anomalous and unsatisfactory condition of the existing relations between this country and the Chinese empire."

The President responded cordially. He took exception to the intimation that the immigration officers were too insistent in the enforcement of the law, but in other respects agreed with the delegation that it would be proper for this government to encourage friendly relations with China. He proposed to do all in his power to promote United States trade with China, and to promote generally the export trade of American producers, farmers, as well as manufacturers. He promised to take up the subject with Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor and other officials and to do all possible to remedy the difficulty.

LABOR.

NATURAL DEATH STRIKE'S DOOM.

CHICAGO TEAMSTERS MAKE NO MOVE EITHER WAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, June 12.—The teamsters' strike has come to the stage where it will die a natural death unless new life is injected into it by the strikers. During the past twenty-four hours nothing of any importance whatever has developed, neither side to the controversy having made any aggressive move. According to the employers involved in the trouble, they have succeeded in getting their business almost back to normal conditions. The teamsters are doing absolutely nothing in the strike, not a move being made either for peace or a spread of the difficulty.

The new June grand jury today began an investigation of the alleged charges of bribery in connection with the strike which was left unfinished by the last grand jury. Several witnesses were heard, among them being Fred Sontag, Chicago manager for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Company, who stated that the strike had been called without any special reasons being given by the teamsters. John W. Roach, president of the Union Traction Company, told of the threats made against his company in connection with the delivery of coal by non-union drivers. The investigation will be resumed tomorrow.

EVIDENCE OF BLACKMAIL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, June 12.—Nothing was done today toward a settlement of the teamsters' strike. No negotiations are in progress and there was no talk of any in the future.

Members of the June grand jury, which convened today, were prepared by State's Attorney Healy and Assistant State's Attorney Fake, to listen to a sensational exposé concerning the actions of several labor leaders. It is reported that the investigators, working under the direction of Fake and a police inspector, have gathered evidence of blackmailing plots, against business houses, evidence of efforts to curb competition and of alleged damaging admissions made by the labor leaders.

The teamsters' strike probably will be discussed at the third annual convention of Team Owners' of the United States, which opened here today. More than 100 delegates, representing associations of employers in New York, Boston, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Des Moines, Grand Rapids and Philadelphia, have arrived to participate in the sessions.

LITHOGRAPHERS' STANDARD.

FORM APPRENTICESHIP BOARD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—Officers of the Lithographic Artists, Engravers' and Designers' League of America, which closed its annual convention in this city last week, have made an agreement with the employing lithographers to raise the standard of the trade in this country by forming an apprenticeship board.

The highest class of lithographic work is now done in Europe, but it is hoped that under the new scheme, this country can produce men capable of doing any grade of work. The board will be composed of employers and employés. Boys who desire to become apprentices will be tested as to their ability, will be put on probation for six months and will then be examined again. If their work shows ability, they will become full apprentices.

TRADES-UNION TYRANNY.

AS SANITARY LEGISLATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Post says: "That one "licensed plumber" is sufficient for a firm, is the decision of New York courts. Any other verdict would have made it impossible for laymen, unprovided with registry certificates, to contract to stop leaks. In the long run, we might have had actions brought against the mere tax payer if he presumed to replace a washer in his bathroom tap. The decision sets the limit to trades-union tyranny masking in the guise of sanitary legislation.

"The licensing of plumbers and barbers, while theortically justified on grounds of public health, is practically managed simply as a means of restricting competition in these trades. Thus barbers' license was avowedly means of keeping aliens out of the business, and, indeed, it has put many candidates of that race to their trumps to pass the examination of the commission formed to keep them out.

"Evidently, if this plan of registration were carried out far enough, we should revert to the mediaval system of guild ordinances. Fortunately, the courts stand between the public and Legislatures glad to do covert and unfair favors to trade-unions."

GOMPERS'S GLOWING REPORT.

TRADE-UNION MOVEMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SCRANTON (Pa.) June 12.—The Executive Council of the Federation of Labor opened its session here today. President Gompers submitted a report of the organizing and lecturing tour which he recently made through the West, recounting the growth of the organization and the splendid spirit of unity obtaining among the workmen of the country and their devotion to the trades-union movement and the American Federation of Labor.

There are now affiliated with the American Federation of Labor 116 international trade-unions, 33 state branches, 604 central labor unions, 1043 local trade and federal unions, the 116 international unions having approximately 25,000 local unions attached to them.

Carnegie Didn't Antagonize Union.

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) June 12.—Theodore J. Shaffer, retiring head of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, voluntarily made the statement today that Andrew Carnegie's actions during the Homestead strike of 1892, were in no way antagonistic to the members of the union. Shaffer's statement was occasioned by recent opposition of laboring classes to the acceptance of a gift from Carnegie.

SULTAN REWARDS GERMAN FRIENDS.

INDIVIDUAL MINOR COMMERCIAL CONCESSIONS GRANTED.

Such Actions May Cause France to Abandon Her Attitude of Patience, Thereby Leading to a Crisis—Ashold Regarded by the Sultan as His Guardian Angel.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A dispatch from Fez, Morocco, says:

"German friendship for Morocco has already been rewarded by individual minor commercial concessions. This is regarded in diplomatic circles here as a precedent liable to create complications if other grants follow, because it would change the status quo and perhaps cause France to abandon her attitude of patience, thereby leading to a crisis.

"The Sultan maintains his absolutely independent attitude, while the Moorish officials regard Count Von Tattenbach-Ashold, head of the German mission to Morocco, as a guardian angel. The count is credited with having made numberless statements, among them one in which he is alleged to have told the Sultan that Germany was quite prepared to protect him against France.

"It is said that the Moorish officials are reconciled to the possibility of the proposed international conference being finally vetoed by France and Great Britain, but they believe the proposition will be supported by other powers, and it is further stated that the Sultan is prepared to indefinitely resist the proposals of the French government."

SENATOR MITCHELL'S CASE.

COURT SKIRMISHING BEGINS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PORTLAND (Ore.) June 12.—Skirmishing, preliminary to the real battle between the United States government and United States Senator John J. H. Mitchell commenced today with arguments upon the demurrer interposed by the defense to the indictment charging Senator Mitchell with having, while a United States Senator, accepted money for influencing the United States General Land Department to expedite certain land claims which the indictment contends, were fraudulent.

The gist of the contention of the defense is that the government indictment fails to specify that Senator Mitchell has committed a crime.

After hearing oral arguments, both sides having previously filed written briefs, Judge De Haven took the motion under advisement.

SHIPS DISPOSED OF, ONE BY ONE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VLADIVOSTOK, June 12.—[By Pacific Cable.] A series of interviews which the correspondent of the Associated Press has had with naval officers who survived the battle of the Sea of Japan has developed a most sensational story of the causes of the Russian disaster and the complete demoralization which followed the sinking of the flagship Kniaz Suvaroff and the wounding of Admiral Rojestvensky.

It is explained that not a single officer of the fleet knew the Commander-in-Chief's plans. The admiral in command of the divisions knew no more than the sub-lieutenants, and had to rely solely on signals of the flagship. Admiral Nebogatoff, upon whom the command devolved, had seen Rojestvensky only once after the juncture of their squadrons, and then only for a few minutes.

All the stories of extensive target practice off Madagascar, it seems, were false. During the entire voyage there practically was no training in gunnery worthy of the name, and the big-gun practice was confined to three shots per vessel. Ugly stories are told of the happenings at Madagascar. Some of the crews certainly were untrained in gunnery, and, exhausted by the eight months' voyage under trying moral and physical conditions, were no match for the veteran Japanese, whose marksmanship was wonderful. The Japanese concentrated their fire on one ship until she was placed out of action, and then on another, thus successively sinking the Osliabia, the Alexander III and the Kniaz Suvaroff.

Some ships developed deplorable structural defects. The Osliabia sank without having a single hole below the water line. Heavy seas entered the vessel above the water line, and the water-tight compartments, which were changed several times during the voyage, did not stand the strain they had been calculated to stand, and burst, flooding and heeling the vessel over until she turned turtle.

LACK OF HOMOGENEITY.

Lack of homogeneity among the ships made it impossible to maneuver in harmony. The Vladimir Monomach, the Admiral Oushakoff and the Admiral Seniavin had to lag behind, on that account becoming easy victims. Finally, the ammunition was exhausted after the first day's fighting.

Even on the very morning of the battle, while the buzzing of the wireless instruments on the Russian ships showed that the Japanese scouts were communicating his dispositions to Admiral Togo, Admiral Rojestvensky continued his careless maneuvering. When the Japanese actually appeared, the Russians were caught in an impossible formation, and were attacked on three fronts.

Rojestvensky's position was cramped, and his transports were badly placed, and caused confusion, while the Japanese were raining projectiles, even from machine guns, on the Russian ships, huddled together, blanketing one another's fire. Only the leaders of the columns could bring their guns to bear, and even on those the untrained gunners fired wildly. To make matters worse, the mines and floating torpedoes in the path of the Russian divisions added to the confusion. The Borodino, the Admiral Nakhimoff and the Navarin fell victims to these obstructions.

It is a heartrending narrative that Russia and the world should know. The sailors and officers were not altogether to blame. The main fault lies elsewhere. There were many heroes among the Russians. Capt. Berkh of the Osliabia committed suicide on her bridge as the ship sank, rather than save himself. There were thousands of other heroes whose names the world will never know.

RUSSIANS DISLODGED.

JAPANESE CAVALRY STILL BUSY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, June 12, 6 p.m.—Official announcement is made at the headquarters of the imperial army that a detachment of Japanese cavalry succeeded in dislodging Russian cavalry in the vicinity of Hsiyingtsu, six miles south of Liao Yangwopeng. The transport Thomas arrived from Manila and Nagasaki yesterday, bringing 1222 soldiers. The vessel was out twenty-three days from Manila.

"WHAT A CRIME"
To Talk Against Coffee.

To an ambitious student an ailment that interferes with school and study is very hard to bear.

A bright young girl in Detroit who had been poisoned by coffee, is now pursuing her studies in perfect health. Probably the coffee champions feel she should have continued to suffer and kept on with the coffee, but now and then there are self-willed creatures who insist on getting well by leaving off coffee, deserting the "topers ranks" and joining the Postum army.

"From early childhood till a year ago I was in the habit of drinking three or four cups of coffee every day.

"As I grew older, the bad effects began to show themselves, although I had no idea that it was coffee that was doing the mischief. I became very nervous, and suffered so much from severe headaches that I lost much valuable time from my school and studies. The doctor could give me no relief—he probably did not suspect the coffee any more than I did.

"One day I went to visit a friend, and the coffee they had on their table tasted so good that I asked what kind it was, and they told me it was Postum Food Coffee. My friend said that her mother had been a nervous wreck from drinking the old kind of coffee, but had been restored to health by quitting it and drinking Postum. The whole family were enthusiastic about Postum and advised me to try it.

"I am glad they did for it has given me back my health. At first we did not boil it enough and did not like it, but we soon learned how to make it, and now we all prefer it to the old kind. I have discovered that to stir a beaten egg in the warm milk we use instead of cream gives a most delicious flavor to Postum Food Coffee.

"From the first day I began to use Postum Coffee (I quit the old kind altogether, my health began to improve. My headaches ceased on the third day and have never returned, my nervousness has completely disappeared, my brain seems invigorated and strengthened, and I am now able to study from four to five hours daily, outside of school, and feel no bad effects from it.

"My aunt was sick for five years from coffee poisoning. It was hard work to get her to give up the beverage, but when she did and began to use Postum Food Coffee, she got well almost at once, and is now enjoying fine health.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days' trial proves. "There's a reason."

CITRIC ACID DISCOVERY.

New Method of Extraction from Lemon Refuse.

Means Everything to Sicily and Its Industry.

Testimony in Loomis's Behalf. Lands Withdrawn.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Consul Heingartner at Catania, Italy, reports:

"The discovery of a method of extracting citric acid directly from the waste of lemons is attracting considerable atention in Sicily and Calabra. The discoverer, Giovanni Restuccia, is receiving much praise from agricultural organizations, which hope by this new method to raise the price of lemon refuse, but his discovery has greatly angered those who live by speculation on the transformation of citrate of lime into citric acid. The confidence with which Restuccia speaks of his discovery, as well as the results of experiments made with his method by Professors Korner and Manozzi, give promise that the first trial (which will shortly be made in Palermo and Messina) of extracting more than a ton of citric acid, would be even more successful than expected by the public.

"At a recent experiment made in the presence of Korner, fifty-four boxes of Sicilian lemon waste were used. Prof. Korner, before whom experiments are made almost daily by chemists who think they have discovered new processes, was at first skeptical, but when he saw the substances which were dissolved in the lemon sack precipitated in their characteristic shapes by the reagents discovered by Restuccia, he became enthusiastic. The scientists of Milan (including Manozi, Morizani, and Gobba) were present at the experiments, and when, at the first crystallization, the results were manifestly excellent, the venerable Prof. Korner, turning to Prof. Manozzi, exclaimed: 'We have here the resurrection of Sicily.' The King and Minister have congratulated the inventor."

IN BEHALF OF LOOMIS.

CLYDE BROWN'S TESTIMONY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Before leaving today for West Point, Secretary Taft, conducted another hearing in the Bowen-Loomis inquiry. Clyde Brown, treasurer of the American Asphalt Company, was heard regarding the check which was said to have been exchanged between Loomis and the asphalt company. The testimony of Brown was confirmatory to the contention of Loomis, to the effect that the transaction was a matter of ordinary exchange for the sake of convenience. Brown produced the books of the company, showing the receipt of Loomis's check for $5000 and the payment to him of a check for the same amount calling for American money.

Ira Atkinson, an official of the asphalt company, also testified. He was one of those mentioned by Harry Unwine as probable sources for information regarding a rumor said to have been heard to the effect that a certain check passed through the offices was intended for Loomis. Atkinson denied that he had ever stated such a thing.

GRIP PACKS UP.

GOING BACK TO NORWAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Mr. Grip, the Minister from Norway and Sweden, called at the State Department today to take leave before sailing for home tomorrow on leave of absence. He has not tendered his resignation as Minister. Although a Norwegian, Mr. Grip has not been identified with the separationists.

The Minister informed Assistant Secretary Loomis that his government had sent Mr. De Strade to this country to act as charge d'affaires during his absence, and that until he arrived here Mr. C. Hauge, secretary of legation, will be in charge of its affairs. Mr. De Strade was appointed before the severance of Norway, and is now on his way to this country.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

New Mexico Lands Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Secretary of the Interior has ordered the withdrawal from entry of 1,650,000 acres of land in the Santa Fé and Las Cruces Land districts, in New Mexico, to be added to the Gila River forest reserve.

Walter Ross Interviewed.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Walter Ross, an employé of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey and one of the sons of D. W. Ross, the California man killed by a street car in September, 1902, and whose identity has just been established, said the news contained in the Associated Press from San Francisco, was the first definite information received about his father, although detectives had been employed on the case for five or six months. The widow is living at Los Angeles. Ross was about 65 years of age. The body will be taken to Nova Scotia for burial.

Cutting of Timber.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Reports to the Forestry Bureau concerning the cutting of timber on the forest reserves show that up to date 91,000,000 feet of lumber, 50,000 cords of wood, 513,000 railroad ties and 36,000 posts have been disposed of under the supervision of the bureau officials.

Anti-Tribal Tax Delegates.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Hitchcock today presented the Muskogee anti-tribal tax delegation to the President, but before they could present their case, the President informed them that he had gone over the matter thoroughly with the Secretary, that he agreed entirely with him, and that he considered the maiter closed. The delegation then withdrew.

Rubber Reduction Plant.

BUENA VISTA (Colo.) June 5.—The second rubber reduction factory in this State, following hard on the discovery of the Colorado rubber plant, will commence operations in this city on June 15. The new plant will have a capacity of thirty tons a day of crude rubber, and will employ 250 men, paying them 2 cents a pound for picking the weed from which the rubber is obtained.

The discovery of real rubber in the ordinary rabbit weed of the plains has opened a new industry to Colorado that is far-reaching in its effects. Millions of tons of the weed grow wild in this and surrounding States, while its product is fully equal to that obtained by incalculable labor and constant danger in the South American forests. The plant contains 20 per cent. of pure rubber, and hot water and maceration are all that is necessary to separate it from the refuse. A half dozen other factories are planned at various points in the State, and all will probably be in operation before the end of the year.

CASE OF GAYNOR AND GREENE.

MONTREAL, June 12.—T. Chase Casgrain, counsel for John F. Gaynor and D. B. Green, has petitioned Judge Hall in chambers to be allowed to furnish security for their appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from the decision of the King's Bench, maintaining the judgment of Judge Davison, who declared that Extradition Commissioner Lafontaine had jurisdiction in the present case, and who rejected the writ of prohibition taken against the commissioner by counsel for the accused. Judge Hall will render judgment tomorrow.

HONOLULU REPUBLICANS SPLIT.

HONOLULU, June 12.—The Republican nomination for County Sheriff of A. M. Brown, whom Gov. Carter removed in October last, has caused a split in the party. The Civic Federation, with the support of the administration, has nominated High Sheriff Henry for County Sheriff, whom Gov. Carter had made Brown's successor. The Civic Federation has also nominated supervisors opposing the regular Republican ticket. The election will take place June 20.

SMALLPOX RAGING IN CHILE.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Smallpox is increasing and the lazaretto is filling rapidly, cables the Herald Valparaiso, Chile, correspondent. There are today more than a thousand patients scattered all over the city. The disease also is ravaging other cities. In Junin, a little nitrate port situated near Pisagua, bubonic plague broke out recently and is causing great alarm. The inhabitants are fleeing.

PRESIDENT'S SOUTHERN TRIP.

NEW ORLEANS, June 12.—A letter from Secretary Loeb fixes October 24 and 25, as the dates upon which President Roosevelt will visit New Orleans. Arrangements are already under way to make the President's reception a brilliant affair.

NORWAY TO APPEAL TO OTHER POWERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHRISTIANIA, June 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Former President Loeviand of the section of the Norwegian Council of State at Stockholm, who will be inducted into his new office of Foreign Minister of Norway June 15, in an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press today said that a special envoy, within a few weeks, would be dispatched to the great powers to seek the recognition of the diplomatic and consular representatives of Norway. Regarding the probable difficulties to be encountered, he declined to express an opinion, but said that the envoy would convey the best wishes of Norway to the powers, and would go to them with the highest hope as to the successful result of his mission.

"When our case is presented to the powers," said Loevland, "it will be seen that it is not one of antagonism to the people of monarchies nor to a single monarchy. Norway has been a Kingdom for many centuries, and is proud of the fact. The dissolution of the union was purely on constitutional grounds. Our constitution existed prior to the union with Sweden, and when there came a conflict between the two peoples, Norway chose to retain her constitution.

"The action taken by the Storthing is irrevocable, and the powers should realize the fact that Norway will fight before this action is reconsidered. The question of peace rests with Sweden, but the early recognition of our independence will be of interest to the powers, as well as to ourselves."

Loevland said he thought that Norwegian interests would not suffer during the interim in which the country would not be represented abroad. Fortunately, he said, Norway's biggest trade was with Great Britain, Germany, the United States and France, where for a short period consuls were not indispensable.

RUSSIANS TO GET A PARLIAMENT IN FALL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Russian experiment in parliamentarism will begin in September. The Associated Press is now in a position to make this positive announcement. The Emperor has already given his approval to the scheme now being finally but formally reviewed by the Council of State, for a legislative body consisting of a lower house, called the Gosudarstvennaia-duma ("imperial duma") and an upper house, Gosudarstvennaiasovet, or the present Council of the Empire, with power to formulate legislation, discuss the budget, interpellate ministers, etc., but reserving in the Emperor's own hands the final authority. The elections will take place during the coming summer.

Although the scheme clings with desperation to the essence of autocracy, it marks the beginning of the end. The die once cast, there can be no retreat, and the quasi-parliamentary régime which will be inaugurated will prove to be merely a transitory bridge over which absolutism must cross to constitutionalism.

Peace and a constitution appear simultaneously on the Russian horizon. The proclamation of the Parliament, either in the form of a manifesto or as a ukase, will be promulgated within a few days.

Prices on the Bourse today were strong and trading was active on the peace prospects. Imperial 4s rose a full point.

SORRY THEY TOOK MONEY.

Angels Find Saints Cannot Use Their Coin.

Something Doing Every Minute and All Free.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Why did we bring any money with us? It is no good here. Even the usually autocratic street car conductor, who would not even extend credit to the President of the United States, passes us by with a mild indulgent grin and the jerking of an eloquent thumb toward the splendiferous badges we wear. You wish to send a telegram by Western Union or Postal? They take your message and shove your money back. "Excuse me, but your coin isn't good," they say—and turn smilingly to an office boy, with the command: "Rush this."

It is necessary that you use the telephone. You step into a place and ask permission to use the 'phone. You get out your dented nickel and poise it in readiness at the lip of the slot. Instantly, a dainty hand grasps your—O Joy, your wrist—and a silvery, clerkly voice exclaims in pained remonstrance: "Why, you can't pay; you're in Salt Lake!" And while you are blinking dazedly she gently takes the receiver from your feeble clutch and sweetly warbles through the 'phone to central the magic words "Los Angeles."

You put your dented nickel slowly back in your right-hand lower vest pocket, and, taking the receiver from her hospitable fingers, try hard to recollect the message you meant to speak. Not even may you pay for telephone service to distant points in the State. Both companies have thrown their lines open to the free use of Southern Californians to any point in Utah.

The truth is, Salt Lake is putting it all over Los Angeles in the matter of open-handed, warm-hearted hospitalities, not because that they are any more glad to have us with them than we were to have them with us—for that would be impossible—but they have more ways of playing host than we were able to think up. And their stunning liberality has made a big quick hit.

ARRIVED IN SECTIONS.

The first section of the special, carrying 110 State, county and city officials, a few Los Angeles and Southern California business men and representatives of the Los Angeles press, was hauled up and laid to early this morning on the desert one hundred-odd miles out of Salt Lake to wait for the second section to catch up, in order that the complete train might arrive at once. But this was not to be.

After dawdling along an hour or so, it was discovered in some mysterious way that the errant section would not catch up before afternoon. And then a mighty, though good-natured, howl of protest arose against this dallying on the edge of the promised land.

Some genius unearthed from the bowels of the train the fact that there remained in the commissary just enough food to feed one meal to the hungry horde of first-sectioners. The larder was hastily devastated, hot cakes being alluringly displayed on china plates in place of bread that was not; and with quiet but firm determination the dining-car conductor announced that inasmuch as a few pickles and a handful of prunes were all that was left, no lunch would be served on board.

Of course that decided it. District Freight and Passenger Agent J. L. Moore and H. S. Twining, superintendent of Pulman-car service at Salt Lake, both of whom were on board, consulted with Ferdinand K. Rule and all three put their official heads together on the wire at a neighboring station. The substance of what they said was that the proximity of pickles and prunes made it advisable to bring the first section right away into town. Back flashed the answer: "Come along."

Thus it was we arrived in the historic capital of the Mormon empire soon after 11 o'clock in the morning, while the remainder of the party did not get here until nearly 3 this afternoon.

WARMEST OF WELCOMES.

The warmest of welcomes to the more than three hundred Californians was expressed in the size and cordiality of the Reception Committee at the depot, every member of which was on hand in spite of the vexatious changes in the programme for arrival; and every one of them had brought along, it seemed, ten or a dozen enthusiastic citizens to make the welcome ring.

A diverting incident of the arrival of the first section was the antics of City Auditor Louis Schwabe, County Surveyor Leo Youngworth, Assemblyman W. H. Wickersham, L. A. Houser and John Nightingale, who, dressed up outlandishly in colored nightgowns, gaudy pajamas and other nondescript apparel, and, accountered with rattler made of tin cans and buckshot, leaped upon the end car at the end of the station and bore down with shrieks of gibberish upon the startled and dumbfounded Salt Lakers. Dismounting and being quickly surrounded by a big crowd, they danced the Highland fling and sang in chorus to the air of "The Bowery," the following composition in Hebrew dialect by Louis Schwaabe:

"We are known as he corky band;
Ve haf came to Salt Lake to shook de glat hand;
Vat? Vat? Va-a-t?"

All this was very amusing for a little while, but not quite so funny after it had been kept up through the city all day. It was like one discordant note in a splendid piece of music.

GET KEY TO CITY.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon luncheon was served to the first section passengers at the Salt Lake Commercial Club, on West Temple street. The clubrooms were handsomely and gracefully decorated with flags, flowers and plants. In one room, set aside to the purpose, Los Angeles city officials sat down to luncheon with members of the Salt Lake City Council. Here short talks were made, and Mayor Richard P. Morris delivered to Dr. W. A. Lamb, as Mayor McAleer's representative, a prodigious key emblemizing the gift of the freedom of the city.

At 4 o'clock, the second-section passengers having arrived and been duly welcomed, the entire party was taken by street cars, carriages and automobiles for a drive through the city and on out to the reservation, where dress parade by the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry was witnessed.

A scene to stir the blood was this. On the sloping camp ground high up among the hills, with the twin peaks of the Wasatch Mountains lifting their burdens of snow 14,000 feet toward a cloudless sky, with the grove-like valley slumbering far below and the Great Salt Lake a glimmering sheet in the distance, to the music of the regimental band and under the high-flung folds of the starry flag, marched and drilled and countr-marched 350 white-helmeted soldiers in the uniform of the United States army. Click of gloved palm on thigh, flash of clockwork rifles and crash of the grounding of arms, glitter of swords and sparkle of lace and rippling on the steady breeze the noblest banner of them all—what wonder a man's blood ran fast and pride of country sent the warm flush to his cheek?

DAY'S CROWNING EVENT.

The crowning event of the day was tonight's reception at the Commercial Club, where 500 of the best men and finest women of Salt Lake gathered in gala attire to honor their friends from the South. Gracing the assemblage were Gov. Cutter and his brilliantly uniformed staff. The occasion was presided over by ex-Gov. Wells, as president of the Salt Lake Commercial Club. In a brief and easy speech he bade the Californians welcome. Maj. J. O. Koepfli responded fittingly for Los Angeles.

Senator W. A. Clark ran into a small storm of applause when he bowed in acknowledgment of his introduction. In extending "a royal welcome" he remarked that for himself, he was never so happy as when in the mighty West, among a crowd of westerners; for westerners, he said, are men who do things. He traced briefly some of the historic events that entered into the early annals of Utah, and coming on down to the present day, he opined that Salt Lake is the greatest smelter center in the western country, and that the metal deposits in the State are sufficient to insure permanency of prosperity for ages to come. He congratulated Southern California on the great success achieved there, and made no doubt that she will be sending her commercial fleets out from San Pedro harbor to the trans-Pacific marts of the Orient.

THE ROAD'S FUTURE.

Adverting to the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, the Senator said that it is opening under most favorable auspices and is now a decided success. He gave the pledge that early in the coming fall the Salt Lake route will establish a through limited service both ways between Chicago and Los Angeles, with "the finest trains that skill and money can procure."

A. W. Skinner of Los Angeles responded briefly, tendering the hearty thanks and warm appreciation of his fellows.

The Hon. R. C. Kerens of St. Louis, a director of the Salt Lake Road, said he had traveled as far as Las Vegas, and he considered the Salt Lake the finest new railroad in the country, one capable of handling any amount of traffic.

In behalf of Utah, Gov. Cutter made a neat speech of welcome, and Judge O. W. Powers of Salt Lake closed the addresses with a witty talk.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) the visitors are to be taken on a tour of inspection of the Murray smelter and the Bingham mines, distant respectively from the city ten and eighteen miles. In the evening, an elaborate programme of music will be carried out at the Mormon Tabernacle.

FORTS REPEL FLEET'S ATTACK.

BALTIMORE STILL SAFE FROM DICKENS'S BIG GUNS.

Vigil of Searchlights of Artillery Defenses at Fort Monroe Rewarded by Blowing up of Destroyers, a Battleship and a Cruiser When Enemy Attempts Surprise.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

FORT MONROE (Va.) June 12.—The vigil of the searchlights of the artillery defenses here last night was fruitless. None of the units of Admiral Dickens's fleet was disclosed. His presence at Fort Howard also indicates that he did not emerge through the capes, as was expected.

Just before daylight, a small craft was discovered by a searchlight, which at first was taken to be a destroyer making observations of the position of the lights. Closer scrutiny showed the craft to be a fishing boat. This constitutes the only reward of the night's work.

The practice of the searchlights was declared most satisfactory. Their range, however, is far short of the twelve-miles channel available to Admiral Dickens, and the supposition is that he could have run the capes and proceeded to Washington and Baltimore from the ocean unobserved if he had so selected.

DID THE UNEXPECTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BALTIMORE, (Md.) June 12.—In an extra edition, the American gives the following account of the attack on Fort Howard:

"Admiral Dickens did the unexpected thing by making an early morning attack on Fort Howard and the other local fortifications, and three torpedo-boat destroyers were theoretically blown out of the water by the artillerymen stationed at Fort Howard. Two of these answered the description of the Worden and the Whipple, while the third was either the McDonough, the Stuart, or the Lawrence.

"Promptly at midnight, scout boats were sent out from the local fortifications. At 12:15 o'clock, these boats signalled the artillerymen at Fort Howard that the 'enemy' was approaching, and all the men at the fort were immediately called to the guns.

"Almost simultaneously, the men were warned of the approach of the boats by the signals at Sandy Point. The searchlights at North Howard, Selwood, Armistead and Carroll were headed down the river and very soon a destroyer resembling the Worden was detected coming up the river at full speed.

BLOWN UP BUT PROCEEDS.

"Five minutes after receiving the first signals, the men at Fort Howard opened fire on the approaching destroyer with rapid-fire and short-range guns. While the Worden was theoretically blown up, she proceeded past Fort Howard and on up the river. The other forts immediately got their guns into action and all took turns in shooting at the approaching 'enemy.'

"About fifteen minutes after the approach of the first of the 'enemy's' fleet, another destroyer, evidently the Whipple, was discovered. This vessel suffered the same fate as the first. The third destroyer made its appearance, and, like the other two, was 'sunk'.

"The first boats endeavored to run by the forts without making any demonstration, but the one in the lead was soon put out of commission by striking a mine. This was signified by ringing a bell at Fort Howard.

"The third boat, though put out of commission, opened fire on all four of the forts, and the sight was a most interesting and exciting one. Broadsides were fired by the third destroyer when it reached a point between Port Armistead and Carroll. No lights were used on any of the boats and the fire from the guns was an imposing sight.

SENT TO GET RANGE.

"It is believed the destroyers were sent on ahead of the rest of the fleet to get the range of the forts, draw the fire and ascertain whether the men were at their guns.

"Later, a fourth destroyer was discovered and 'sunk.' Then the battleship Texas made a frontal demonstration and from Seven Foot Knoll fired her big and little guns at Fort Howard. While the Texas was making this demonstration a swift cruiser made a flank movement and went up the bay towards Poole's Island.

"It was discovered in the nick of time by the men at Fort Howard, who fired on the ship. The fire was returned and after a lively skirmish the gunners at the fort theoretically sent both the Texas and the cruiser to the bottom.

"After the battle, the cruiser sent up a rocket and then a red and white light and directed her searchlights toward the forts.

SLEEP AT THE GUNS.

"After the ineffectual attack upon Fort Howard, the 'enemy', as the attacking vessels are known, withdrew and steamed down Chesapeake Bay to join the rest of Admiral Dickens's squadron, off Sandy Point.

"The attack this morning will not cause the local garrisons to relax the vigor of their watch, as there is nothing to prevent Admiral Dickens attacking the city again.

"The garrison sleeps at the guns, one third of the troops being at the guns all the time, while the remainder rest in tents erected close to the guns. At the least alarm, the 'call to arms' is sounded and every man rushes to his post. Col. Frank Thorpe, the battle commander, and all the officers remain at the guns, the same as the men. All meals are served at the emplacements of the guns."

NO ATTACK YET TODAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

FORT MONROE (Va.) June 13.—Up to 1 o'clock this morning, Admiral Dickens has made no attack on Fort Monroe and nothing concerning the movements of his fleet during the eleven hours are known here. Conditions are favorable to him, as rain has been steadily falling since shortly before dark and in consequence the searchlights at the fort and its outlying stations are less effective than they would be in clear weather.

There is reason to believe that the conferences between Prince von Radolin, the German Ambassador to France, and Premier Rouvier have shown that Germany does not make an international conference on Morocco, a sine qua non. This permits the consideration of other direct means for an adjustment between France and Germany.

Wesley Hannon and John Smith, two well-known miners, have been found dead at the mouth of the tunnel of the Cashier mine, a mile above Eureka, Colo. It is believed the men were caught in a snowslide, which occurred two weeks ago. Both men were advanced in age and single.

John Welch, who was convicted Saturday of an attempt to commit murder, in attempting to kill Policeman Pate of Red Bluff, recently, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Ellison to serve twelve years in Folsom Prison.

To Pierce the Range.

MONTEZUMA (Colo.) June 5.—Another attempt is to be made to bore the Rocky Mountain range, west of Denver, for a mining and railway tunnel, this time by a syndicate incorporated for $2,500,000, and known as the Colorado Big Bore Tunnel, Mining and Milling Company. The scene of the company's efforts will be in Summit county, near here, and the tunnel, as planned, will be three miles in length and large enough to admit of the passage of railway trains.

This will be the second huge tunnel to be bored in Colorado, and the third longest in the world, the two others being the great Simplon tunnel, through the Alps, and the Newhouse bore, in Clear Creek and Gilpin counties, of this State. The time necessary to drive a big bore working from both ends, is but half of what it was ten years ago, owing to the perfection of rock boring devices. The Simplon tunnel, for instance, is twelve miles in length, and was completed in eight years. The American Newhouse has been pushed three miles in four years, and Cripple Creek capitalists propose a five-mile drainage tunnel, to be completed in four years. The bore in this county will be completed in three years.

The site of the new tunnel is historic in the annals of mining, for Teller Mountain, to be penetrated by the big bore, produced the first silver ever taken out of Colorado.

MISSISSIPPI'S FLOOD TEN MILES WIDE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

HANNIBAL (Mo.) June 12.—The flood in the Mississippi has spread over all the unprotected lowlands, and is from five to ten miles wide between here and Keokuk, Iowa. Near Alexandria, Mo., a farmer was drowned and seven other persons are reported missing.

Great numbers of carcasses of live stock are floating past Hannibal. From Alexandria, Canton, Memphis, West Quincy and Keokuk, reports have been received of the general loss of live stock. The flood came so suddenly that the farmers in the lowlands had no time to do more than save their families.

The river continues to rise here at the rate of three inches an hour. An army of men is at work in the lower portion of Hannibal, endeavoring to save property. The railroad yards and factory district are inundated. All available boats are making trips up and down, the river, rescuing persons who fled to points above the water line.

Many of the small levees have broken. The property loss already suffered, it is estimated, will run into the millions.

WITTE MAY MAKE PEACE FOR RUSSIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 12, 4:30 p. m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Russia's official reply is now on its way to Washington. Foreign Minister Lamsdorff transmitted it to Ambassador Meyer. Later, the Ambassador had an interview with the Foreign Minister at the Foreign Office.

12:25 p. m.—M. Witte, president of the Committee of Ministers, will leave St. Petersburg for a trip abroad in two weeks. This very significant announcement is coupled with the statement that he is going "on public business." His visit is instantly associated with the peace negotiations. It is possible that Emperor Nicholas has decided, if a reasonable basis for negotiations is offered by Japan, to make use of the services of the ablest and strongest personality in the empire.

It being Monday, the papers print only telegrams today, but the Novoe Vremya makes room for a remarkable editorial, which may be inspired, deprecating optimism among diplomats at the present movement, "unless Japan, under the slogan of 'Asia for the Asiatics,' should recognize that Russia—in her origin, history and destiny—is an Asiatic, as well as European power, and be ready not only to conclude peace but an alliance." The Novoe Vremya adds that it has always "preached the doctrine that Russia is the bulwark of Europe against the 'yellow peril.'"

The editorial attracted instant attention. The paper dwells on the idea that Russia, barred from the west, and following inexorable laws, must spread eastward to reach her natural boundaries, and warm water, refers to the case of her conquest on her right flank over the tribes of Turkestan and Central Asia, and concludes: "If Japan can only recognize that Russia must remain an Asiatic power, as well as herself, a durable and permanent peace is possible."

The reformers breathed a sigh of relief over the announcement in the Gazette that M. Pobiedonostseff, Procurator-General of the Holy Synod, has sufficiently recovered his health to go abroad and try a course of treatment.

THE SECOND STEP.

The warring countries both having formally agreed to try to conclude peace, the next step, it is explained here, will be the first direct exchange, in which Japan is expected to take the initial step by indicating, doubtless through an intermediary at Washington, her views as to the time and place of the meeting. Russia will offer no objections to any reasonable suggestion in this respect. It is proposed to at once issue instructions to her preliminary plenipotentiary, whose personality for the moment depends upon the place of meeting.

A statement is now made that M. Witte is going to Berlin to meet Prince Arisugawa, who represented the Emperor of Japan at the wedding of Crown Prince Frederick William, but no confirmation of this can be obtained. In the public mind, M. Witte stands out prominently as the one Russian statesman who should direct the peace negotiations. But an intimate friend of the Russian statesman assures the Associated Press that he knows M. Witte has not been approached on the subject.

M. Witte is thoroughly familiar with the Far Eastern question in all its bearings. He understands the Japanese position and fully realized, before the war, that the aggressive policy being pursued under the lead of Viceroy Alexieff and Bezobrazoff, president of the Yalu Timber Company, and the coterie of adventurers connected with them would drive Japan to take up the sword. At one time he talked over the situation with the Marquis Ito. Practically it was M. Witte's disapproval of the Far Eastern policy and the creation of a viceroyalty in the Far East which caused his downfall.

WITTE WELCOME TO JAPAN.

During his trip to Port Arthur in 1899 M. Witte was invited by the Japanese government to visit Japan. Japan therefore would probably welcome his selection to conduct preliminaries in behalf of Russia, knowing that they would be dealing with the Russian statesman who best understands the situation and who is most likely to reach an agreement mutually advantageous. Last summer, while M. Witte was Chancellor Von Buelow's guest at Norderney, Hanover, he is said to have seen M. Kurino, former Japanese Minister to Russia, and it is added they both agreed that the war should be succeeded not by peace, but by an alliance.

Russia's official reply will be printed in the official messenger tomorrow or Wednesday.

At the Foreign Office this afternoon the Associated Press was informed that Japan's indication for the time and place for the meeting of the plenipotentiaries will be expressed within twenty-four or forty-eight hours at the most.

Russia's plenipotentiary, continued the informant of the Associated Press, will be clothed with full power to receive Japan's terms and give Russia's answer, which will involve power to conclude a temporary suspension of hostilities. Such suspension will probably be limited to from three to six days, in which time Russia will decide whether it is possible to proceed. According to the Russian view, it is impractical to attempt to inhibit the movement of troops or supplies during the armistice.

FEARS OF BROAD GAP.

Fears continue to be expressed that there will be a broad gap between Japan's minimum and Russia's maximum. Diplomatic fencing is now the order of the day.

2:10 p.m.—All the attempts to create an impression that there is the slightest hitch in the preliminary negotiations are absolutely without the shadow of foundation. Foreign Minister Lamsdorff has forthally notified several of the powers that a meeting of plenipotentiaries to see whether it is possible to agree to terms of peace is assured.

Now that Rusia has received formal notification that Japan has sent an official and favorable reply to President Roosevelt, the Russian official reply will be forwarded, and the Associated Press feels it is in a position to state positively that the reply will fully respond to the President's message. There does not seem to be the slightest warrant for the gratuitous idea which some correspondents are putting out, that Russia is only desirous of ascertaining the Japanese conditions, and at the same time gain a better position for her army in Manchuria.

LONDON PRAISES PRESIDENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 13.—Glowing tributes to President Roosevelt's successful diplomacy again occupy the foremost place in the London morning newspapers. The Morning Post, in an editorial, characterizes it as both a personal and a national triumph and declares that no other man would have ventured to even attempt what the President has achieved.

Continuing, the Morning Post says: "No President since Lincoln has so impressed himself on the imagination and respect of Europe and Asia. His success implies acknowledgment of the moral position America holds in international politics."

The Daily Chronicle calls it the splendid beginning of the President's determination to pursue a "world policy," while the Daily Telegraph, again insisting on the absolute sincerity of Russia in the negotiations, says: "The pessimists fail to take into account the position of President Roosevelt. He is the last man in the world to allow himself to be made a fool of, and any affront put upon him by either belligerent would be most wanton and inexplicable foolishness."

Dispatches from Tokio report that the Emperor presided yesterday at an imperial council which included all the ministers of state and forty high military and naval officers, but not a word of information is published here except that emanating from Washington.

It is understood that the great powers are actively engaged in exchanging views on the situation, and, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, Emperor William is communicating direct with Emperor Nicholas.

PARIS PESSIMISTIC.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, June 12.—Opinion in official and diplomatic quarters here is becoming rather pessimistic as to the outcome of the peace movement, owing to the St. Petersburg dispatches, showing the reserved attitude of Russia, and the activity of the war party.

A special dispatch to the semi-official Temps today says the influential Russians forming the 'war element are making a strong rally being reinforced by a protest against peace telegraphed from the field by Gen. Linevitch and all the division commanders. However, the Temps adds, the civilized world "continues to support the energetic yet prudent efforts of President Roosevelt to put an end to the terrible slaughter."

The Russian officials here reflect a view similar to that obtained in the dispatch to the Temps, saying that a great deal remains to be determined upon before a definite accord is arranged.

Baron Rosen today called at the Russian Embassy, where he had a long talk with Ambassador Nelidoff and received a number of dispatches. There is no indication concerning his part in the negotiations. Ambassador Meyer, who is an old friend of Baron Rosen, is keeping in close touch with him.

URGING LENIENT TERMS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 12.—In the absence of the Cabinet ministers and ambassadors at country places for the Whitsuntide holidays, nothing further was ascertainable here today respecting the British action in support of President Roosevelts' efforts to bring about peace negotiatnons between Russia and Japan.

It is understood that besides cordially supporting the steps taken by the President to bring the belligerents together, the British government is urging its ally to submit the most lenient terms which Japan can consider.

Five-mile Motor Record.

OGDEN (Utah) June 12.—The world's competition five-mile motor record was broken tonight by E. B. Heagreen of Salt Lake on the Glenwood saucer track. The time was 5:59 3-5, which is 23 4-5 seconds faster than Heagreen's former world's record, made in Salt Lake City last June. The rider lapped the other two riders three times.

SIDE TALKS BY THE OFFICE BOY

The old man told me Saturday night just before he left for Salt Lake that if I'd give you some good ads while he was away he'd put a little baking powder under my salary when he returned. We had a great joke on him a few weeks ago; I was just itching to tell you about it, but was afraid he'd get sore at me, but now he'll never know it. You see his wife was away and we found out his birthday was on the 18th of May, so all the boys and girls in the four stores arranged to surprise him. He's an awfully hard man to buy a present for; he won't wear jewelry, and of course he's got everything in the store that men wear, so we discovered that he was fond of raisins and carnations, and we just filled his rooms and his office with boxes of raisins and big bouquets of carnations. He didn't say much, but he was awfully pleased. I guess the reason he's so fond of raisins is because he always made a practice of raising every employee's salary at least once a year. Did you read yesterday's ad where I said we were trying to make this the biggest week's business in all four stores we've ever had, just because he's away? Come in and buy a hat or a shirt, a necktie, or some article just to help the boys surprise the old man. Now, be a good fellow and come.

"THE MAGIC CITY" LAS VEGAS.

And presently this new-born city of Las Vegas, in the desert of Southern Nevada, may be expected, under the fostering care of this new railroad, to take a strong hold upon the interest, both sentimental and practical, of the American public.

Because it is unique it contains within itself the conditions that favor a free and general advertising of its attractivenes. Newspapers must mention it because the public want to hear about it.

The railroad itself has given a new and powerful impulse to the development of the gold mines of Nevada and the new city must of necessity be the entrepot through which the important traffic of supplying the mining camps and transporting their product will have to pass. From present indications it is not a reckless utterance of Western bombast to predict that Nevada may soon become the closest rival of South Africa in the production of gold. The stupendous magnitude of the ledges at Bullfrog and Tule Cañon is not yet realized by the country. Their relatively insignificant streaks of very high grade ores are all that attracts general attention because under present conditions that is all that can be shipped, but mining men competent to estimate their value are amazed at the vastly greater wealth contained in their enormous bodies of low grade ores and they see in them a suggestion of the great gold reefs of low or medium values from which South Africa's $90,000,000 a year is steadily coming.—[Fitz Mac,' in Denver Post, June 5, 1905.

Investors in lots at the present prices will reap fortunes in the near future. We have nearly 500 lots purchased from the railroad company at far below auction prices and are prepared to sell them at a low figure and on such easy terms that anyone can afford to purchase. Now is the time to buy if you would reap the greatest profits.

BIND INVALID IN A CLOSET.

Wife of Former Policeman Victim of Burglars.

Detectives Are Disposed to Doubt the Story.

Suddenly awakened from a deep sleep about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the gruff voices of two men, Mrs. Margaret Alexander of No. 1214 Birch street found herself bound hand and foot while burglars were ransacking her house.

At least that is the story told of his wife by William E. Alexander, colored, a former police officer who explained the affair to detectives because Mrs. Alexander is a helpless paralytic and unable to talk.

Alexander says he was absent from home nearly all of yesterday afternoon, and when he returned he found the bed, where he had left his helpless wife lying, empty. After searching the house Alexander says he found his wife in a closet bound tightly and with a garment bound around her face. At first she was unable to speak, but later explained by signs that she had been asleep and when she awoke she found her hands and feet tied and could not see on account of a bandage over her eyes.

Two men addressed her and told her if she would remain quiet she would not be injured. Then the men lifted her up and placed her in a closet while they proceeded to ransack the house. The burglars secured $80 and a gold watch.

Alexander was formerly connected with the police department, but the tentacles of the Ascot Park race track octopus closed about him and he was discharged from the force.

Detectives McKenzie and Cowen investigated the alleged burglary and found the house in a state of great disorder. Blindfolded as she was, the helpless woman could not see the burglars, and no description of the men could be secured. The police regard Alexander's story with some skepticism, though they think the stricken woman has been victimized by someone.

VETERAN THIEF CAUGHT IN THE ACT TAKES POISON.

Detected While Shoplifting, Roberts Swallows Morphine Before San Francisco Police Can Seize Him. Bank Wrecker Bigelow Breaks Down on Arrival at Prison.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Edward Roberts, a veteran thief, who had served numerous terms in local jails, was detected while shoplifting today, but before he could be turned over to the police he took poison that caused his death within a short time. His body was taken to the morgue.

Roberts was caught taking a package of playing cards in a local stationery store. He was seen by one of the employés of the store to place the cards in a specially constructed box carried under his arm.

When charged with the theft, Roberts admitted the crime, but said that he preferred death to arrest, and would commit suicide if an officer were called.

When a policeman was sent for Roberts carried out his threat, and clerks who grappled with him could not prevent him taking a portion of the contents of a bottle of morphine. Roberts became unconscious before an ambulance from the Harbor Emergency Hospital arrived, and he died when placed upon the operating table.

BIGELOW BREAKS DOWN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) June 12.—Frank G. Bigelow, the former Milwaukee banker, who was brought here last night to begin his ten years' sentence in the Federal prison, is in the hospital. His nervous condition is such that Dr. Thomas, under whose care he is, fears a general physical breakdown. After Bigelow had been photographed early today, his condition was found to be such that it was decided not to put him through the other preliminaries until later. Bigelow utters no word of complaint.

GOLL PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) June 12.—Henry F. Goll, former assistant cashier of the First National Bank, today pleaded not guilty to an indictment containing thirteen counts. Goll was in the custody of the United States Marshal. Goll furnished the amount of bail required later and was released.

ROBBED ON STEAMER.

BOSTON MAN MINUS SECURITIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BOSTON, June 12.—A robbery involving the loss of $120,000 in securities by Henry W. Comstock of Boston, which occurred on board the steamer Puritan during her trip from New York to Fall River last night, was reported to the police authorities of this city today.

The securities, which included twenty-two certificates of stock of various railroads and of the United States Steel Corporation, were taken from under a pillow in Comstock's stateroom by some one who it is believed, had climbed through a window. The securities were received by Comstock in a business transaction at a New York hotel Saturday, and it is suspected that some one who witnessed the incident followed the man on board the boat and then committed the robbery.

Shortly after Comstock had reached this city he received a telephone message from New York telling him that he could regain the lost property by paying a suitable amount of cash.

Comstock believes that the deed was carefully planned by more than one person.

"I believe that I have been made the victim of a conspiracy," he said. "I think I shall be able to get back the securities by offering a nominal sum of money."

Comstock is wealthy, having wide interests in railroad and mining property.

EXCITEMENT AT CONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—In a shooting gallery at Coney Island, early today, Sylva Steadman, while chatting with a friend, accidentally pulled the trigger of a rifle he was holding, and shot Joseph Ryan, the gallery attendant, in the face. The bullet tore through his face, and he will probably die. The young woman was held by the police on a technical charge. Much excitement was caused among the crowd about the gallery.

CRIMINAL BRIEFS.

ZIMMERMAN'S TRIAL BEGINS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MARTINEZ, June 12.—The trial of John Zimmerman, who, it is claimed, was one of the two highwaymen who held up Daily and Roche at Stege, and relieved them of $10,000, being conveyed from the Central Bank in Oakland to the Standard Oil works at Point Richmond, was commenced today in the Superior Court. A full jury has been secured, and the taking of testimony has begun.

BLOODY BATTLE WITH RUSTLERS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BLACKFOOT (Idaho) June 12.—Later reports from Jackson's Hole country indicate that the recent battle between ranchers and outlaws was more sanguinary than was indicated by earlier reports. It is now stated that six persons were killed—four outlaws and two ranchers. Several horses were killed during the fight, five being shot down in one spot. The ranchers, it is reported, succeeded in recovering the cattle which the outlaws were attempting to drive away.

HILL APPEARS FOR PATRICK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ALBANY (N. Y.) June 12.—David B. Hill, attorney for Albert T. Patrick, convicted and sentenced to die for the murder of William M. Rice, appeared before Chief Judge Cullen of the Court of Appeals today and asked for permission to make a motion for a reargument in the Patrick case. The matter will be submitted to the court tomorrow, when a decision will be handed down. If the court decides to permit a motion for a reargument, it is likely that the whole matter will go over until next fall.

CORRIGAN ROAMING AT WILL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SUISUN, June 12.—While the police of every town, village and hamlet in California have been watching the highways and by-ways for the murderer of Corrigan, a quarryman who was supposed to have been killed near here last Thursday night, Corrigan has been roaming about the country with J. Gillespie, the man who was supposed to have taken his life. The news was immediately communicated to Sheriff Keys of Suisun, who has been working night and day trying to locate Gillespie. That official now declares that he has a clew that in a few days will result in the arrest of two men for the murder.

CARD PLAYERS STABBED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

REDDING, June 12.—Early yesterday morning, Doc Rhodes, a resident of Pit River, fatally stabbed Dan Winkle, at Burney Valley. The trouble grew out of a card game. Rhodes escaped into the hills, but was captured this afternoon.

Ye Cunning Craftsmen

Of the Los Angeles Furniture Co.

In verity this splendid new building of ours is the HOME of the Los Angeles Furniture Company. For, apart from the shell of steel and brick and plaster it is the work of our own skilled artificers.

The entire scheme of finishing and decorating was devised in our Designing Department under the supervision of Mr. A. W. Harris.

The wood carving that is freely used throughout the building is every whit hand-work, by our skillful workmen.

The vast quantity of cabinet work in the offices, all the enclosed cabinets on the luxuriously appointed second floor where the draperies, curtains, hangings and upholstery materials are displayed, is an example of the workmanship of our force.

Coming to the special rooms you will find the paneling, the mantels, the tinting and decorating, the upholstery and carpeting, the framing and gilding is all the work of our artisans.

And there is one whole room finished throughout in fumed oak which is genuinely fumed—not stained, but treated by our own process whereby every fiber of the wood is penetrated with the coloring fumes.

Thursday, Let Us Greet You....

We are proud of the new home. There is not its equal anywhere. We are anxious that you should see it Thursday, our Opening Day. Most of the men long identified with the Los Angeles Furniture Company will join in doing the honors.

First, there is a building the like of which has not been built for housing furniture.

Then, there is a display of furniture, of carpets, of curtains and upholstery materials which is quite out of the ordinary.

And we remind you again, that the entire finish of the building is one continuous testimony to the ability of our skilled craftsmen.

NO HOPE FOR THE SUDDEN.

Part of Vessel's Cargo of Lumber Washed Away.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

SANTA BARBARA, June 12.—The barkentine Robert Sudden is still hard aground on the beach off Surf. While she has not been beaten to pieces by the waves, there is no hope of saving it from destruction.

A part of the vessel's cargo of lumber has been washed away, but a good deal of it can be recovered.

All of those who were on board at the time of the wreck are being well cared for, and are well, showing no evidence of their unpleasant experience.

EDISON MAKES STIFF FIGHT.

The big fight on between the Edison Electric Company and the Merchants' Electric Light and Power Company for supremacy in this city is now at its height. The Merchants' company lately organized has started work on its plant, and the Edison company is making strenuous efforts to dissuade it from its purpose, and still control the light and power situation in this city, as it has done in the past. The popularity of the Edison company agreeing to furnish light to everybody at a 10-cent price is great. The fight has now gained the attention of other cities, where the Edison company is doing business, and the Santa Barbara situation is watched with interest. The Edison company also appreciates the fact that if the Santa Barbara merchants are successful, some of the other large or more cities in Southern California where the Edison is doing business may go and do likewise.

The latest move of the Edison people to defeat the aid of the bankers of the city. Several private meetings of representatives of each of the banks have been called, and it has been agreed to accept terms from the Edison people which would be satisfactory to the merchants of the city, if possible, with the view of having the new company enter the field.

Rates have been issued by the Edison company, granting a cut of over 50 per cent. to merchants for electric lighting, and using promises of better service when Kern River power is introduced and the construction of a new power line, to whip the merchants into line. The final vote on the subject is to be cast by the directors of the new company on Thursday, but it is doubted that they will retire, after all the fight their plant have been made.

HIGH SCHOOL SCANDAL.

Trouble is pending in connection with the reappointment of teachers for the city schools, if the plan of Lou C. Walker, of the High School, is carried out. Walker is accused by President Hayward of the school board of making the offer of a bribe of $50 for Hayward to retain the teacher for another year.

The matter was not made public until Walker published a letter he had written the trustee, in which the latter is upbraided for making such charges.

Hayward denies ever having made them, and threatens to bring action against Walker. Walker is a son of Stanford, and before coming here a year ago, had been in schools in Colorado. President Hayward, in speaking of the trouble, said:

"On Saturday, May 27, that letter came to my office. We talked over matters for a time and I learned that he liked the position and wished to remain with the schools. He asked me what I thought of his case for reelection, and I told him I could not say, that the board had made no decisions as yet, but I considered that he stood well with the members of the board and that there would probably be no trouble. He again asked me if I thought he would be elected, and I answered practically the same reply. Then he said:

'Now you are a gentlemen who can keep a secret,' and I replied that what was coming, and he added:

'Then I give you $50 if you will vote for my reflection.'

I was astonished that I scarcely could say, but I told him that I could not go up against the wrong and that I did not believe there was a member on the board that could be."

GIRL STRUCK BY CYCLE.

Miss McDonald of this city was struck by a motorcycle about 8 o'clock last night on Upper State street. She was rendered unconscious for a time. She was taken to Cottage Hospital with a broken arm, her head badly cut and other parts of her body bruised.

CORONADO BEACH.

Yesterday's arrivals in Tent City included Arthur Baker, Denver; and Mrs. R. M. Patterson, El Paso, Tex.

MINES AND MINING.

UNWATERING NEVADA MINES.

SEARCHLIGHT PROPERTY OF THE DUPLEX TO OPERATE.

It Has Been Idle Eighteen Months and Lower Levels Were Flooded. Quartette Begins Shipping Ore to Smelter—Los Angelenos to Work Victor-Paymaster.

One of the most important enterprises now about completed in the Searchlight district, is the unwatering of the Searchlight mine of the Duplex Company, which had been shut down for the past eighteen months and had become filled with water on the lower level. There were 1380 feet of workings affected on the bottom level and the water rose ninety-five feet in the shaft.

Now the unwatering is about finished, only two feet remaining in the shaft after six months of continuous milling, which has used up the water. It is the intention now to immediately explore the fourteen-foot vein, which was split into in the long north crosscut. This, so far has carried very small values, but from what the work done in the higher levels has revealed, it is thought likely that an excellent shoot of milling ore will be opened by drifting.

The latest reports say that another rich pocket was opened last week on the first level that produces ore even exceeding the value of that found some weeks ago, which ran $13,800. The ore is specimen rock and very pretty with wiry gold shot all through the rock.

QUARTETTE WILL SHIP ORE.

The Quartette mine at Searchlight is expected to commence shipping ore to the smelter this week. Apout 150 tons will be shipped each month if expectations are realized, only such ore as comes from development on the lower levels being sent.

The fact that this mine is producing smelting ore and is getting better with depth is taken as another indication of the permanency of the Searchlight district, which is showing at is best, at a depth where so many camps played out entirely. Many well informed men express the conviction that the district is to be one of the longest-lived districts.

H. Amos Perkins has resigned as general manager of the New Era Company, and has been succeeded in that position by the president, Dr. W. R. Gosewisch. Mr. Perkins has been general manager ever since the company was organized. An assessment of 2 cents that is now veing levied is to go toward further development to a greater depth.

E. K. Woods, Charles Vanina and E. B. Scott, owners of the Ophir, have entered into a sixty-days' agreement and contract with W. F. Smith, J. W. Daulton and G. J. Strodeloff of this city, by which the latter agree to immediately organize a company and operate the property. The claim is an extension of the American Girl.

A. M. Jones of Los Angeles and A. Taylor of Chicago have purchased the Pittsburgh group of claims, a mile and a half north of the Wall Street at El Dorado Cañon. They expect to begin development work at once, and John Howe, who negotiated the deal, is to be in charge of the work.

The Gold Coin Mining Company of this city is making excellent progress and getting gratifying results from the Saserac group at Dupont, where from four and a half to six feet of solid oxide ore have been found on the 100-foot level. Sinking is in progress and it is expected that 200 feet will be attained by July 1. The company has just let a contract for an additional fifty feet of drifting on the 100-foot level.

TO OPERATE VICTOR-PAYMASTER.

A company of Los Angeleños, headed F. R. Hamilton, has acquired the Victor-Paymaster mine in the Mineral Park and Todd Basin section of Mojave county near Kingman. The mine is to the west of and on a parallel vein with the Vanderbilt where an exceedingly rich strike of ore, said to run $28,000, was made recently on the 175-foot level and 100 tons believed to average $1000 per ton are on the dump. Another rich strike is reported to have been made lately at the Prosperity mine near this property and ore worth over $100,000 has been blocked out.

The Paymaster mine has not been worked for the last two years, the former owners having become involved in difficulties that forced a suspension. When operated, the mine was only partly prospected, but is said to have shipped no ore of less than $125.

The Guggenheims are reported to be interesting themselves in Mojave county, and to be acquiring considerable property. There is also a rumor that a smelter may be built by them at Parker.

TO REVIVE THE VULTURE MINE.

Development is to be recommenced on the old Vulture mine near Wickenburg near the line of the Arizona and California Railroad. The mine has been shut down for some time, but representatives of the company owning the property have been on the ground for the purpose of arranging for a resumption. Machinery for a hoist has been ordered and a spur will be put in to connect with the railroad.

FEDERAL EXPERTS TEST PUMP PLANTS.

DETERMINE the real efficiency and operative cost of private pumping plants for purposes of irrigation. Department of Agriculture, by C. E. Tait, and assisted by U. J. Le Conte, of the University of California, and Prof. R. S. Woodford, are carrying on a system of research experiments at Pomona.

The object of these investigations is to determine whether or not the private pumping plants are costing more for the water which they give than would be charged by power plant to be distributed power to individual consumers within an area of some such city as about Pomona.

It is stated by the experts in charge of the work that the water being delivered to the farmers too high, the excess of cost lies with the inefficiency of the individual motors. This can be ascertained by a series of exhaustive experiments, ascertaining the amounts of water discharged and the acreage covered by the respective outfits.

At Riverside another series of interesting experiments is being carried on for the purpose of ascertaining the percentage of irrigating water lost by evaporation from the surface of cultivated orchard soils. Studies are also being made on the relative merits of deep and shallow furrows, in their relation to evaporation, by ascertaining how much more moisture escapes into the atmosphere from the shallow furrow. In addition to this, a study is being made of what becomes of the water after it percolates into the soil, and its course downward and laterally will be carefully traced.

This work is in charge of Dr. R. H. Loughridge, of the University of California, who is being assisted by Prof. J. E. Roadhouse, of the San Luis Obispo Polytechnic, while the entire work on the coast is in charge of Samuel Fortier, representative of the Department of Agriculture.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

"A Drinking Bout."

A "Literary Symposium" yesterday afternoon held the closest attention and most outspoken interest that has been given by the members to any of the programmes supplied by the Ebell's own talent for some time.

The symposium was arranged by Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, whose bright sayings and clever expositions of the many phases discussed strung the various talks together in a most entertaining and agreeable manner.

Before the main questions were taken up Mrs. Bartlett said that she thought such an affair would be lamentably incomplete without a tribute paid to the book which was the bugbear of childhood, the illumination of youth, and the prop of middle age, the book which with the Bible and Shakespeare formed the trinity of literature—the dictionary.

In that she had sought the definition of symposium, and she said she had been greatly surprised to find it that it meant a drinking bout, "but it will not be very far wrong to apply it this afternoon when we hope to partake together of a feast of wit and flow of soul.

"If Pope be not too much out of date to quote," she continued, "we could recall his words advising us to 'drink deep or taste not of the Pierian spring;' but that advice is exactly opposed to the standards of literature today."

Mrs. Harriet Wright was introduced and took that department of literature called "belles lettres." "What is belles lettres?" Mrs. Wright had heard a young man of her acquaintance inquire, and she thought that was the general attitude of the present day, but it had not been always so, she assured her audience, and she read an interesting paper upon the various elements constituting the mysterious subject.

Discussion formed a major part of the literary afternoon just as the mistress of ceremonies intended that it should, and many clever hits were made by the members.

Mrs. Eugene Pettigrew gave a fine talk on "The Influence of the Novel Upon Literature." This influence she thought was almost wholly for good, as the novels of the present day took up real life and gave us true pictures thereof.

Most interesting was Mrs. McCoy's dealing with the "Influence of the Newspaper Upon Literary Life." Mrs. McCoy had interviewed two prominent men upon this topic and they had given her different opinions, which she in turn gave to the club.

Rev. Robert J. Burdette approved of newspaper training as a valuable preparation for literary life, newspaper workers being trained in the clear, concise statement of facts.

Dr. Brown, editor of the Chicago Dial, one of the finest literary publications of the day, holds the opposite opinion in regard to the newspaper preparation. He says it is the very worst of all because the work is such hasty work, and the main idea is to supply the rushing demand for copy, for good, live things which will interest every person who reads the paper instead of producing some piece of literature that will live.

Mrs. Lou V. Chapin gave a trenchant accounting for the magazines of the day as they affect literature. She denounced fiction of the current magazine as absolutely unworthy of serious attention, and provincial to an outrageous degree wherein one is called upon to enjoy anaemic New England old maids. She thought that Mary Wilkins and her ilk had not struck the highest note of literature. "Literature is something larger," said Mrs. Chapin, "and appeals to the great human heart of the whole world and not of a little corner of it." This fiction in the magazines is largely read as a substitute for thought, said Mrs. Chapin.

The discussions were lively and spirited and the symposium was voted an unqualified success.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

BEFORE YOU BUILD

LOOK OVER OUR PLANS

A short while ago we completed one of our handsome apartment-houses for a client of ours. The house is filling up rapidly with a fine class of tenants, and we are about to start another building for the same party.

He says his experience has shown him that Los Angeles has not half as many first-class apartment-houses and flats as the demand requires.

We make a study of the arrangement of our interiors to meet the demand of tenants. When you consider that our two-room suites, with buffet kitchens and beds built in the wall are equal to the usual four-room suites, there is a saving of expense in the cost of building, as well as an income equal to the amount of an older style building twice the size.

20-acre ranch near Fullerton, Orange county, Cal. If you are looking for one of the best ranches with the very best improvements, in the very best part of the world, this ranch should suit you exactly.

There are on the ranch 20 acres of oranges, mostly Washington navels and Valencias, of which eight acres are in full bearing, and 12 acres just coming into bearing; 25 acres are set to English walnuts, for which the land is admirably adapted, and 5 acres are in grapes just beginning to bear, the remainder of the land is in corn, barley and other crops. The soil, which is principally a black sandy loam, is very rich and productive, and in high state of cultivation. Trees and vines are very thrifty and in first-class condition. Ten shares of water stock in the Anaheim Union Water Company go with the land. Cement reservoir, ditches, etc., for use in case of an emergency.

The building is a very elegant 10-room, 2-story, modern house. Halls and dining-room finished in solid oak and beautiful inlaid floors. The Times already has one, and in several instances two scholarships, in every one of the foregoing institutions, and the list may be augmented later on.

There are plenty of good schools open to those who have the money to pay their tuition and incidental expenses. The question is: Have you the means to attend the school of your choice?

If you are not so fortunate as to have your school expenses provided for the coming year, The Times will give you the opportunity to earn a scholarship and money for incidental expenses.

The How, The When, The Why.

To stimulate an interest in the educational institutions of California, particularly those of Southern California, and to make an opportunity for self-supporting pupils to provide for next year's schooling, by engaging in pleasant and profitable employment during the summer vacation, The Times will inaugurate on June 26 a scholarship contest which will be carried on during the months of July and August.

Contest Advances Education.

This contest will be conducted on the same general plan as those conducted by this paper during the four preceding summers. About 140 students who have been successful in these several contests testify as to the value of the scholarships to them and as to the benefits which they derived from the experience gained by participation in the contests. The educational institutions which have joined in these yearly efforts agree that they have been greatly benefited. And many of the leading teachers and educators have expressed the opinion that the Times Scholarship campaigns have been most effective in arousing a popular interest in the cause of education.

Times Graduates Successful

The schools have been most proud of the energetic young people who have won entrance through The Times contests, as the qualities which make winning candidates make superior students. The winning candidates who have already completed their courses in the schools have found good places in the world of business and affairs. These successful young people have written The Times letters expressing appreciation for the excellent treatment which they have enjoyed from the schools which they attended, from the newspaper which devised the means for their education, and from the interested and indulgent public which contributed to their first and present success. Some of these letters will be published during the next few days.

Scholarships As Required.

Just how many scholarships will be offered as prizes to be competed for in 1905 will depend somewhat upon the number of eager competitors and the degree of enthusiasm manifested by them. Every year The Times has increased the number of scholarships as the campaign proceeded and the number of candidates multiplied. Last year there were 42 scholarships awarded, although at the outset about the same number were offered as are printed above.

Only the best schools and best special instructors are admitted to The Times lists. There will be something choice for every successful competitor, whether it be a literary, scientific, classical, commercial linguistic, an art or a music course that is desired. Intending contestants should immediately address a letter to the Scholarship Manager advising him as to what schools or studies they wish to take.

Cash Prizes Are Added.

The scholarships, whose cash value runs into the hundreds of dollars, will not be the only prizes at stake. The Times will supplement a number of the scholarships with cash prizes to help defray the student's incidental or living expense while attending school. The cash prizes themselves will make it worth while to compete. This cash offer will make scholarships in State institutions where tuition is free, if such are selected, very attractive. It greatly enhances the value of the scholarships in the private schools, in some of which tuition is beyond the reach of people of ordinary means. Besides the scholarships the fifteen students who finish in the lead will receive cash prizes approximately as follows:

1.	Grand Capital Prize—to be named later.
2.	Cash with second choice of scholarship	$150
3.	Cash with third choice of scholarship	$125
4.	Cash with fourth choice of scholarship	$110
5.	Cash with fifth choice of scholarship	$100
6.	Cash with sixth choice of scholarship	$90
7.	Cash with seventh choice of scholarship	$80
8.	Cash with eighth choice of scholarship	$70
9.	Cash with ninth choice of scholarship	$60
10.	Cash with tenth choice of scholarship	$50
11.	Cash with eleventh choice of scholarship	$40
12.	Cash with twelfth choice of scholarship	$35
13.	Cash with thirteenth choice of scholarship	$30
14.	Cash with fourteenth choice of scholarship	$30
15.	Cash with fifteenth choice of scholarship	$30
	Total Cash Awards	$1000

Plan of Distribution.

The grand capital prize for the student who wins first place in the contest has not been decided on. But it will be commensurate with the effort which it costs that student. Last year it was a cash prize of $200 and a four years' scholarship in Whittier College.

The contestant having the highest score at the close will have first choice of all the prizes. Second highest will have the second choice and so on to the bottom of the list.

Anyone May Nominate

Any patron of The Times may put in nomination for this contest a student he deems worthy between the ages of 10 and 21 years. If the patron has no candidate himself he may help a candidate already in the field by seconding his nomination. To do this fill out the nomination blank printed in The Times every day, as indicated by the blank, and send this to the student himself or to the Scholarship Manager, The Times Building.

Awards Must Be Earned.

Through the combination of rewards above outlined, any boy or girl has an opportunity during the summer vacation to earn cash and a scholarship. Values from $75 to $400. At the start it must be understood that these rewards are to be earned. This contest is not a free gift distribution, nor is it a lottery or game of chance. It is to be a competition in which tact and work and business ability will count for more than mere luck.

Preference to Students.

Salesmen are used in the circulating department of every daily newspaper. The Times gives preference, in selecting salesmen during the school vacation months, to ambitious and deserving students who want to work their way through a course of study.

Instruction in canvassing and in managing a campaign will be given to the beginners in The Times scholarship contest.

All men who attain distinction in active affairs develop the very faculties that are discovered, brought out and trained in a student who enters The Times scholarship contest.

How Points Are Counted.

After the contest opens on June 26, every subscriber to The Times will be entitled to a certain number of votes for some scholarship contestant, in proportion to the amount prepaid on subscription. The schedule of votes will be published in a later announcement.

The work of the contestants will consist in rounding up subscribers, both old and new, and securing their votes. More votes will be allowed on new subscriptions than old, as it will only be through increase of its circulation that The Times will receive return for its large outlay of cash and scholarships. The more new subscribers the contestants can find, the more votes for them.

Beginning on Monday morning, June 26, a daily coupon will also be published, which will be good for one vote for whomever it is voted. The score will be made up each day from the number of coupons and subscriptions turned in, in favor of each contestant, and will be published every morning, so as to show just what progress the contestants are making.

Results Rest With Students and Public.

Scholarship contests are almost self-governing. Democracy begins with the nominations. Any patron of The Times has the power to enter in the race for one of these life-benefits the young person whom he considers most deserving. A nominating blank is printed on this page for the convenience of those who have in mind worthy candidates between the ages of 10 and 21 years. Anyone wishing to supplement his nominating vote with a letter setting forth the necessity, merits and special qualifications of his favorite may do so. Address all communications to the Scholarship Manager, The Times Building.

Between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock p.m., every day except Sunday, the Scholarship Manager may be found on the Fourth Floor of The Times Building. He is ready to advise and instruct those who think of entering The Times scholarship contest of 1905. Prompt attention will be given to out-of-town correspondence.

TIMES SCHOLARSHIPS, HOW TO WIN THEM.

Hazel Burke, Resourceful Contestant of 1904, Tells Beginners How to Conduct Campaign—Gives Proofs of Experience.

THE TIMES has asked every one of the forty-two successful scholarship contests of 1904 for a statement of his progress during the last year. The interest evinced in all the contests is proof that the public does not want to lose sight of the persevering young folks who win in these exciting campaigns.

The first reply to arrive is from Hazel Burke, 625 Court street, Los Angeles, who carried off the sixth prize in 1904. The being there first was one of the qualities for which this young lady distinguished herself in the last scholarship contest. Her ready answer to The Times inquiry shows that she keeps up that practice, even in matters of good-fellowship, where her own interests are not at stake. Not competing for a scholarship herself this season, Miss Burke offers to advise and help beginners in this year's contest.

LOS ANGELES (Cal.) June 9, 1905.
Mgr. "Times Scholarship Contest," Los Angeles Daily Times, City. Dear Sir: I again wish to thank the Times-Mirror Company for the advantages I have had in acquiring a business education.

The contest of 1904 not only afforded me an opportunity of placing a great many more names on my list of friends and acquaintances, but the experience I have gained has been indispensable to me. It has given me a practical view of business life in a manner that is immeasurable. A business man knows how to appreciate a person who has earned his own education; he realizes that he is more practical and more competent to be trusted with the interests of a business house than those who have had no experience.

The scholarship of my choice was, as you know, the Southern California Business College. I have taken the bookkeeping course and am now in that of the shorthand. The teachers and courses of study I regard as the very best, and when I finish I have quite a number of positions at my disposal, offered me by influential business men I met, for the first time, during the contest.

I have noticed that some of the contestants imagine that the people, in a way, look down upon them. I, myself, have failed to find that impression. The faculty of the Southern California Business College welcomed me as heartily as if I had made my presentation with a full year's tuition in cash, and my helpers during the contest always seem glad to see me. I think it pays to keep up the acquaintance of the business men who helped me. I call on them once in a while to let them know how I am getting along, and they always give me some word of encouragement, which I value highly. Inclosed are a few letters that I have received from some of them.

My experience along these lines has given me an advantage over those to whom it will probably be new this year, and to those I might give a few pointers that would prove valuable to them. To these suggestions I know I owe the greater part of my success.

First—System. Without system you cannot expect to succeed. When I first started out I tried to remember appointments and addresses without making a written memorandum, and of course I failed. Then I purchased a small book which would fit in my bag and wrote down all addresses and time at which I was to call. By evening I usually had one or more pages filled, then with the help of my father I would make out a list for the next day, consequently I knew exactly where I should go on the morrow and at what time I should be there. My names were arranged in order so as to save as many steps as possible; not alphabetically, but in the order of a route. A great deal of time and energy is wasted unless your work is systemized. Don't go down to Sixth street and then come back to Second and then probably meet a party at Fourth. Plan out your course of action so as not to retrace your steps any more than is absolutely necessary.

System is the first point and neatness the second.

A clean, smiling face in a neat, plain frock will win thousands where a discouraged, dirt-begrimed countenance in a soiled dress wonders "why on earth they don't have the success that some of the others do." Don't, whatever you do, grumble at your hard luck (you are sure to strike some discouraging days.) Keep that to yourself and if a person asks you how you are getting along, look pleasant and tell him that you are doing as well as could be expected.

Last, but not least, do not approach a business man as though you were bashful or frightened. A man admires straightforwardness and self-command. If you enter an office, do so in a brisk, quick manner and close the door noiselessly, say "Good morning, sir," and state your name

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Good Shepherd Opening.

The House of the Good Shepherd at West Pico street and Arlington avenue will be open to the public from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Thursday.

Death of Herr Von Kiener.

Herr Karl von Kiener, privy councillor to the crown of Austria, recently died at the age of 80 at Vienna, Austria. Herr Von Kiener is the father of Capt. Charles Kiener, civil-service examiner of this city.

Fined the Japs.

The four Japs who were arrested on Sunday evening for engaging in a free fight in which they slugged two detectives, were tried before Justice Rose yesterday on a charge of disturbing the peace. Joe Kusi and M. Kojima were each fined $10, and S. Kojima and K. Mori $25 each. The Japs smiled and paid the cash.

Collided at Crossing.

A car of the Pasadena line of the Pacific Electric Railway Company collided with Dr. A. F. Schiffman's automobile late yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Fairmont avenue and Mission street, South Pasadena, and damaged the machine so that it had to be taken to the shop. The car was moving at reduced speed when Dr. Schiffman, who was accompanied by a lady, attempted to cross the tracks in front of it, but misjudged the distance. No one was injured.

Dive is Raided.

Mock Chuck's infamous dive at No. 218 East Second street, which has figured in police circles periodically for years, was the scene of another police raid last night. Woo Chong, a local knight of the green cloth, has recently been doing a land-office business in lottery tickets in the place, and last night a drawing was in progress when Patrolmen Ingram, Moore and Riley surrounded the joint. Without ceremony a barred window was smashed with a sledge hammer and the Chinks were taken by complete surprise. Over 2000 lottery tickets were seized and Chong was arrested.

Anti-trust Suit.

Argument was begun yesterday afternoon in Judge Welborn's court on an interesting suit, having to do with the provisions of the Sherman Anti-trust Act. It is a suit brought by the Sun Drug Company against the Hardman Drug Company, the F. W. Braun Company and the Western Wholesale Drug Company, with other associated firms. The Sun directors allege that because these wholesalers were not allowed to dictate retail prices they have refused to sell to the complaining firm, and are unlawfully endeavoring to prevent the complainants from procuring any goods whatever.

The Boys Were There.

A crowd of Times newsboys went to the Grand Operahouse last night. Manager Baker always saves a place for them where they can see, hear and give the best vent to their righteous emotions when the hero at last lays the villain low. Last night the applause was especially thunderous—when there's a wronged woman in the play you know, these young Lochinvars rush to a vocal rescue with tremendous vigor. The boys stayed until the last of the audience was leaving, looking eagerly at the darkened footlights for a reappearance of the mighty Buhler, and holding an impromptu reception of their own in the gallery lobby.

By Little Players.

The recital given by Mrs. James G. Ogilvie's little players at Cumnock Hall Saturday afternoon was one to gladden the hearts of child-lovers and all persons interested in advanced lines of education. It was children's day. Children ushered, children were flower bearers, and children—the youngest of whom was 6, the eldest scarcely in her teens—played a programme of Bach, Jensen, Reinecke and Schumann in the manner of experienced players. A large and delighted audience greeted the little players, who were Mary Brodbeck, Lucille Miller, Flora Taner, Earl Desmond, Margaret Stockard, Mildred McClure, Mildred Lewis, Margaret Miller, Evelyn Lull, Adelaide Gosnell, Hazel Crabill, James Holt and Jack Morrow.

BREVITIES.

The volume of "Liners" in the Sunday Times has become so great that it is found necessary to ask patrons to get their Sunday advertisements in earlier; especially Sunday real estate announcements, which in order to be printed must be in the office not later than 10 o'clock Saturday nights. The printing of all real estate matter, inducing advertisements, in a part by itself on Sundays involves somewhat slower press work, making it essential, in order to get the paper out on time, to stop receiving real estate ads at 10 o'clock Saturday nights. Dealers will confer a favor on The Times office if they will turn in Sunday copy on Fridays, when possible; or at least a part of it, and the balance early on Saturdays. Sunday "Want" ads will still be received by phone and over the counter until 11 o'clock Saturday nights.

The ladies' rest room on the top floor of the new wing of The Times' Building is open daily from 9 to 5. Ladies from town or country will find this a convenient place to write, rest or read. Stationery provided for correspondence. Both 'phones available. Take elevator in business office. All are welcome.

Advocates Chinese Diet.

If the efforts of Miss Alice M. Fuller, lecturer on domestic science, are successful the principles of Chinese cookery will soon be introduced into American culinary art, and this nation rescued from the throes of dyspepsia. Miss Fuller recently gave to her pupils in the high schools in Union Hill, N. J., an illustration of the digestible character of mushroom chop suey, foo yan don and gem get at a banquet at a Chinatown restaurant. "Chinese dishes," said Miss Fuller, "are combinations of the most digestible food put together so that all the nutritive properties are easily assimilated. Many vegetables used by the Chinese have been imported and are being grown on a great farm on Long Island owned by a Chinese company."—[New York Herald.

BARILLAS TO LEAD REBELS.

Delaying Action Against President of Guatemala Until He Gets His Health Back.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Manuel Dieguez, a Guatamala lawyer and revolutionary candidate, put forward by Barillas, ex-president of Guatemala, for the Presidency of the Central American republic, is said to be hurrying to San Francisco from Southern Mexico to join Barillas and party here.

Members of the local Guatemala colony believe that Barillas and his adherents have decided upon this city as a rendezvous, pending developments that may give them an opportunity to filibuster against the administration of President Calvera.

The Call says today that Barillas has announced to several friends that he will lead a revolutionary party against Calvera and that he has simply delayed action until he can recuperate his failing health which, he says, is one of his reasons for coming to San Francisco.

Cows Lay Eggs.

Seems as though there were more substitutes now than during the Civil War. A corporation with a capital of $6,500,000 is making eggs, warranted "strictly fresh," out of casein, which is made out of milk. Thus the cow lays eggs, so to speak. As yet, however, she does not displace the hen. Casein eggs won't hatch. Will star-eyed science yet make them hatchable and consign the hen to the museum?—[Everybody's Magazine.

CHILD'S SHOT AWFULLY TRUE.

Kills Her Friend and Wounds Her Young Brother.

Tragic Accident in Humble Los Angeles Home.

Girl Playfully Aims Gun with Heartrending Result.

"Raymond said he would kiss Mabel and Claudie said she would shoot him" This is the lisped prattle of Claudine Coin's baby sister in explanation of a most heartrending accident.

Raymond Coin, a boy of 14, and Mabel Cooper, a girl of 11, torn and bleeding, their garments saturated with gore, were rushed to the Receiving Hospital yesterday afternoon, riddled with bird shot, fired from a gun in the hands of the sister of the boy, who is two years younger than he.

Pathetic in the extreme is the fact that the sweet girl who fired the shot has for three years been "Little Mother" to the brother who was shot and to the tiny sister who lisped the story of the kiss, and a close friend of the girl who fell wounded unto death by her prank.

In a little green cottage at No. 733 Semple street, A. R. Coin, a carpenter, has been living with his three children, Raymond, aged 14; Claudine, aged 12, and a second girl, aged 7. Three years ago the mother died, and the responsibility of caring for the baby fell upon Claudine, when not in school, and for the past five months she has been the mother of the household.

The father, while earning a livelihood for the family, though his house is plain outside and common in the extreme inside, showed affection for his children in having provided a mechanical piano for their entertainment, the instrument appearing much out of harmony with the surroundings.

Yesterday afternoon after school had been dismissed William Cooper and his sister Mabel, the former 15 years old and the latter 11, stopped at the home of the Coin children to enjoy the piano. William seated himself at the piano in the inner room, while his sister sat on the arm of a rattan chair by a window in the outer room, in full view of the piano.

The children were romping to the music, when Raymond ran and perched himself on the vacant arm of the same chair occupied by Mabel, exclaiming playfully:

"I'm going to kiss you."

Claudine, hearing the remark, in the same playful way, said:

"If you do, I'll shoot you."

Suiting the action to the word, she ran into a back room and came out with a double-barreled shotgun. She stood behind the boy, who sat on the piano stool, pointed the gun through the dividing door toward the chair occupied by her brother and her friend. Supposing the gun to be empty, Claudine pulled the trigger and was horrified to hear the awful report and see Mabel Cooper reel from the arm of the chair and fall to the floor apparently dead, with some of the shot through her brain, while Raymond with the whole fore part of his head torn away, fell into the chair.

Instantly pandemonium reigned in the little home where a moment before had been mirth and music.

The brother of the wounded girl, and the sister of the boy who weltered in his life's blood, shed through her childish thoughtlessness, were more paralyzed than frantic, while the little baby sister could only cry.

But the report of the gun and the crying of the children instantly caused a rush of neighbors to the cottage. Black and white, they rushed in and in loud lamentations bewailed the awful sight that met their gaze.

THE HORROR OF IT.

Somebody carried the news to the residence of Mrs. Florence I. Cooper, mother of Mabel, who lives at No. 2834 Glassell street, and she with her grown daughter, Helen, hurried to the scene.

Mabel was a handsome and very popular little girl, and the coming of the mother upon the scene where her son wept over the body of his sister upon the bare floor of the cottage, was the signal for a new outbreak, particularly on the part of the colored people in the crowd.

Mrs. Cooper is a large and fine-looking woman, widow of John F. Cooper, and while she now supports her family as the agent for a sugar company, she was formerly an organizer for the Fraternal Brotherhood. Miss Helen is a tall and handsome young lady, and as the two entered the cottage their ears were filled with heartrending lamentations.

There were all sorts of professions of affection for Mabel, who seems to have been a special favorite in the neighborhood, and there was some disposition to condemn poor, heart-broken Claudine, who had been the innocent cause of the calamity.

Mrs. Cooper, whose grief may be better imagined than described, as she stood over the form of her idolized child, quickly quelled any disposition to criticise Claudine.

Later in the afternoon Mrs. Cooper said to a reporter of The Times, while the tears streamed down her face:

"Mabel is my little girl, and my heart is broken for her, but Claudine's heart is broken, too, for she was a dear friend of Mabel's, although I did not know her. The children frequently stopped at Coin's house on their way home from school, for they were very fond of music.

"Willie told me that he was playing the piano when Claudine came in with the gun, and as his back was toward her he knew nothing about it until he heard the report.

"If Mabel dies she dies, and if she gets well she gets well, but I want you to say for me that my heart breaks for Claudine as it does for my own child, and she has my sympathy, for I know how she must suffer. The accident was the result of the merest child's play, and I have no thought of adding anything to her suffering."

The two wounded children were hurried to the Receiving Hospital and placed in the hands of the surgeons, being accompanied by Mrs. Cooper and her daughter. The latter had been heroic in helping to handle the two, but when she had seen them delivered on the operating table, a look of wild horror seized her; she rushed from the place and sought her mother in the private office of the detectives, there to await an announcement upon which every fiber of their natures was intensely strained.

The child Claudine was taken to the office of Capt. Bradish in a conveyance sent in the hands of Detectives Cowen

TWELVE MOBES FOR COMMITTEE.

VISITING CONGRESSMEN WHIRL ABOUT THE TOWN.

Depart for the North Greatly Pleased With Their Reception in Los Angeles—Memory of the Most Informal Greeting of All Down in the Heated Belt.

In an endeavor to make them forget, for the moment, that they are serious-minded personages, bent upon a momentous mission full of research and hard work, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce yesterday insisted that the entertainment of the visiting Congressional Committee on Irrigation be purely informal. And so it was, but every minute of their short stay in Los Angeles was made to count.

In the brief space of time measured between the hours of 9:30 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, it was their privilege to see Los Angeles as thoroughly and as satisfactorily as a superb combination of human means and mechanical expedients could make possible.

Before 9:30 o'clock the visiting delegation had all gathered at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, where they were welcomed by a reception committee of that body, consisting of F. Q. Story, O. T. Johnson, W. J. Washburn and C. B. Boothe. After a few minutes devoted to an inspection of the trade and industrial museum, the Senators, Congressmen and their wives and the attachés of the party were seated in twelve automobiles and taken out for a whirl through the city, visiting the outlying residence districts, and spinning out along the principal residence drives, returning for lunch at 12:30 o'clock.

The line-up of automobiles was as follows: O. T. Johnson in his car, with Gov. Pardee, Senator Newlands and J. S. Slauson.

Homer Laughlin with Senator Du Bois, Congressman Jones and F. Q. Story.

F. O. Johnson with H. E. Huntington, Senator Frank Flint, J. B. Lippincott and Congressman Mondell.

J. P. Fay with Congressmen Reeder, Cooper and McLachlan.

Dr. J. R. Haynes with Congressman Kahn, Judge J. I. Parker and C. B. Blanchard.

A. J. Wallace with James Horsburgh, Jr., J. C. Kirkpatrick, Prof. Anderson and G. A. Parkyns.

Willard Stimson with A. R. Briggs, Arthur Ruhl and J. W. Erwin.

W. J. Washburn with Mmes. Jones, Cooper and Parker.

C. B. Boothe with Mmes. Blanchard, Brown and Reeder.

After the drive the gentlemen were put down at the Jonathan Club, and the ladies were taken to the California Club for luncheon. The club quarters had been placed at their disposal, and they were welcomed by Mmes. J. B. Lippincott, Frank Flint, C. B. Boothe, Shelley Tolhurst and E. T. Parkyns.

Immediately following the luncheon, the ladies were driven to the Van Nuys. There they were joined shortly by the men, and boarded one of the special cars of the Pacific Electric. President Huntington, whose guests they were for the afternoon, accompanied them in the run to Pasadena, the Ostrich Farm and a visit to the Hotel Green.

To enable the party to make this trip their leaving schedule was changed, and through the further courtesy of the Southern Pacific, instead of leaving here at 2:50 o'clock attached to No. 9, they left at 5:10 by the Coast Line in a special train of six Pullman coaches, including diner and buffet cars. From San Francisco a trip will be made through the San Joaquin Valley. With the exception of this one item the itinerary as originally published will not be changed.

Gov. Pardee and the San Francisco members of the California delegation accompanied the Congressional committee on the trip to the North, and as many as are able will remain with them as long as they stay in California.

Expressions of the warmest appreciation of the delightful entertainment offered the visitors were showered upon the committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and the members of the California delegation which met the special at Yuma, and many of whom bade farewell to the visitors here.

"If the remainder of our trip holds up to the high-water mark of hospitality set by your Californians, I don't know how we'll stand going back to the simple life again," was the way Congressman Mondell put it as he boarded the train. "We've seen a thundering lot of country that needs water, and we've seen a thundering lot of water that needs to be put to work. We've seen a thundering vast field for irrigation, but by thunder your California hospitality don't need a blessed drop of it."

"I shall cherish the memory of this day in the gardens of my memory like a red, red rose from your city of flowers," murmured the gracious and ever courtly Senator Du Bois, as he took his leave of the ladies.

"We have had a most enjoyable visit here," says Senator Newlands. "The English language, singularly rich in expression though it is, can hardly serve to tell how much."

"There would be cause for serious alarm if I thought it possible that more pleasure and enjoyment could be crowded into so short a space of time," interjected Congressman Reeder as he played manfully for the championship in the hand-gripping contest near the close of the last act.

"Good gracious, if I run across many more of my former fellow-townsmen and good friends, not to speak of my wife's relations, we never will get back home," exclaimed Judge J. I. Parker. "And then everyone else we have met seems to have the faculty of making us feel that we are closely related and belong."

"I have traveled much through this country of ours," said J. G. Rowley, "from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, but my eyes have been opened wider on this trip, and my ears filled full of things I didn't know about the Southwest, than I would have believed if I were not regularly convicted by my own personal experience. It's great."

But, pleasing and fragrant as may be the memory of the reception accorded them by the Chamber of Commerce of this city, charming though it was in its informality and sincerity, it is not likely that the members of the Congressional party and their escort will soon forget the striking features of their entertainment at Holtville. That was a full dessert spoon heaped with the simple life.

To be sure every man thinks that he is the bright particular exponent of the simple life. But every man has his individual code of the simple liwe. At Holtville the simple life has no code. It is it gracefuly denuded to the real thing.

It required considerable kindergartening to convince the Congressional party that they would not be expected to put anything on to appear at the dinner at Holtville, that in fact the less they put on the better and more proper they would appear. Finally with much diffidence they appeared in full dinner garb of the Imperial Valley and The Times photographer snapped them as they lined up to be received by the Reception Committee and escorted to the hotel.

WELCH CHOIR WILL SING.

The talks of Rev. Joseph Smale in the First Baptist Church, on the subject of the Welch revival have resulted in an arrangement for the choir of the Welch Presbyterian Church to sing at the service in the Baptist Church tonight. The subject of Mr. Smale will be: "Strange Things in the Welch Revival."

Congressional Irrigation Committee; California Welcoming Committee, and prominent Imperial Valley residents, in full dinner undress at Holtville. Gov. Pardee marked by cross.

BURIED DEEP IN CESSPOOL.

Horrible Drowning of Young Sewer Contractor.

Surprised by Water and Then Overcome by Gas.

Overcome by sewer gas within three feet of the top of a forty-foot cesspool of his own digging, while he was gradually being drawn toward safety, William Hensey, a young sewer contractor, relinquished his hold on a rope and dropped to a watery grave at the bottom of the pit which contained fifteen feet of water.

With the aid of another man, Hensey was just completing a cesspool at the residence of R. B. Chisholm, No. 1226 Arapahoe strete, late yesterday afternoon. His assistant left him at 5 o'clock, but so anxious was Hensey to finish the job, that he remained at work drilling a hole from the new cesspool to a sewer four feet distant. The hole was started just above the brick which lined the pit half-way up from the bottom.

When the drill penetrated the sewer a rush of water followed, and the cesspool began to fill rapidly. Shortly afterward Hensey called out to Mr. Chisholm, who was at the top of the shaft: "Pull me up quick, the water is rising."

Hensey grasped a rope which was attached to a windlass above, and Chisholm started to turn the lever, but for some reason the windlass would not work. Then Chisholm began to pull Hensey up, hand-over-hand, with the rope; but just as the contractor was nearing the top, the gas overcame him, his hold relaxed and he fell to his death.

The body became wedged in the bottom of the pool, and several hours elapsed before it was recovered by men with hopks. It was sent to Pierce Bros.' morgue.

UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL.

Plan Launched at Banquet of College of Medicine—Donation is Promised.

"An absolute necessity," was the description applied by President Bovard last night to the building of a university hospital. Furthermore, he went on to say there was good reason to hope it would soon be an accomplished fact, as one man of means had already promised a liberal contribution.

The occasion of President Bovard's speech was the annual banquet to the graduating class of 1905 by the faculty of the College of Medicine at the Van Nuys Broadway Hotel. About 150 of the faculty, graduates and alumni were present. They all united to give the graduating doctors a hearty send-off, and towards the end of the evening warmed up to have a thoroughly good time.

Prof. George Dock of the University of Michigan was the star speaker. His subject was "The Etiology of a Professional Career." Coming as they did from a man famous in the profession throughout the Middle West, his remarks were of especial interest to all the guests. President Bovard spoke on "The University Hospital." Dr. Granville MacGowan was toastmaster. Dr. L. J. Huff, Dr. W. W. Beckett, Dr. W. A. Edwards and Rev. Baker P. Lee also made speeches.

FINISH WITH ACADEMY.

Class is Graduated With Honors from the Halls of Occidental College.

The commencement exercises of the Occidental Academy were held last night in the assembly hall of the college, when the class of 1905 was graduated. The members who received their diplomas were Jessie Elizabeth Patterson, Henry Lyon Thompson, Etta Elizabeth Lee, John Goodall Garth, Ella Barbara Lee and Earle Vonard Walker. Without an exception the young graduates will continue on through the college course of the same institution.

Dr. Frank DeWitt Talmage delivered the address, after which came a violin solo by Stanley McPherson, accompanied by Miss Margaret Fitsch.

Prof. Irwin P. Mather made the presentation of the class, and Dr. Rev. W. S. Young awarded the diplomas.

Miss Elizabeth Patterson, class president, presented the academy with a class memorial in the form of a striking bust of Dr. J. A. Gorden, modeled by Miss Perry of Boston.

Dr. Hugh K. Walker accepted the presentation on behalf of the Trustees.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Spook Howton's sponsors yesterday discovered to their dismay that Howton's resignation last Friday is binding upon both himself and the Council and that he is down and out.

A legal tangle has resulted from the action of the Council last Friday in granting a special saloon license to the Los Angeles Harness Horse Association.

Judge Wilbur had to act as umpire yesterday between J. P. Finnigan, a real estate man, and John Barry, an Arizona mining man, in deciding what kind of a poker game they sat in at Avalon last summer.

In Judge Bordwell's court the mysteries of cutting out a suit of clothes was explained in the suit brought by S. Spilka against Brauer & Krohn to recover wages on a contract.

AT THE CITY HALL.

HOWTON REALLY THREW UP JOB.

RESIGNATION ACTUAL, THOUGH NOT ACCEPTED.

Supreme Court Has Ruled that Verbal Resignation to Right Body Takes Immediate Effect—Howton Only Councilman De Facto, Now, and that by Sufferance.

The seat of the City Council which he has prostituted for cheap notoriety and personal profit is legally vacated.

Howton surrendered all title to a place as Councilman last Friday afternoon, when he resigned under fire.

Not even the Council itself has power to blot out that resignation or to give him reinstatement.

So says the city charter, and so say the attorneys to whom Howton's labor-union backers yesterday appealed in a frenzied endeavor to repair the latest blunder of the irresponsible and thoroughly discredited Sixth Warder.

They have discovered to their fathomless disgust that the goose that laid their golden eggs first befouled its own nest, and then went off and committed hari-kari.

It is the old story of the fool who blew down the barrel of an empty gun.

When Howton tendered that resignation he didn't know it was loaded. He thought that the Council had to accept it to make it binding—and it wasn't in writing, anyhow—just a case of bluffing with a cold deck up his sleeve to make good in case of a call.

He did not know that the State Supreme Court has decided that the resignation of an elective officer made to the officer or body that must call the election to choose his successor, becomes binding the instant it is delivered. The resignation is final. The body to whom it is submitted has no jurisdiction to consider it, accept it, reject it, or do anything except to call an election to fill the vacancy.

There is no provision either in the State statutes or in the city charter requiring that the resignation be submitted in writing.

The charter provides that any elective officer may resign his office. And the State Supreme Court says that that resignation is in effect the instant it is made.

Howton was told that he was out for good ten minutes after he resigned.

His sponsors tried to dodge the issue by securing the adoption by the Council of a motion expunging his resignation from the records.

But the City Attorney has ruled that expunging a record does not affect the validity of the act recorded.

Over in the Typographical Union headquarters in the Wilson Block there is wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Yesterday afternoon there was an excited conference in a Broadway office of the remnants of the Howton-Willard-Typographical Union gang.

What action the Council will take for filling the vacant seat occasioned by Howton's resignation can only be a matter of conjecture.

Most of the members are averse to inflicting another special election on the city. They may permit Howton to pose as Councilman, recognizing him as a de facto office holder. But no matter what action the Council may take, Howton is no longer a city officer. His resignation was valid, though not intended as such. Any taxpayer by mandamus proceedings can force the Council to call a special election for Councilman in the Sixth Ward.

If he is allowed to remain in his seat by the Council and is recognized in the proceedings as Councilman de facto, attorneys say his acts will be valid.

That Park License.

A question of legality has been raised about the special saloon license, which the Council last Friday granted to the Los Angeles Harness Men's Association, to be in force during the six days of the coming race meet at Agricultural Park.

It has been customary in the past for both Council and Police Commission to wink at infractions of the liquor ordinances, while a race meet is going on. But to grant a special license, collecting money therefor, that is a horse of another color.

There is a provision in the city charter that the Police Commission shall have jurisdiction over the issuance of saloon licenses. City ordinances provide that no license shall be granted outside the saloon zone, and that not more than 200 licenses shall be in operation at any one time. The 200 limit is now full and Agricultural Park is outside the zone.

Not all the Police Commissioners are in favor of permitting the sale of liquor at the park, while the race meet is on. It is probable that the question will be threshed out at this morning's meeting of the commission.

These Get More Pay.

Mayor McAleer, Saturday signed an ordinance giving to the minute clerk of the Council, ordinance clerk and the license clerk, all of the City Clerk's office, an advance of $15 a month, each.

Cow Limit Again.

West Fifth street and Bixel street property owners yesterday joined in a protest to the Council against alleged violation of the cow-limit ordinance by Griffith M. Griffith, who owns three lots near the corner of Fifth and Bixel. They allege that by means a cleverly-constructed corral, Mr. Griffith is keeping nine head of stock on a single lot.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

DID THE COURT KNOW THE GAME?

HOW DRAW POKER IS PLAYED AT CATALINA ISLAND.

Broadway Real Estate Man Fails in His Effort to Secure Judgment Against Arizona Mine Owner for Money Lost by the Latter at an Avalon Joint.

It was an irony of fate that compelled Judge Wilbur yesterday while sitting as judge in Department Three to pose as a poker authority, and determine the relative merits of "round-table poker" and the more strenuous "stud-horse" variety.

Dyer's Law and Collection Agency was after John Barry, an Arizona mining man, who is now identified with business interests here, to recover $200 claimed to have been lost in a friendly poker game in Dan Jerrue's place at Avalon last summer. The suit was first brought in the Justice's Court when Barry won out, and then an appeal was taken and was tried yesterday.

The collection agency was merely the figurehead for fighting purposes, J. P. Finnigan, Broadway real-estate man, being the real plaintiff, and it was his money that was at issue—at least Finnigan claimed that, while Barry denied it. Barry took the high moral ground that "stud-horse" is a percentage game and against the law.

He said that he had known Finnigan's brother down in Arizona and so when J. P. Finnigan met him at Avalon one day and invited him into Dan Jerrue's for a drink he responded. While sipping the nectar, a game of poker was proposed and Finnigan, his partner, Richardson, Barry and Dan Jerrue all sat in the game, and Barry frankly told those present that he hadn't much money on him. Finnigan stated yesterday that he was more fortunate, for he had about $500, and when Barry ran short he borrowed from Finnigan to supply his immediate needs. He had a gold nugget—worth about $100—and he put that in "soak" to Richardson, and when he lost it, again borrowed from Finnigan to redeem the nugget. Then when the game was ended and Barry was broke he borrowed another $40 and that made a grand total of $200 that he had borrowed—according to Finnigan's book-keeping.

But Barry denied all of this. He said that the game was not the simple "round-table" game described by Finnigan, but was the good old fashioned "stud" and thereupon he proceeded to relate just how the game was played. Mr. Dyer was very strenuous in his objection to the witness calling the name "stud-horse," and that was why Barry explained in detail how the game was played, so that the court might form his own conclusion regarding the particular brand of the game that was played. The deal of cards was described and the 25-cent ante, and the whole modus operandi of Finnigan who was the banker. He won straight through, but the witness never won a "pot."

"Then I saw I was up against it," said Barry with a quizzical glance at the court," and I quit when I was out about $200."

But he denied that he had ever "soaked" his nugget, and the lucky piece was produced in court. Barry said that he just put it in the pot the same as he would his I.O.U. and he shoved it in for any amount of money that he named. The day after the game he was in his bathing suit on the beach when Finnigan and some friends came along and some words were exchanged regarding the money Barry owed.

"He jumped me," said Barry, "and so I dived over the railing into the water. If I'd got him out there I'd have drowned him."

As Finnigan is a man of enormous size and very portly, this last remark caused a titter to run round the courtroom.

Mr. Dyer tried to extort from Barry the concession that he knew the Finnigan brothers as men of reputation and wealth, and though he would concede that he knew the Arizona Finnigan, and he is a pretty decent sort of fellow, he was non-committal as to the local brother. Being pressed hard he conceded that he knew how to play poker and had played ever since he was a small boy and crept under the circus canvas to see the show.

"But Finnigan was a pretty good cheater himself," he said, "and if that's going to cut any figure I want to say that from all I've heard he can hold his own."

Judge Wilbur must have cogitated over his college days while the case was being tried, for as soon as both sides closed their case he gave judgment for Barry. He had diagnosed that summer game on the Magic Isle as "stud-horse" poker and not the more simple variety.

The amount of the claim is not of much consequence to Barry, but behind this suit which has been hardly contested, there are facts alleged which, if developed in court, would make it in some respects a twin to the poker scandal that caused such notoriety at Ocean Park.

CONTEST AT SAWTELLE.

DESIRES TO INCORPORATE.

There is to be a hot contest over the incorporation of Sawtelle as a city of the sixth class, and those opposed to the measure are lining up in readiness for the day of hearing, which was set by the Supervisors yesterday for the 26th inst.

The persons engineering the scheme are ambitious and have included in the boundaries large tracts of acreage that are rather remote from the little village now known as Sawtelle. Several protests have already been filed—not against the incorporation, but against the lands of the petitioners being included in the proposed municipality. The cry of those who desire to remain on the outside is practically the same in each instance. They aver that they are located within the Santa Monica school district and the schools are more conveniently situated than can any school be at Sawtelle. Furthermore they claim that their business is with Santa Monica, their interests all lie in that direction, and that it will be a direct loss and infliction if they are gathered into the new town yet to be born.

Other of the petitions say that the tract wherein they are living is in acreage, and that it is far preferable to let things stand as they are until the time is ripe for cutting this acreage up, when they will be able to select with good judgment, which municipality they will join—Santa Monica or Sawtelle.

Then, too, there is to be a fight as to whether a number of the signers to the original petition are legal electors or not. It is to be urged that they are not electors except in the National Home precincts, and are outside the precincts merely on furlough.

STOCK ORDINANCE.

MEASURES ADOPTED.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday passed an ordinance prescribing what precautionary measures shall be followed by stock importers in bringing cattle into this county. It is provided that no person shall bring into Los Angeles county any horses, cattle or hogs without first obtaining from a properly qualified veterinary surgeon of the county or State, whence the animals are brought, a certificate showing such animals are free from all disease or tick.

There is just one exception to this all-embracing clause. When animals are brought into the county for immediate slaughter, the certificate may be dispensed with upon the importer giving a bond for $500 to the Board of Supervisors. All animals, too, are to be brought in on railroad cars only, with a label on each car, showing that the cattle are for immediate slaughter, and the way bills must show the same thing. Cattle cars must be emptied only at the slaughter yards, and the most perfect isolation from other cattle insured.

For the benefit of large stock importers, it is provided that if preferred, they may give an annual bond for $2500, to obviate the trouble of giving bond for each separate shipment. Any infringment of this ordinance will mean a fine of $100 for each offense, such amount to be deducted from the bond.

GOT HIS FEE.

MRS. GLASS SUPPORTS HERSELF.

Mrs. Miriam S. Glass, recently brought a divorce suit against her husband, Neil Glass, and yesterday she asked the court to allow her temporary alimony and counsel fees. The wife is charging her husband with habitual intemperance and cruelty, and she wanted something to live on, pending an adjudication of the case.

Glass is a blacksmith and was not inclined to sit down and have hard words thrown at him without having something to say. In filing a cross-complaint, he accuses his wife of doing all kinds of things to make him unhappy, and then charges that she laid a scheme to inveigle him into matrimony. He claims that she was married before he met her and had two grown sons, and though he does not allege that as an offense, he does aver that the two sons aided their mother to get away with his property. Glass says that his wife gave a young man, who was in his employ, a $50 suit of clothes for "putting her on" to a man with a home, and after the marriage, he avers that she and her sons fraudulently got all his property away from him, excepting a homestead.

Judge Conrey refused the wife alimony, as it appeared that she was not suffering, but he allowed the attorney in the case $100 for his fee.

SETH PRESTON'S WILL.

OFFERED FOR PROBATE.

Mrs. Eva Clifford has answered the suit brought against her last week by filing the will of the late Seth Preston for probate. Mrs. Preston, mother of the deceased, sues to make Mrs. Clifford yield up the property that her son conveyed to her, and Mrs. Clifford stands pat and offers the will for probate.

Young Preston died on June 4 at Whittier, and the will bears date of May 2. The estate is worth about $2500, and consists of two lots valued at $300, and encumbered by a mortgage of $650. There are two insurance policies—one for $1000, made out to Mrs. Clifford, and the other, for $500, made payable to the estate. The personal property is valued at about $50.

Mrs. Clifford is named in the will as executrix, and a number of small gifts of personal effects are left to friends and relatives. To his mother he leaves an umbrella, Bible and a sofa pillow, and after all expenses are paid she is to have the residue of the estate. In a codicil, made on the same day as the will, the real estate and the $1000 insurance money are left to Mrs. Clifford.

A POMONA CASE.

MRS. DEWEY WANTS DIVORCE.

The society end of Pomona was much in evidence in Judge James's courtroom yesterday, for Mrs. Addie N. Dewey was applying for a divorce from M. N. Dewey, and both have occupied a prominent position in church and social circles in their home town. Mr. Dewey is a director of a bank, and a trustee of the First Methodist Church, and while he is contesting the divorce, he is not present.

The story told by Mrs. Dewey on the witness stand was destitute of sensational features, though all the petty slights she claimed that her husband put upon her, and the daily friction in the household, was more than enough to make a very unhappy home. Mrs Dewey claims that her husband is worth a lot of money, and she wants her share of the realities of life. Mr. Dewey, however, denied that he is worth anything like the amount claimed, and consequently the bank books are in court, and before the case closes there will be an overhauling of accounts.

It is more than probable, too, that a little spice will be injected into the hearing, for the husband claims that his wife went to consult a star-gazer, or something of the kind, and that personage in reading the stars, at so much per star, told Mrs. Dewey that there was going to be trouble in her household. From that time on, Mrs Dewey, so it is claimed, acted on the supposition that had been suggested, and what she was looking for came right along. The hearing will be continued today.

SUFFERS MENTAL ANGUISH.

C. W. MARKS WAS JILTED.

C. W. Marks says that he has suffered extremely, and is bowed down with woe because Harriet P. Nash gave him the slip after she had promised to be his bride. Now she is the bride of another fellow.

It was at Morenci, Ariz., Marks avers, that he and Harriet fell in love with one another, and she uttered the blissful words that assured him that he was to have the pleasure and delight of making her Mrs. Marks. With a man's usual desire under such circumstances he immediately proceeded to spend a lot of money on her. But even there Marks was methodical, for he kept tally of the money. In the complaint filed yesterday he claims that he gave her various sums aggregating $916, and a variety of presents which cost in the total about $276.50.

It was on the 10th of January of last year that Harriet gave Marks the flutterations of the heart by consenting coyly to be his, and they decided that they would get married some time in the ensuing September. September appeared a long time coming, but finally the fateful month arrived, and on the 15th Harriet told Marks that she couldn't marry him. She would always regard him as a sister, etc.—the same old story.

Two days later Harriet married Edward F. Fitzgibbon and took off with her the Marks money and the Marks presents. It has been a disastrous wooing for him, and he says so. By reason of her refusal to keep her promise, says Marks, "the plaintiff's hopes in life have been blighted, his pride has been greatly wounded, and he has suffered and does now suffer great and grievous mental anguish to his damage in the sum of $5000."

The latter amount added to the money advanced and the cost of the presents make the comfortable total of $6192.60, for which the injured and suffering plaintiff asks judgment.

CUTTER CUT OUT.

BIFURCATED GARMENTS FAILED

Samuel Spilka had the tailoring firm of Brauer & Krohn before Judge Bordwell yesterday in a suit to recover on contract for wages. Spilka was supposed to be an expert cutter from the East, but his employers contend that he is a sixth rater, and fired him when they discovered that he could not make good.

Spilka went on the stand and told of having arrived from the East, and entered the employ of Brauer & Krohn as cutter under a contract for a $40-a-week salary. He told how he was discharged, after serving for several months.

As against the statements of Spilka there were fourteen witnesses, and some of them were very outspoken. Mr. Brauer said that when Spilka first arrived he called in the store, merely to look around. He said that if anything good offered in the city he might accept a situation, but he didn't think the Los Angeles men could "stack-up" to his price. He was frank, and said that he was an expert, and a high-priced one at that.

After Spilka had excited the fancy of Mr. Brauer, the firm was eager to get him, and when the $40 a week salary was offered, Spilka accepted. As a cutter, Mr. Braun said Spilka was a false alarm. When he cut a suit for the witness he could not wear the clothes, and sold it to one of the store hands for $5. The nether garments was a wonderful-looking affair, and when remonstrated with Spilka went to the head cutter and asked his advice as to why his garments could not be made to fit. Judge Bordwell took the case under submission.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPERTY APPEALS. The County Board of Equalization will begin to sit in the Supervisor's chamber on the first Monday in July.

BERRY'S DIVORCE. Catherine A. Berry was yesterday granted a divorce from John T. Berry, by Judge Conrey, on the ground of failure to provide. The parties were married in Illinois, 1898, but removed to this county recently. The husband is in the life insurance business and failed to provide his wife with necessaries.

WRIGHT SENT UP. Edward F. Wright was committed to the asylum at Patton, by Judge York yesterday. About ten years ago he was an inmate of the asylum, but recovered and sowed no signs of relapse for about two years. Even then his mental condition was not alarming, but recently Wright has behaved in such a manner as to require constant watching.

REAL ESTATE. The United Realty Company has incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000, of which the full amount has been subscribed. The directors are: S. T. Smith, S. Davis, E. K. Kornfeld, A. M. Shook and F. H. Woodruff, all of Los Angeles.

NEW LUMBER COMPANY. The Watts Lumber Company has incorporated with a capital stock of $25,000, of which $5000 has been subscribed. The directors are: W. H. Turner, F. B. Woodruff, E. L. Kornfeld and E. A. Larson, all of Los Angeles.

PASADENA REALTY. Clifton J. Platt-Chester R. Pyle Real Estate and Commission Company has incorporated with a capital stock of $12,000, fully subscribed. The directors are: Clifton J. Platt, Chester R. Pyle, and J. Platt, all of Pasadena.

GOES TO IONE. When James Power comes before Judge Smith this morning, he will probably be shipped to the Preston School of Industry. He and another boy broke into a house and stole about $75. Earl Rogers, who spoke in the boy's behalf yesterday, said that his client had scarcely had a fair chance. His mother has been in the insane asylum for years, while the father has brought up the family and not with the best success. One boy is in Whittier and another was tried for robbery and acquitted. The father drives a sand wagon for the Pacific Electric, and will have a place for his son with him in the company if the court will release the boy on probation. At Ione, Jimmy can learn a trade, but it was not definitely determined yesterday just what disposition will be made of the 16-year-old burglar.

HONORS WERE EVEN. Manuel Rose was granted a divorce from Carlotta Rose, by Judge Gibbs yesterday, not that the husband particularly deserved any release, but merely because the law happened to run in his favor. When 14 years old, Carlotta was married by her family to Rose, who was much older than herself, and for whom she had not the slightest affection. He was a gambler and dragged his wife about from Santa Monica to Saticoy, then to El Rio, then somewhere else and they kept moving wherever a little bit of easy money offered for the husband. From the date of the marriage, in 1889, there were three children born, and then Mrs. Rose became so disgusted with her husband that she went away with a man named Tom King, and ever since has lived with him. This didn't make much difference, apparently to Rose, and about nine years elapsed before he applied for a divorce. His wife, however, had the youngest child with her and the father for reasons of his own wanted that child. He instituted this suit and was successful, the court granting the decree and the custody of the children.

THE BEAN DIVORCE. C. F. Bean, the real estate man, was granted a divorce from Mrs. E. Bean by Judge Smith yesterday, on the ground of desertion. The parties were married in 1880, and in the ensuing years three children were born to them. In 1897 Mrs. Bean ran away from home, in the absence of her husband in Bakersfield, and went to St. Paul, where she is now living. The husband said that he had offered to condone the offenses of his wife, but she would not return, and, as she would neither return or permit him to have the children, he had refused to contribute one cent to their support. "I supported them in luxury for fifteen years," said Mr. Bean, "and I would not even seem to consent to her going away by aiding her or supporting them." Bean said that he is worth about $40,000, and Judge Smith reminded him that a father is compelled to support his children. In granting the decree, however, no order was made for the father to contribute to the children's support.

CLAIMS DAMAGES. D. T. Bentley has begun suit against the People's Home Purchasing Company to recover $13,500. He alleges that on November 14, 1904, he entered into a contarct with the company by which he was to be manager for the Western States and Territories. On May 5 last he was discharged, and avers that in time and money he lost $3500, and that by the breach of contract he loses in profits $10,000.

VISITOR WENT CRAZY. Mrs Clara McKernon with certain members of her family come from Chicago on the Knights of Columbus excursion, and at Long Beach she lost her mental balance, and was yesterday committed to the State hospital at Patton by Judge York.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

The Foresters of America of Los Angeles turned out in a body, Sunday and observed Memorial Day with appropriate ceremonies in the First Christian Church.

The day is long to be remembered in the history of the Foresters of America in Los Angeles. The fraternal greetings of the two speakers of the day, Dr. A. C. Smithers, pastor of the Christian Church, and R. C. Adcock, of the Foresters, may well be remembered by all. Dr. J. L. Jones was marshal of the day.

The exercises were of the best ever held in the city by the Foresters of America.

If our advertisements have not already convinced you that Alfred Benjamin & Co.'s clothing is vastly different and better than ordinary, ready-made apparel, then the advertisements have been at fault. The men who wear this clothing, the satisfaction it gives, the growth of the business—these things are positive proof of its merit.

Let your tailor put his best efforts into a suit and then compare it with an Alfred Benjamin suit costing half as much. Nothing but blind superstition can induce a man to pay top prices to a tailor when less money buys better clothing—Alfred Benjamin & Co.'s.

UMPIRE BRAY IS A BAD JOB.

GIVES LOOLOOS A GAME THAT THEY WIN WITHOUT HIM.

Locals do Considerable Batting and Receive Substantial Aid on Every Possible Occasion—Plenty of Two-baggers—Brashear Does Well at Short—The Runs.

Los Angeles, 6; Portland, 3.

For absolutely the first time on record, Jim Morley and a Los Angeles crowd yesterday roared their heads off because Umpire Bray was handing the home team the game upon a silver platter, when in all human probability the locals would have won without need of official assistance.

Just how far an umpire can go in making a farce of an otherwise good afternoon's sport and not get killed for it was demonstrated to the limit of the players' and public's patience. Bray may have overlooked a bet, but if so, memory followed suit.

Without intention to disparage an eminently respectable and notably industrious beast of burden, Mr. Bray's name is conclusive proof of the eternal fitness of all things. His daddy must have had a presentment of the days to come, for that name is more than suggestive; it fits like Jim Jeffries's shirt.

It is an unpleasant job to roast an umpire, and locally the shoe has always been on the other foot so far as favoring the home team is concerned; but if press and public stood for such a mark as Mr. Bray the game would go to a place whose climate is at hot as Yuma's a whole lot faster than the Espee trains could get it there.

Mr. Bray is the limit. He isn't to blame for it; he wasn't cut out for an umpire. He is too gentle a man. To deal with these large, muscular and bulldozing ball players, one should be a sort of human dog, always ready to quell a riot before it starts.

Bray started his undoing by miscalling some decisions at first base that were not even close, one on Householder for example. Now no one ever accused Eddie of turning the other cheek. He was safe by a full stride, and instead of subsiding quietly when called out, Edward bounced up like a bad little rubber ball. He behaved himself fairly well considering.

Then there was another on McLean in which Bray guessed right for once. But he must needs spoil that by letting the big Benedict make an ass of him by going on as if no decision had been rendered. McLean stole second with great eclat, even sliding to make it good. Bray ought to have spanked Mac and sent him to the reform school, but he didn't.

There was nothing to the game but some rather promiscuous hitting, a number of clever fielding stunts at short by utility man Brashear of the Looloos, and a clean record at second base by little Bobby Eager, who had three chances and consistently made a mess of each. Robert had a finger in each run; probably none of them would have scored had a strong infielder been playing the position.

Bill Essick did the pitching for the visitors and was thumped for enough safe swats to win any ordinary game, while Hall was quite effective and should have had credit for a shutout with a little better support.

The Looloos threw together three in the first on a pass, McLean's failure to hold the third strike, and a pair of hits by Brashear and Cravath. Van Buren's double and Eager's error yielded one for Portland's half. A trio of singles and another error added another in the second.

In the sixth a motley assortment of two-baggers and Cravath's pass were cashed in for another brace. Dillon's hit, a pair of wild throws and Cravath's two-bagger in right tallied the final one.

BOXING PLANS GOING AHEAD.

N. D. OSWALD IS PARTNER IN NEW CENTURY CLUB.

Proposed Location of the New Pavilion Said to be Corner of Date and Macy Streets—Tom McCarey to be the Manager, and Matchmaker.

Tom McCarey stated last night that his pet boxing project had received some serious setbacks in the matter of location of lots, but admitted hopes of reopening the game here before the end of next month in the Century Club's own pavilion.

While McCarey has not made the location public and has steadfastly refused to do so, tenants at the corner of Date and Macy streets have been served with notice, and it is understood in that quarter that the promoter expects to build in the vicinity within thirty days.

Upon the subject of his partner or partners in the present venture, McCarey has presedved a reticence rivalling that of the famed Egyptian Sphinx, and probably the secret never would have leaked out had not a police officer who uses his mitts pretty handily himself sprung a little leak the other night.

N. D. Oswald, familiarly known as "Nick" in the local sporting world, is understood to be McCarey's chief backer in the present proposition, and is believed to be furnishing a large share of the coin with which the building is to be erected. Mr. Oswald is a man of considerable means, and at one time was heavily interested in the Coliseum Athletic Association which erected a pavilion west of the Third-street tunnel to run in opposition to Tom McCarey's Century Club, and pulled off one show before it was pulled in by the police.

McCarey has stated that he will be the sole manager in the enterprise, whatever other parties there are at interest being silent partners in the conduct of the club. N. D. Oswald has been connected with sporting in this city for several years, and bears a first-rate reputation for squareness. In his other boxing venture he was associated with Al Greenewald, who is believed to have some little finger in the present pie, though Oswald is the financial power behind Tom McCarey's prospective throne.

McCarey is casting about for a good pair of middleweights for an opening card. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and the winner of the Fitzsimmons-Schreck contest are the men he is most desirous of signing.

BURKE GOT HIM RIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—Jack Hall of San Francisco was whipped by Jack Burke of Sacramento in less than two minutes. It was to have been an 8-round "go." Hall was confident at the start and made some savage swings, but failed to land and was caught by Burke's clever left and went to the floor. He was carried to his corner almost unconscious, and his seconds threw up the sponge.

Waseda Team Victorious.

WHICH'LL WIN THAT TROPHY?

TWO TEAMS TO FIGHT OUT BASKETBALL TUSSLE.

Fine Games Yesterday Narrow the Tug-of-War to the Thirtieth and Thirty-ninth-street School Girls. Intense Interest and Brilliant Work by the Young Ladies.

Interest in The Times trophy games of basketball has risen to a fever of intensity. The struggle for the championship has narrowed down to two teams, Thirtieth and Thirty-ninth streets, and the question on every youngster's lips is "Which will win?"

The two games of yesterday between Thirtieth and Washington-street schools, and Thirty-ninth and Sixteenth-street schools, respectively, constituted the last of the regular contests, and now comes the tug of war. Thirtieth and Thirty-ninth stand even in the number of victories, and each has sustained one defeat. They must decide the matter with three games, two out of three meaning the trophy. The first of these will come off Friday afternoon on the Thirtieth-street court, and all ardent partisans who intend to witness it would do well to have an extra lining put into their throats if the present record of enthusiasm and cheers is to be kept up.

The thirtieth-street team did the prettiest work yet in the contest with the Washington-street girls yesterday afternoon; it was stunning play, and they won a victory over one of the best teams of all with a score of 27 to 20. The play of the forwards was a delight to behold, but the real secret of victory lay with the Thirtieth-street center, Helen Cory, who put up a game to be remembered. The whole team is a winner, and Thirty-ninth will have to put its best foot forward to equal it, though the score in their last meet was close, 15 to 12, in favor of the Thirtieth-street team. Gertrude Hawk, the captain and forward of Thirtieth-street school, made eight field goals yesterday, and five free throws, while Gretchen Schmitz threw eight field goals and one free throw.

The defeated team, Washington, did fine work, in spite of the score, which went up out of sight. The girls do clean scientific playing, but they were effectually handicapped by the superior height of the Thirtieth-street forwards, who towered like skyscrapers above their plucky little guards. Sarah Van Rensselaer, the captain and center for Washington, has been one of the best players on the field all along, but Helen Cory outclassed her completely yesterday.

When the whistle was blown, and the ball was tossed, the first goal was made by one of the Washington forwards, Ethel Webb, and the cheering for this team was wild and weird, for the score read 5 to 0 in favor of Washington before the Thirtieth made a single point, and this against their most dreaded opponents. The seeming victory was short-lived, however, and when the Thirtieth team got the ball it was "play ball" in earnest, and they did all sorts of things with that accommodating sphere, the team work being especially admirable.

Teachers and friends and pupils from the various schools were out in force, and the eager spectators not having any bleachers, stood up and crowded almost over the lines, cheering or looking sad, and every now and then a tin horn would give a fearful shriek when some fateful play was made. At the end of the first half the score was 24 to 10 in Thirtieth's favor.

A number of small casualties occurred, and the little Washington players got several hard falls, severe enough to make the tears come, but they were bravely winked back, and the ball was in play again.

The line-up for yesterday was: Thirtieth-street school ——Gertrude Hawk (captain,) and Gretchen Schmitz, forwards; Helen Cory, center; Helen Porter and Ruth Holmes, guards. Washington: Ethel Webb and Mabel Palmeter, forwards; Sarah Van Rensselaer (captain,) center; Grace Palmeter and Genevieve Webb, guards.

The game between Thirty-ninth and Sixteenth-street schools showed that the Sixteenth-street girls have made a big stride since they first began to play, and they gave Thirty-ninth anything but a walk-over. Crystal Wood, the captain, who plays center, put up a fine game, and Elsie Coulson and Bessie Taylor did guarding to be proud of. The forwards found it difficult to throw the goals, for the Thirty-ninth guards are hard to play against, and the score at the end stood 19 to 3 for Thirty-ninth. Lalah Perkins, on the winning team, has a future as a goal thrower. She made nine of the goals yesterday.

The line-up of Thirty-ninth-street school: Lalah Perkins, Hazel Kellar, forwards; Minnie Loricke (captain,) center; Annie Klassen and Hazel Judd, guards. Sixteenth: Norma Jahn, Camille Moore, forwards; Crystal Wood, center; Bessie Taylor and Elsie Coulson, guards. The officials for the two games were: Misses Mary Plummer, Blair, Stephens, Florence Frankland and Grant. Mr. Tritt, principal of Thirtieth-street school, managed the meet.

BACK TO THE HOOK WITH THE METEOR.

ARRANGEMENTS are now being made for a return race of the American fleet from England to the Sandy Hook lightship. The owners of the eight Yankee yachts which have just completed their lengthy course to the Lizard are now being canvassed for their consent to the return trip being made a race. This of course was not on the original programme, and it is said that no decision on the point will be given out for publication until after Emperor William has had an opportunity to meet the American owners at the Kiel entertainments.

In the meantime the Emperor's two-sticker Meteor is in the dockyards, having alterations made which are intended to improve her speed, and there is every indication that she is to be run for blood in the sportiest sense of the term. Capt. Coerper, naval attaché of the Germany embassy in London, has said that the principal yachtsman of his country would like to make this American ocean race to Europe an annual affair, and he will know more about this after the Emperor has made his after-dinner speech at Kiel. Capt. Coerper was in charge of the committee representing the Imperial Yacht Club appointed to time the arrival of the international racing fleet at the Lizard, and he can be accepted as probably knowing more of his master's intentions than any one else in the yachting fraternity.

An endeavor is also being made to have the big Gleniffer join in the hurly-buriy, and it must be seen that her enormous power and Watson model suggest great chances in a bucking-match from Lizard to Hook. In fact, that is just the kind of going for which she was designed, and Watson himself would, if he had lived a little longer, have been delighted to take passage on her, for he never cared a rap about America cup contests, and although he designed the fastest craft that ever sailed for this trophy, he always referred to Shamrock II as "our machine," or "that infernal fake."

The Gleniffer is a bruising big three-master, which at the time of her launch was announced as the largest fore-and-aft rigged yacht in the world that sailed without auxiliary power. Her owner, Mr. Coats, the millionaire thread manufacturer of Paisley, has done a great deal in a quiet way for American yachting, for it was he who sent the little deep keel Madge to New York, a small thing that won so often that she was copied wholesale, and, with her successors, altered the fleets of a nation. Mr. Coats, who for a lengthy lifetime has owned the best of yachts and many of them, owes it to the memory of George L. Watson to put the Gleniffer into this return race—not because she would necessarily win against craft of lighter construction, but because this kind of racing is the long-delayed realization of ideals that he and Watson held to be the best.

It is therefore said that the return fleet will be a good deal different from that which has just contested. Lord Brassey's gallant old Sunbeam and the Valhalla, being square-riggers, would not join in the race. Westerly winds could be expected to prevail, requiring so many days of windward work that the prize would almost certainly go to a fore-and-aft rigged craft.

The Britannia, the cutter so long owned by the present King of England, is said to be in as good condition today as at her launching, and her extraordinary abilities in heavy windward work have singled her out as a fitting representative of England, even if her comparatively small size should eventually find her to be outpowered by the big schooners. The Britannia would not go into the contest blindly, because she knows the measure of the Hamburg first rate. When the Hamburg, a Watson model, was first launched and raced in British waters under her former name of Rainbow it was ascertained that Britannia could beat her in windward work and moderate water. But the prowess of the royal racer is best known in America through her ability to beat the cup-defender Vigilant eleven times out of sixteen races. At Cowes the present King (then Prince) was at that time seen to be working like a hired man on board his boat (August, 1904,) and hauling on ropes in a peajacket, wholly indifferent to the heavy rain squalls, and as he certainly knows the whole game and just how far the Britannia's chances could extend, it would not be surprising to find her started in a contest that would call for two weeks of wind-jamming.

For the return race there is increased hope for all the contestants in the fact that Charlie Barr is to leave the Atlantic at Kiel and return to New York at once. He is under contract to sail the rest of the season's racing in the 70-footer Mineola, which has been sold by August Belmont to William Ross Proctor. Of course, this may be arranged by cable, but Proctor wants Barr for the home contests, and many people think the Atlantic can win the race back even when in slightly inferior handling. The reason for this is chiefly the fact that she has a Gardner design. William Gardner has always been a wonder when a fast boat was wanted, and in some classes he has beaten Herreshoff out of sight. His Irondequoit, which took the Canada's cup to Rochester in the last contest for that international trophy, was a little marvel, and his list, which commenced with the Liris, that beat the celebrated imported keel Minerva, continued through Syce, Mira, Dorwina, Neola, Weetamoe, Aspirant and so many others that the brain wobbles at the long recital.

But although this Atlantic has so fine a model and is so comparatively light in construction, she is a real yacht in the way of internal comforts. She has a two-ton refrigerating plant and tiled ice boxes to hold 800 cubic feet of ice. She is lighted by electricity, and also has an acetylene gas plant. Her sails are hoisted by steam power, and when her Bevis feathering screw is opened out for work she can steam eleven knots an hour, having triple expansion engines of 200 horsepower. With spinnaker, balloon-jib and all staysails, she has carried 26,000 square feet of canvas, but the regular working sail plan is about 22,000 feet. Her mizzen boom is usually 79 feet long, but for this outside work has been reduced to 72, and the total length from boom-end to the end of the horn is 227 feet. The masts descend in length from aft, the mizzen being 80 feet from deck to hounds, the main 77 feet, and the foremast 74. Her mizzen truck is 137 feet from the deck, her width is 29 feet, the waterline length being 137 feet, and the over-all length 188 feet. The steering is done from a raised quarter-deck aft, and when the vessel is wholly under canvas the funnel telescopes down into the hold. Gardner studied marine architecture for five years in England, but he did not learn how to build the Atlantic there, for the like of her was never elsewhere born save in the brain of William Gardner. Although this boat took the Brenton Reef and Cape May cups last summer, beating Endymion, there was not much known about her, because after her launch she made a long cruise to the Carribean Sea, and the public was not aware of her real abilities; for in her race with the Endymion she took forty hours and a half to do 298 miles, which was not peculiarly fast or remarkable.

SEA FISHING.

CATCHES SMALLER.

Local anglers did not have quite as hilarious a time Sunday as has been the rule for two weeks.

The shore north of Huntington Beach was dotted with surf casters, and a few had good sport, but the average was inferior, and big fish were quite scarce. Smith Warren reported a five-pounder in a catch of fifteen. The tide filled about 4 o'clock and the best biting occurred as usual in conjunction with it.

Bass at the breakwater were on the feed again and some fair catches came in. Parties, which went outside in launches made good catches of yellow-tail, bonita, albacore and a few barracuda.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 11.—White-winged pigeons have arrived around Phoenix, several weeks ahead of the ordinary annual schedule. They are brought by the ripening of the desert thorn berry and will remain till their favorite food is gone. The shotgun men of Phoenix have been making great killings, the bags being practically all that a man cares to carry home. Several sportsmen have brought in as many as 100 each. One bagged forty from his buggy in the course of a morning's drive. The Sonora dove also is more than numerous around Phoenix, the birds being unusually fat. There has been so much shooting that farmers are complaining of the peppering of live stock by over-enthusiastic hunters, at least a half-dozen cattle having been killed by unknown roadside shooters.

The trout fishing season opened in Arizona June 1. Though it is not generally known, the headwaters of Salt River, near Fort Apache, as well as a great number of creeks that flow into the Verde and Little Colorado, are alive with "speckled beauties." Territorial Delegate M. A. Smith has just returned from an excursion to Oak Creek, about fifteen miles south of Flagstaff, where he caught trout till weary. Some of the catch reached eighteen inches in length.

W. H. Dorsey, a colored jockey well known on the Coast, died of consumption in Phoenix a few days ago. He had been cared for by President T. H. Williams of the New California Jockey Club, for whom he had worked for years.

PART II: EDITORIAL, LOCAL AND BUSINESS SECTION

Pen Points

How garrulous the world becomes when the talk is peace! No other subject is so well beloved.

It begins to look as though the end of the graft of the grand dukes and the end of the war are both in sight.

Norway can fix it up to suit herself, after which the Kaiser will take the thing in hand and fix it up his way.

It isn't known whether the President used salt or not. But what's the difference? He caught the bird, anyhow.

No country but the United States excludes Chinese. But the Chinese don't want to go to any country but the United States.

Of course it's a few breathes from now to 1908, but it will do no harm to keep your eye on a certain man named Taft, just the same.

The war made lots of business for Uncle Sam, but we will welcome peace, notwithstanding that. Business will take care of itself, in any event.

It is noticed that, among other curios, the Los Angeles delegation will exhibit Dr. Howton to the astonished vision of Salt Lake's wondering population.

The various nations of Europe may just as well arrange to translate "Hoch der Kaiser" into their various and divers languages. They'll all have to learn to shout it.

At least the Los Angeles police force has reason to seriously regard the "yellow peril." The Sunday carousals of the local Japs are keeping Chief Hammel's men busy.

We shut out a Chinaman because we are afraid of cheap labor, yet there are no bars put up against the Jap, who will work cheaper than a Chinaman every day in the week.

Although 300 citizens of Los Angeles are absent from their bailiwick, the difference can hardly be noticed, but we'll bet their presence in Salt Lake makes that place look like a big town.

The Japs haven't much respect for a Los Angeles policeman. Our officers will need some training to handle these yellow boys, especially when they overrun the town, as they are sure to do in the near future.

The Bible continues to lead all other books in circulation, and is now printed in 196 different languages. The number of copies published each year is almost as great as the number of new religions that spring up.

Whenever the Kaiser can't have his own way, he goes out in the back yard and sharpens up a new edge on his sword. Then, at the sound of the grindstone in motion, the other fellows holler through the fence that they'll give in.

A piece of ground 30 by 39 feet, located on the corner of Broadway and Wall streets, New York City, was sold last week for $700,000. Real estate values are a little higher in New York than in Los Angeles, but not so very much so, either.

Sometimes these "royal" families become real amusing. The Princess Patricia, future Queen of Spain, is not to become a Catholic before her marriage, but will become such immediately afterward. There's tweedledee and tweedledum, for you.

New York City is growing some, too. The increase in its population during the five years just past is estimated at 800,000. These figures represent almost wholly the scum of Southern Europe, dumped wholesale into the great metropolis. New York is welcome to that kind of increase. We don't want any of it here.

Anybody who wants to ride on those Pennsylvania railroad trains, which are being run at the rate of two miles a minute, has our unqualified consent to do so, but, personally, yours truly prefers something less swift. We should think that, at that rate of speed, a passenger's brains would become positively scrambled. They certainly would if the train ran off the track.

Pestiferous insects and bugs of various affiliations do a great deal of damage in this country, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. To the potato bug losses amounting to $8,000,000 are charged up for last year. The army worms cost us $15,000,000; the San José scale, $10,000,000; the coddling moth, $20,000,000, and the Hessian fly, $40,000,000. These figures are appalling, yet they do not cover the whole ground, and do not include microbes or walking delegates.

BUSINESS.

Heavy exports from Russia gave Chicago bears an additional incentive to sell wheat. July closed at 86 5-8@86 3-4. The New York stock market was strictly in professional hands, with special pressure against Amalgamated Copper. The market's close was unsteady.

TOO MANY "MUSTS."

A Berlin dispatch informs us that "the German government's draft of its views on the proposed commercial treaty with the United States is in course of preparation for submission to Washington in July," and that it is based upon the reports of the German Chambers of Commerce and other commercial authorities. Among these authorities is no doubt included the Dusseldorf Chamber of Commerce, which is one of the most influential in the Rhenish Westphalian manufacturing district. The Dusseldorf chamber recently sent to Prince Von Buelow a memorial in which the fundamental principles which "must" be included in any treaty between the United States and Germany were laid down.

It is not certain that all these principles will be incorporated in the draft of the proposed treaty which is in course of preparation in Germany for submission to Washington. It may be stated in advance, however, that if they should be so incorporated, in any such form as that in which the Dusseldorf chamber states them, they will be turned down in the United States Congress without much ceremony.

Whether Germany, under its new tariff arrangements, will be able to force this country into reciprocity agreements which will be distasteful to the people, remains to be determined. One of the evident purposes of the new German tariff is to wring concessions from the United States by compulsion rather than by voluntary agreements based upon the mutual welfare of the two countries. The United States is not easily moved by compulsory methods. We are not accustomed to be influenced to any great extent by the word "must." We do not take kindly to coercion, and all attempts to coerce us, in the past, have failed rather disastrously.

Among other things, the Dusseldorf Chamber of Commerce declares that "the old Prussian treaty of 1828 'must' either be formally cancelled or extended to the German Empire, with binding force for the United States." Also that "if that treaty be cancelled, it 'must' be replaced by a treaty of comity and navigation between the two countries;" and furthermore, that "such a treaty 'must' regulate general navigation and commerce between them, define the rights of citizens of one country while stopping in the other, and prepare the way for an extension of copyright arrangements and the promotion of postal intercourse. It is also declared that "a tariff treaty with the United States 'must' be sought, in which one concession shall be balanced by another." Doubt is expressed as to whether "the United States government is in a position to make a treaty at all without further legislation, and whether the United States government could get from Congress the right to conclude a treaty for a longer period than five years." After these grave doubts have been fully expressed, it is "demanded" that in case the treaty negotiations lead to no practical result, the general German customs [practically prohibitory] be applied to imports from the United States."

Perhaps the most remarkable portion of this remarkable manifesto from Dusseldorf is found in the sixth section, which declares that "whatever arrangements are made 'must' contain provisions for supplying, free of cost, information about tariff matters, for the publication of official lists of goods with regular supplements, and for the settlement of tariff differences by arbitration. The treaty 'must' also provide," it is further declared, "for contesting tariff differences through diplomatic channels, and for the free circulation of samples of goods; and each country 'must' pledge itself to accept the findings of the scientific bodies of the other state as to the composition of food products."

It will strike the average reader, first of all, perhaps, that there are altogether too many "musts" in this Dusseldorf memorial. This word, as before noted, has a decidedly raucous and unpleasant sound in American ears. We may be willing to concede to our German friends the privilege of saying what, in their opinion, our government might or ought to do. But to no nation or combination of nations will we concede the right to say what we must do. Americans will reserve to themselves the right to say what they will do, and they are amply able to defend that right.

We do not want a tariff war, nor any other kind of a war, with our friends, the Germans. But we certainly cannot permit them to dictate what our tariff laws shall or shall not be, nor to wring from us by coercion any concessions which we are not willing to grant of our own free will. This whole matter will necessarily come before the next session of Congress, but it will almost surely prove a difficult matter to deal with. If we make important concessions to Germany, other nations will have a clear right to demand similar concessions. There is scarcely any limit short of actual free trade to which these concessions may not be carried. If we begin to tear down our tariff wall, where are we going to stop? The making of one breach will lead logically to the making of another, and there will be danger that the whole fabric of tariff protection, for the maintenance of which the American people have so emphatically declared, may be destroyed, even in the house of its friends.

If the Dusseldorff memorial correctly represents the attitude of the German government on the tariff question, it is extremely doubtful whether we can come to any agreement at all with Germany on this question. In both houses of Congress there will be a strong and dominant majority against revision of the tariff downward at this time. In order to meet the German demands with like concessions we should be obliged to make such breaks in the tariff wall as would be regarded dangerous by leading protectionists. It is not improbable, therefore, that instead of meeting the German demands with concessions, we shall meet them with retaliation. That such a course would be injurious to both countries is not to be doubted. But surely we have no more to lose in a tariff war than has Germany, while the loss to us of the benefits of our protective system would be beyond computation. While we are for peace, in this as in all matters, we must keep ourselves in a condition of preparedness for war.

A RUSSIAN PARLIAMENT.

The Associated Press makes positive announcement, in a dispatch from St. Petersburg, that the Czar has finally determined to call a representative legislative assembly, or Parliament, and that it will meet in September next. The Associated Press is usually accurate in its statements, and about the only reason that is apparent for questioning this announcement is the fact that the lower house of the prospective Parliament is to be called the "Gosudarstvennaia douma," while the upper house is doomed to stagger along under the name of the "Gosudarstvennaia sovet." If the new Parliament can do business under such titles, it will undoubtedly be a great success.

But, levity aside, if this announcement proves to be true, its realization will be an epoch-marking event in the history of Russia. The two houses, according to the above-mentioned report, are to be endowed with "power to formulate legislation, discuss the budget, interpellate ministers, etc., but reserving in the Emperor's own hands the final authority." Whether the Parliament is to have power to override an imperial veto is not stated, but in all probability this power will not be conceded at the present time. It will almost surely come later, when Russia shall have become a true constitutional monarchy, as all her friends and well wishers hope and believe she will become in good time.

The elections, it is announced, will take place during the coming summer, and the proclamation from the Emperor, calling a Parliament, will be issued, so it is said, within a few days—perhaps simultaneously with the conclusion of peace, if peace should result from the conferences about to begin. At all events, the beginning of even a quasi-parliamentary régime will be hailed with joy, not only in Russia but throughout the world, as a long step forward in the world-progress of the Muscovite empire. It will mark the beginning of the end of autocratic rule, and it will perforce recognize, however imperfectly at first, the great and vital principle of popular participation in the government. If this principle be once established in the Russian government, it will remain. Civilization moves forward, not backward. Absolutism must inevitably give place to constitutionalism, sooner or later. Now is an auspicious time for the change.

If the Russian government had been a constitutional monarchy at the outbreak of the war with Japan, the results of that titanic conflict would undoubtedly have been wholly different. Indeed, the war might have been avoided altogether if the people of Russia, and not the faithless masters of Russia, had been permitted to decide the question of war or peace. But if the decision had been for war (with Russia under a constitutional form of government) there would have been preparedness, on land and sea. Lack of preparedness has been the cause of Russia's losses and humiliations in the war. At the bottom of this lack of preparedness was "graft" and incompetency, and back of "graft" and incompetency was absolutism. It is thus clear that absolutism is the rock upon which the Russian ship of state has so nearly foundered. The Russian soldier is a brave and tireless fighter. The Russian seaman has as good fighting qualities as can be found anywhere in the world. The Russian people, if they were allowed to participate in the government of their great empire, would be as intensely loyal and patriotic as any people in the world. Internal dissensions will practically cease with the establishment in Russia of a liberal, constitutional form of government. If this form of government had existed in Russia at the opening of the war, Russia would have whipped Japan with comparative ease.

The Czar has an opportunity such as has come to but few rulers in the world's history. Let him freely give to his people a just constitution and a Parliament which will uphold it. He himself would be the almost unanimous choice of his people for Emperor, under constitutional limitations, if they could be assured that the régime of absolutism was at an end. If it be true, as reported, that the Czar is about to confer the inestimable boon of a constitution and a Parliament upon his people, his name will go down in history as one of the wisest of rulers, and one of the greatest of benefactors, the world has ever known.

NO PEONAGE.

Attorney-General Moody's letter to the Secretary of War, calling attention to the provisions of the Constitution against peonage, or involuntary servitude, is timely. It will doubtless serve the purpose for which it was intended, that of assisting and guiding the executive committee of the Isthmian Canal Commission in making its contracts for labor to dig the canal. The Constitution of the United States prohibits slavery, or any form of involuntary servitude, except for crime, in any part of the country. The Attorney-General points out that this inhibition of the Constitution applies wherever the jurisdiction of the United States extends.

Of course, the work of digging the isthmian canal must be performed by free labor. There must be no "coolieism," "peonage," or other form of involuntary servitude in the work. The government would set a most pernicious example if it were to violate its own laws and its own Constitution in this respect. But there will probably be not the slightest difficulty in obtaining all the free or voluntary labor that is needed for the work, by throwing the competition open to the world. The principle of world-competition has been adopted as applied to the purchase of materials, but it has been found that the United States is able to compete with the world in furnishing most of the materials that are to be used in the work of construction. Unfortunately, the United States will not be able to furnish the labor required for digging the canal. American white men, it is generally conceded, cannot endure severe physical exertion under the climatic conditions which exist in Panama. American colored laborers could stand the climate better, but they could not be obtained in sufficient numbers to perform the work. The cotton fields of the South could not spare them, and comparatively few of them would be willing to leave the South for a hotter climate.

It is quite evident that in order to find labor for the work of digging the canal we shall be obliged to look elsewhere than in the United States. But, as Attorney-General Moody pertinently says, "In the employment of labor upon the canal, the utmost care should be taken to exclude the conditions which have been indicated as those of involuntary servitude, or any other conditions of like effect or tendency."

The government has power, without a doubt, to suspend the action of the contract labor law as applied to the construction of the Panama Canal. Inasmuch as suitable laborers are not to be obtained in the United States, there is no reasonable ground for objection if these laborers be obtained from other countries, and at the lowest rates consistent with good work, good sanitary conditions, and good treatment.

Americans who desire to work on the canal should be, and undoubtedly will be, given full opportunity to do so; but the canal must be dug, and that within the least time practicable. To dig the canal an army of laborers will be required, and these must be obtained at all hazards. The question of efficiency, as well as that of availability, should be considered in this connection; for the work must go forward with as few hitches as practicable. There is a possibility that we may need this great waterway, for military purposes, sooner than most of us imagine.

A Woman's Sweet Revenge.

The young wife of Senator Clark of Montana lived not long ago in novelty with her parents in Butte. As Miss La Chapelle she had friends, warm and firm; but there were, it appears, high-born dames, arrayed in silks and satins, who passed her by with mincing step and disdainful glance.

Some weeks ago, as Mrs. W. A. Clark, she returned to Butte, after an absence of several years. Some of the most prominent women of the city, leaders of the first circle—and there are circles in society, as Dante found them in his Inferno—promptly called at Mrs. Clark's house, "palatial mansion," or "stately residence." The butler took the cards, and while they waited they heard a "gentle, familiar voice" instructing the servant to tell the callers that Mrs. Clark was not at home. Other women were turned down in like manner, women described by the passionate correspondent as "stately dames, many of whom have been leaders in Butte society for many years," but the women who had been friendly to Mrs. Clark in her humble days were welcomed cordially.

The great lesson to be learned by women from the entertaining episode is this: Treat kindly every poor and good-looking girl, shop girl, telephone girl, stenographer, for at any moment she may become the wife of a multimillionaire and a society queen. This ordinary bread thrown on the waters will return to you as pumpernickel. You will be bidden to pompous feasts, you will sit in opera boxes, you will be driven in parks, esteemed and envied; nay, more, you will be invited to automobile parties in France, England and Italy, and presented at foreign courts.—[Boston Herald.

IN THE BIG INDUSTRIES.

Timber from Forest Reserves.

In accordance with the principle that forest reserves are intended for proper commercial use, the Bureau of Forestry, by special bulletin, announces that the mature timber is now for sale on all these government areas, and invites bids for its cutting and removal. The work, of course, must be carried out under the conditions laid down by the bureau. Only the full grown trees fit for lumber are to be taken. In the next place struct care must be observed to preserve the immature timber from injury. Finally the "slash," or debris, must be got out of the way by burning, so that the soil shall not be cumbered against prompt restocking of the thinned areas with the proper proportion of young trees. In a few of the reserves lumbering has already been tried under these restrictions, and complete success has attended the experiments. Most of the forests contain great quantities of mature timber, and the facilities for getting out the logs at a reasonable cost are far superior to those of many mountainous and inaccessible regions where the timber is in private ownership. The due care of the young trees is found in no way to hamper legitimate lumbering operations, while the cost of burning the waste has been proved to amount to but about 12 cents per 1000 feet board measure. Therefore the bids for the government timber are certain to induce spirited competition. The object lesson afforded to the whole country, and to lumbermen especially, is a splendid one, namely, that the wasteful operations of the past were not only a wrong and a menace to the public weal, but that they cannot prove so profitable in the long run as the wise and economical system now inaugurated.

Flour Mill for Hong Kong.

As has been several times emphasized in these notes, the awakened East, if at present importing occidental goods in greater amount, is also importing with alacrity occidental machinery and processes of manufacture. This, of course, is with the aid of occidental capital, for money knows no patriotism, either of country or of race, and, just as water flows down a flume, seeks the spots where conditions are most favorable to cheap production. Cheap labor is the one grand thing that the Far East has to offer the capitalist, so thither he is hastening. Machinery for steel plants, cotton mills, and other industries is being steadily shipped to China. The latest undertaking launched is a big flour mill plant for Hong Kong, that is to cost $1,000,000, and will be capable of turning out 3000 bags of flour a day. This mill, equipped with all the latest machinery, will have a greater capacity than any mill in California, Oregon, or Washington. As the labor will be so much cheaper at Hongkong than with us, it goes without saying that flour shipments across the Pacific Ocean, at this time forming a very considerable proportion of our exports to the Orient, will cease. We shall send the wheat, but not the manufactured, and therefore the more profitable, article. And when Manchuria is opened up to modern development, not even will our wheat any longer be wanted, for every traveler agrees that Manchuria is an ideal wheat land, and is destined to become one of the world's greatest granaries. On the broad ground of the world's general advancement all this is right, and exactly as it should be. But it is well that there should be no illusions as to what the industrial opening up of the East really means in the long run to the older manufacturing nations.

Mining in Japan.

In the history of the mining industry of Japan, we have a striking illustration of how soon the awakened East can dispense with the services of her awakener, the West. From time immemorial, copper, silver, gold, and other minerals have been mined in the island empire, but up to thirty years ago, only by primitive processes, while vast coal measures were completely neglected. However, once embarked on her new career of education, Japan with her usual foresight, took to coal mining, the great basic industry, first of all. She sent students to Europe, secured experts from the chief coal-mining countries, and imported all the best machinery. In the result her coal measures were speedily being drawn upon, not merely for the home supply, but for export. Japanese coal is excellent, inferior only to the best Welsh smokeless coal, and quite equal to the New South Wales product, its chief competitor. Therefore, it speedily became one of Japan's most valuable articles of commerce all over the East. It also met the condition precedent to Japanese success in industrial enterprise generally, the cheap home coal enabling manufactures of all kinds to be started.

Exit the Foreign Expert.

Up to this point coal mining in Japan had been conducted under the direction of foreign engineers, managers, and superintendents. But the clever Jap soon learned his lesson, and he is now carrying on the business without outside aid of any kind. He carries it on, too, in the most scientific way, as everyone who inspected the Japanese mining exhibits at St. Louis realized, their geological maps being, perhaps, the finest to be seen at that fair. But more than this, the Japanese now manufacture all their own coal-mining machinery, and they build their own coal-carrying steamers, so that the entire industry, lock, stock, and barrel, is in their own hands. In similar manner they have dispensed with foreign aid in the development of their other mineral resources. Last year they produced 24,450 tons of copper, an output exceeded by that of only three countries, the United States, Mexico, and Spain. Their gold production is steadily advancing, and they have several good silver-lead mines. Japan is not well supplied with iron ores, but this has not stood in her way of establishing large manufactures of iron and steel. At present she imports her pig iron from Europe, but in a few years' time she will have supplies close at hand—in China, which has iron ore deposits sufficient to supply the wants of all the world. Thus rapidly is the East asserting her industrial independence of the West.

Some Women's Questions.

Patrolman Hogan, who stands at Eleventh and Walnut streets, is asked many peculiar questions every day. Women especially ask all sorts of queer things.

"Last week," said the officer, "a woman came up here and asked me how many children the President has. That same day another woman led a little dog up and asked me where she could sell it. When I said I didn't know she went away half mad. One of the queerest questions I was ever asked, however, came from a woman on Monday. She stopped on the corner here, and, after hesitating a moment, asked:

"There were two buttons unfastened, and I told her so.

"'Thank you,' she said. Then she studied a minute. 'I wonder who I can get to button them?' she asked.

"'I don't know, lady,' I said. 'Not me.'"—[Kansas City Times.

Midshipmen Hubert Brunham has been detached from the cruiser Brooklyn, and his resignation has been accepted. He was appointed to the Naval Academy in May, 1901.

Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee is to attend the September maneuvers of the French army. He will be accompanied by Brig.-Gen. J. Franklin Bell and Brig.-Gen. William Crozier, chief of ordnance.

Lieut.-Col. John Tweedale, military secretary, was placed on the retired list last week. His retirement advances Maj. Alexander O. Brodie, former Governor of Arizona, to the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

Brig.-Gen. George M. Randall, commanding the Department of Luzon, will relinquish his command and sail for home this week. Upon the retirement of Maj.-Gen. George S. Gillespie, which occurs on the 15th inst., Gen. Randall will be made a major-general and assigned to duty as assistant chief of staff.

Capt. James Dexter Adams has been ordered to the command of the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's old flagship, now flagship of Rear-Admiral Bradford, commanding the third subadron of the North Atlantic fleet. Capt. Adams was on duty on this Coast, with but a short intermission, for thirteen years, from 1870 to 1883.

In October, 1866, after graduation from West Point, George C. Borden was commissioned second lieutenant, and assigned to the Fifth Infantry. After having served continuously in that regiment for thirty-nine years and reaching the grade of lieutenant-colonel, he was recently promoted colonel, and assigned to the command of the Twenty-fourth Infantry. The officers of the Fifth gave Col. Borden a hearty farewell reception at Plattsburg Barracks on the eve of his departure for his new command.

Among the naval officers who have made application for voluntary retirement, under the personnel act, is Commander Carlos G. Calkins, now in command of the cruiser Cincinnati, attached to the Asiatic fleet. Commander Calkins is well known on the Pacific Coast, having been in charge of the hydrographic office in San Francisco, and also in Portland, Or. The commander was navigating officer on Admiral Dewey's flagship in the battle of Manila Bay.

As to National Honor.

The most important conclusion of the Mohonk peace conference is the proposition that there are no differences between nations which cannot be satisfactorily adjusted by the judicial method. As long as so-called matters of honor are omitted from discussions to be peacefully settled long will there be shed the blood of a people in defense of their rulers in a simple matter to compromise as one between honor and go to war for it. There is some mystery in this phase of national honor altogether comport with People are supposed to be of their sense of honor ment which represents be a great misfortune The honor of the individual guard of the nation. When the national honor is upon when it sinks low the spondingly degraded. times no individual to war on his own account. The only parties allowed their honor are prize battles are winked at, mitted, by law.—[Baltimore

PLAYHOUSES AND PLAYERS.

MARCO. Those who loved "Chimmie Fadden" on the printed page may see him in the flesh in the person of Edna Vivian, this week at the Belasco. And "Mr. Paul" is there in the person of Joseph Galbraith, well again and warmly welcomed by his loyal friends in the audience. George Barnum plays the dual role of detective and lover. Tom Oberle is the Cutler, Grace Langham plays "Fanny," and Florence Rews and Yantes are howling successes as "Mrs. Murphy," and "The Duchess," respectively. Then there are a host of others, almost too numerous to mention, for it requires a great many people large and small to present the story of "Chimmie Fadden," the way it is to be presented.

Down on the curtain goes up to the tune of "The Sidewalks of New York," it would be difficult to imagine a more realistic picture of those same sidewalks than that which the genius of Manager Barnum has thrown together. There must be a score of children in the scene, and every Harrison ever invented is there, including the tough girl.

"Chimmie Fadden" is not a plot, nor story, nor anything to guess about, but it's loads of fun and human nature, and the Belasco players, helpfully assisted by the very best kind of "supers," bring out all the fun that are there to be extracted for, and the whole jolly affair gives one a pleasant way to spend an evening.

BURBANK. The best Burbank production in months is "The County Chairman," staged Sunday for the week's run, and is making no exception to the rule. "Juanita of San Juan," which was too big for a stock production, and "The Imperial Highway," a romantic drama distorted into hodge-podge by hurried writing, are at Morosco's. "The County Chairman" is a "good show," with few if any qualifications. It is such in all respects, and in every way. It is exactly fitted to the needs of the company now playing it. Nearly every company which appears to have a distinctive "family" of players at the Burbank company has, and one of these studies at intervals of perhaps a year—a study in which its parts seems moulded to the illustrative powers of the actors themselves.

Mr. Morosco, of course, played the part of "Aunt Abby," differently from any other Phoebe McAllister. Phoebe McAllister, who puts into the part the touch of nature which Burgess could not do, being a very robust man in a very feminine impersonation. Throughout, however, he manifest in strikingly effective manner.

Another good one, in his line, is Fenny characterization of Josh, the country farmhand. The well-dressed leading man has a part utterly, and in his shoes of the simpering bumpkin with his hair and one front tooth is a study from life, as it is.

Miss Fitz into the foolishly pretty of Ora Tucker as if the part were written for him. Willis Ward, a man with one dramatic talent finds its homely counterpart in the hard-hearted counterpart which Marks plays "this has been said, Mark's physical limitations permit him to play but one thing—the dull-witted, saw-voiced "State o' Maine" back woodsman he does mighty well.

Mr. Ward, as the ex-jockey, and Miss Aunt Abby's pet flower as the girl Annie Rail as Sally, are all clever players in the right parts.

There is a good programme at the this week, the most conductors are Mabelle Baker, and John C. Rice and Rice is a clever playlet; the Rices, the extraordinarily performances of the DeOnzo Brothers, "Jumpers."

Miss Baker's piece is a little of a wild fellow engaged by Rice to a girl he has never met, a fellow making a date with a girl, and his unknown Rice humorously worked for more than half its charm in the.

Miss Baker's violin tone is sweet and of perfect similarity a number of old songs, as well as medley, and a scrapbook of patriotic songs and other masterpieces not arranged for the stage, but bringing in fashion to please the gallery.

Performers do almost everything in and out of ordinary, of which the human mind is capable, a possible acrobatic feat they leap with precision just as they do with the a whirlwind act without error, they make a hit an evening of variety

Miss Gardner, singers and character, do an act for the lovers of music. Two sisters, pretty and clever, give a graceful interpolation. Charles Reed are humorous and clever in a sketch; Della Fox, and there are motion pictures.

JAMES WINS LIBEL CASE.

Funny Suit Goes Against the "Evening Express."

Both Sides Sore Over the Way Jury Sized 'Em up.

Police Commissioner Wanted Fifty Thousand.

A verdict of $1000 against the Express was awarded last night by a jury which struggled for nearly an hour to appraise the damage done to Police Commissioner James, who sued for $50,000.

The verdict also runs against Sam T. Clover and E. T. Earl, personally. It is difficult to say which side is the sorer. Although no decision was definitely reached last night, an appeal from either plaintiff and defendant, or both, is probable.

The verdict was a compromise. Several jurors hung out, in the jury-room, for a verdict of $5000 or more. One of the twelve dissented from the verdict at the polling.

The last of the trial was rather funny. There was a most shocking disclosure.

LEW AND SAM.

Oh, that one so young and fair should be so frail!

It came out in the testimony yesterday that Editor Samuel Travers Clover, the apostle of refinement, made a political confidant of the notorious Lew Simpson in this Police Commissioner James affair. Brer Simpson swore so himself.

Lew said that one of Clover's men telephoned down to his vile negro dive and cooed into his secret ear what they intended to do to keep Frank James off the police board and give the Mayor a good lesson.

"We want to do him up," said the voice from the Express office. "You just keep your mouth shut (shocking vulgarity) and we let you know about it later."

Brer Simpson's testimony was the closing sensation of the case. He came up with a grin and had the time of his life, chewing gum and making "sassy" answers to the lawyers.

It was he who was the alleged sole authority for the scandalous story repeated by the Express as reason why James was not fit to sit on the police board. He denied ever having told such a story. He swore that he had never talked about James in any way to Police Reporter Taylor.

He said he used to see Taylor around the station, but didn't know he was a newspaper man; thought he was a detective.

"Course I didn't think he was a first-class one," he said, "but I thought he was a detective."

He recalled the day that Taylor telephoned from the Express office to his dive to verify the rumor that he had paid $100 to Mr. James and never got it back; he said that he didn't know who was talking; Taylor gave no name.

"I couldn't see it was any business of his, so I says 'No,'" said Simpson.

He said that fact was he had never paid James a cent of fee or anything else.

Instead of having paid James $100 for having Officer Walker removed from in front of his place, Simpson said the officer had been taken away and put back again before he ever heard of James.

They tried to ask embarrassing questions of Lew on cross-examination; it was a regular picnic for him.

Clover's lawyer looked at him with dark insinuation out of the corner of his eyes and asked suggestively if he had not been written up by the papers a good many times.

"What sort of place was this you were running?"

"Well," said Simpson, drawling, "at first it was a billiard hall; then it was a dance hall—club, you know.

"Maybe," said Lew politely, "these jurors don't know what kind of a place a club dance hall is; of course these newspaper men——"

"How large a club was this?" Lew was asked.

He grinned. "I guess they was about 700 in it."

"Colored or white people?" asked the lawyer meaningly.

He said, on being closely questioned, that he had been sent to see Attorney James by former Police Commissioner Ling. James listened to his case; then refused to go on with it, having talked with Chief Elton in the meantime.

Lew seemed to have an ingenious appreciation of the fact that dealings with him would not be a good recommendation for a police commissioner.

"They just said over the 'phone they wanted to do him up," he said. "They didn't say because he was going to bring a suit for me.

"I did not care who was police commissioner," said Lew. "When this man McAllelly or McElheney or whatever the name is, got elected Mayor, beating my friend out, I knew whoever was police commissioner wouldn't do me no good."

CLOVER WAS GROUCHY.

Mr. Clover was brought to the stand yesterday himself. He had a bad cold and evidently a "grouch" and favored the court with no more quotations from Benjamin Disraeli.

He said that he had meant to say nothing against Mr. James's morals; only that he had a Police Court practice which he thought was not well for a police commissioner.

In the next breath he admitted that he didn't know anything about Mr. James's practice. He admitted that Reporter Taylor knew of no other Police Court cases besides this Lew Simpson case, which Mr. James had refused to take.

"And even that case was not before the Police Court," suggested Attorney Davis.

"James went to Chief Elton?"

"He so stated."

"That was not practicing before the Police Court."

"I was not splitting hairs."

"Do you think the fact that he had gone to Chief Elton with this case warranted your making such an attack upon the character of a man?"

"It was the character of Simpson——" Clover said he had inferred a Police Court practice for Mr. James.

The fact that former Commissioner Ling had sent the case to James seemed to Mr. Clover to ve bery wicked.

He said in the Express that Mr. Ling had resigned under charges of gross immorality.

He had to correct this on the stand; Ling had only written out his resignation for presentation in case things got too hot.

"Anyway," said Clover, "his ways were devious and he was investigated by the Committee of Safety."

JAMES ANGRY STILL.

Mr. James, very angry, was called back to the stand. He said Ling had brought him a guardianship matter that was too complicated for him to handle, but never a Police Court case.

"The only thing was," he said bitterly, "Ling was on the same floor of the Bullard Block with me and Mr. Clover seemed to consider that was evidence that I was crooked."

He admitted that he had been brought before the grand jury and asked about the Simpson matter, but did not know that Ling was being investigated.

POLICE TESTIMONY.

Officer Walker testified that he had been stationed for three months in front of Lew Simpson's place; had been taken away and put back again. He said he told Clover at the time of the James publication that he was taken away because Simpson had promised to be good; this was corroborated by former Chief of Police Elton.

This closed the testimony. Attorney J. R. Rush opened for the plaintiff, asking for heavy damages, claiming that the publication, wherein the Express alleged James unfit to be a police commissioner, was reckless and made without sufficient investigation.

W. H. Anderson and J. W. McKinley followed for the defense. In brief their contention was: That defendants had manifested no malice in the publication; that the publication had not claimed James to be unfit to serve on the commission on moral grounds, but only for the reason that the appointment of an attorney who had police relations or affiliations was against public policy; that such relations had been clearly proven by the Simpson incident wherein James was shown to have gone to Chief Elton in the interests of a negro dive keeper.

Attorney Davis closed briefly for the plaintiff.

Judge Monroe's instructions were in brief, as follows: That the publication was a libel per se; that it was not privileged matter; that the only defense was as to its truth or falsity. If false, he said, compensatory damages should be awarded; if recklessly or maliciously false, exemplary damages.

The jury went out after 8 o'clock and came in about an hour thereafter. Mr. Earl, Mr. Clover and the editor of the Express were in the room with their attorneys and the plaintiff was closeted with his attorneys when the jury returned the verdict.

Sam Clover felt the most chastened, to think the jury figured that his powerful editorial couldn't have damaged more than $1000 worth.

When a man has once known the fine flavor and extra quality of Rainier Beer it will take more than a boycott to influence him to give it up.—[Adv.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) June 8.—No section of the government building is more attractive than that of the Smithsonian Institution and National Museum. The treasures of that incomparable institution have been freely drawn upon to illustrate its work in some of the most important departments. Wisely the display is made one for the people rather than for the research student, but even the learned ones will not make the round of the section without adding something to their stores of knowledge. Such an exhibition, too, has its stimulative value, for young minds especially; many will come here who will go away with different eyes for the wonders of nature around them.

At the entrance of the division is a reproduction of the Armed Dinosaur made by the experts of Washington from bones, fragments of skin, and molds discovered in Wyoming and Colorado. This is of the same class of gigantic creatures as the similar reproduction recently presented by Mr. Carnegie to King Edward of England, and placed in the British Museum. The treasures were reptiles distantly related to crocodiles, ranging from the size of a chicken to eighty-four feet in length, the latter being the largest four-footed animal completely known. This reproduction in Portland is sixty feet long, spiked on head and back, six-footed, scaled like the mythical creature, once seen, that may come dream o' nights. Side by side the skeleton of another species, the Dinosaur, which gives to us a further conception of gigantic monsters that millions of ages inhabited the earth. Pictured on the walls, representing them in their native swamps and jungles and showing the habits of their lives, is the object lesson.

LETTER FROM GREENLAND.

A group of exhibits on a heavy table are casts of the meteorites brought back by Capt. Peary in 1897 from his expedition to reach the North Pole. Also to reach the North Pole. Also there are masses of meteoric iron discovered on Cape York, Northern Greenland. The dimensions of these, the heaviest meteorite ever discovered, are 6 feet by 7 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 2 inches. Once again, the observer's knowledge in this interesting subject, there are pictures on the walls showing by photographic enlargements the crystalline structure of meteorites. Most interesting is a map of the United States, dotted over with red and blue pins to mark all the points where meteorites have been discovered, the latter indicating celestial fragments that have actually been seen to fall to earth, as distinguished from those that have simply been found embedded in the soil. The Far West is comparatively free from stars of this class, probably not because meteorites have fallen there, but because later settlement and sparser population have been observed to mark fewer have been observed.

THE AUK AND THE DODO.

Besides specimens of typical wild animals of the present time, the lion, the rhinoceros, the elk, the alligator, make a gallant showing, while cases of big birds, selected from some of their superb plumage, pheasants and jungle fowl of many varieties, come as a revelation of nature's lavishly beautiful handiwork. Then let not the skeletons of the Auk and the Great Auk be passed by. There are two birds that have become, in comparatively recent years, extinct. The auk formerly abounded in the waters of the North Atlantic, especially around Greenland and Iceland. It was discovered by the early mariners who sailed these seas in search of the right whale bone. The birds, because of their inability to take flight because of their undeveloped wings, and were easily driven to slaughter, their flesh being cured down and packed for future use. The last two ever seen alive were found on an islet near Iceland in 1844. Such a pitiable tale! By the side of the auk's skeleton rests one of the eggs, worth about $10,000, for only seventy specimens are known.

The story of the dodo is much the same, only it carries us somewhat further back in history, and this time to the Indian Ocean. The dodo, a big bird with a big beak and heavy claws, was abundant in the island of Mauritius, where eggs and eggs have been found. When the Portuguese and Dutch voyagers came to Mauritius in the sixteenth century, they found the bird. As in the case of the auk, the merely rudimentary wings proved the undoing of the species, for it was speedily exterminated. But pictures of the time represent the dodo as those ancient mariners actually saw the bird. In 1638 a living example was shown in London. Then exit dodo! For this was the last survivor of its race.

ABOUT EGGS OF BIRDS.

The cabinets filled with birds' eggs are of fascinating interest, not merely to boys who are collectors and to men who still fondly remember their egg-hunting days, but to all who have an eye for beauty and the inquiring mind to bestow something more than a mere passing glance on the collection. By way of example, let us take this assortment of eighteen eggs collectively labeled as the product of the Californian murre, or guillemot. Each and every one shows extraordinary diversities in size, markings and color. Yet they are all of the one species. In contrast to these variations of the egg stands the fact that the birds themselves show remarkably little diversity; all are indistinguishably alike. Some other species show a similar tendency to vary the egg, it being especially common for the last laid eggs in a nest to be deficient in coloring matter.

Among the collection of eggs, note of course will be taken of the biggest of all, one that could hold within its shell the food matter of a dozen ostrich eggs. This is the egg of the extinct Aepyornis of Madagascar, supposed to be the fabled roc of Sinbad the Sailor. The actual egg remains in the museum at Washington; as it is the only specimen in existence, it is too precious to carry around, and at Portland a cast is made to do duty for the original.

MEXICAN RUINS, INDIAN ART.

Among other prominent features in the section are beautiful large-sized models of five ruined palaces and temples of Mexico and Yucatan, and two fine cases of painted skins and shields, illustrating the symbolic art of the Indian tribes. Nor must mention be omitted of the mineral specimens shown in goodly masses that are most beautiful to the eye as well as interesting to the student, nature once again revealing her matchless skill as a colorist.

THE TREASURY EXHIBITS.

Passing now to the other government departments represented in the main building, my notes must necessarily take a condensed form; I can only indicate a few selective points of interest. The treasury shows us a mint in operation, stamping, counting and weighing coins, in this instance the official souvenirs of the Lewis and Clark Exposition. It has also an engraving department, where all the processes connected with the engraving of bank notes are shown. The new bank notes and stamps for the Philippines may be inspected, and there is a magnificent collection of old coins from all countries, the property of the mint at Philadelphia.

Also included in the Treasury Department is the display made by the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service. Here we see a marine hospital exactly reproduced with all its equipment, and with life-size figures of surgeon and dressers around the form of a patient on the operating table. Models of a quarantine station and of a yellow fever detention station show how epidemics are fought by the methods of prevention and isolation. Not least valuable among the models is one that represents a deep well sunk in the yard of an ordinary farmhouse, with the infiltration of foul matter from surface ponds, etc., clearly revealed—a telling warning both to those who live on farms and to those who consume dairy and other farm products without ever giving a thought to the widespread ignorance of elementary sanitary precautions among the farming community.

VARIOUS DISPLAYS.

In the Department of Commerce and Labor the lighthouse board tells us something of its work by specimen lanterns of various sizes, models of lighthouses, fog horns and other apparatus for warning the mariner of unseen perils. The Bureau of Standards shows us the national standard of length, weight and capacity, also sundry old weights and measures from many lands. The Bureau of Labor, by a series of striking charts, teaches the world the ruinous losses caused by strikes, and by large photographs in swinging frames, helps to an understanding of what is being done in various places for the amelioration of the masses by means of comfortable and sanitary homes, public baths, trade and industrial schools, etc. The Bureau of the Census, also by charts, brings to the eye how from the year 1810 onwards the distribution of population has changed decade by decade, the center of gravity ever moving steadily westward.

In the Department of the Interior, the Bureau of Education presents us with specimens of work by Indians at the various Indian schools scattered over the country. Boots and shoes, clothing, tools, tinware, woodwork, wagons, agricultural machines, all display thorough practicality and excellent workmanship. To complete the picture, by way of contrast, tepees, canoes, implements, weapons and life-size models of chiefs in their robes illustrate the days that are now rapidly passing forever.

The small exhibit made by the Pension Office deserves attention, for there on warrants may be inspected the actual signatures of Washington, Jefferson and other Presidents, and on applications for bounty land those of Lincoln, Sheridan, Grant and other national heroes. Of deep interest, too, are the specimen pension certificates, including the very first documents of the kind issued in connection with the Civil War.

The geological survey has a popular feature—two finely-colored and electrically-lighted panoramas of the Yosemite Valley and the Yellowstone Park. It also has a fine collection of mineral specimens and charts showing the world's production of minerals in the leading areas, the year 1902 being taken for this comparison. In the patent office section the most prominent exhibit is a series of over twenty models showing the evolution of a harvester, and a model harvesting scene with the latest type of machine at work.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

One of the most important divisions is that belonging to the International Bureau of American Republics, for here the Panama Canal project is most effectively illustrated. We have first a large size relief map of the isthmus, reproducing all the natural features—mountains, rivers and lakes. Thus at a glance of the eye the course of the canal is shown, and the immense physical difficulties to be overcome are indicated. Then there are the latest photographs of the works in progress, and a chart giving all the converging routes of commerce toward the canal.

The bureau also illustrates in much the same way, and with the aid of a second fine relief map, the project of the intercontinental railway that will link the United States with the republics of Central and South America. Of the system 5186 miles are already in operation, while 5285 remain to be constructed, so in this instance the proverb "Well begun is half done" aptly applies.

PICTURES AND BOOKS.

A large sized photographic copy of the original painting by Charles Toche of Paris, commemorating the Universal Peace Conference at The Hague in 1899, and destined for the Peace Palace to be erected in the Dutch capital, is among the bureau's exhibits. As every figure was painted from life, the accompanying key will give the clew to some of the most notable personages in contemporary history.

The Library of Congress has a large model of the Capitol at Washington; many beautiful views of the library and its interiors, also of other noted national libraries; a collection of old charts, another of political pamphlets in the early days of American independence, many autograph letters of famous statesmen, samples of the first Pacific Coast newspapers, and numerous other interesting things besides. Among the newspapers is a copy of the Los Angeles Star, of date July 12, 1851, being No. 9 of Volume I. This was a weekly journal published on Saturday, and the subscription was no less a sum than $10.

WHAT THE POSTOFFICE SHOWS.

The postoffice occupies a great floor space, and has a really superb display to which hours may be given by those who study it with thoroughness. The method of contrast is effectively applied throughout. For example, an old-time Rocky Mountain mail coach, the real thing that was in many an Indian fight and in its time carried not a few distinguished men, is to be compared with an up-to-date railroad mail car. Again we have, side by side, models of the first Atlantic steamship to carry the United States mails, the old "Southerner," and of a typical modern liner, the "Philadelphia." Then there are many picturesque and instructive life-size figures—an Alaskan mail carrier with sled drawn by seven dogs, a Porto Rican mail carrier under Spanish rule mounted on a leisurely burro, a western mounted mail carrier of the old days and in the old costume, and so on. There are besides vast displays of stamps that will delight the philatelist; historical relics of deepest interest, such as the accounts of the first Postmaster-General, Benjamin Franklin, kept in his own handwriting; and numerous cabinets of dead-letter office curiosities, ranging from revolvers to parasols, and from rattlesnakes to genuine scalps of Indians. Altogether our Postoffice Department has developed into a fine art, the making of an attractive exhibit.

MORE FORESTERS, FEWER FIRES.

GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT JUST REORGANIZED.

Under New Rulings More Men Will be Employed, at Better Salaries, With More Systematic Command—Los Angeles County Will Benefit Immediately.

In two weeks the new rulings of the United States Forestry Department, which reorganize the system, will go into final effect. The result will be more effective work, and work in a more classified and systematized form.

The whole reserve service is to be placed in the forest service, under the direction and control of the forester. The field force of the department now contains the grades of forest inspector, forest supervisor, forest assistant and forest ranger. An increase in salaries will be one of the results of the inauguration.

Splendid fire protection is planned for Southern California during the summer, and the present force under the command of the forest supervisor has been increased to thirty-five men.

Among other things, the government has just made an appropriation of $1000 to be used in making fire lines all around Mt. Wilson, with the placing of additional guards. Fire near at hand is not feared so much at the observatory as fire at a distance, yet close enough within atmospheric range to send up heat waves destroying the microscopic accuracy of the great telescopic lenses.

Three new rangers just appointed are J. J. Strieby, Cucamonga; R. B. Waterman, La Cañada, and W. W. Bacon, California department examinations for new positions are to be held at Alturas, Quincy and Nordhoff July 5 to 7; Sisson, 12 to 14; Weaverville, 18 to 20; North Fork, 25 to 27; Deer Creek Hot Springs, August 2 to 4. Local applicants will probably try at Nordhoff.

The examinations are along practical lines, and include tests in the actual performance of field work. While certain general qualifications are insisted upon in every case, special fitness for employment in a specified region is always considered. In heavily-forested regions, for instance, knowledge of timber and lumbering is more important than familiarity with the live stock business, while the opposite is true in several interior reserves where grazing problems are numerous, and little, if any, timber is to be sold.

A completer reorganization of the forest service, say the government's men, will take place as fast as trained men and the necessary funds become available. Now the position of deputy forest supervisor is to be added, and also the grades of deputy forest ranger and assistant forest ranger.

Extra precautions are to be taken during the fire season here. Temporary assistants, known as "Forest Guards," will be employed to carefully patrol dangerous districts. These helpers, of course, will be only temporarily engaged, as the new law provides that they shall not be employed more than six months in the year.

MRS. BERRY TO DROP SUIT.

Plaintiff's Attorney Announces that He Will Move for a Dismissal of Case, Which is Now Pending in the Superior Court, Having Come Back rom the Supreme Court.

IAN BERNARDINO, June 12.—The ebrated divorce case of Estella May rry against John Ward Berry of ston, Mass., will not be threshed out ain in the Superior Court here, therefore the public has been robbed of anpated sensations which have cropped since Superior Judge B. F. Bledsoe anted Mrs. Berry an interlocutory de- le last summer.

Berry had procured a reversal of this cision in the Supreme Court, which nt the case back for a new trial. The tion came up this morning to fix the ne of trial, when the plaintiff's atney announced that at an early date would move for dismissal.

While the case was on appeal before e Supreme Court, Mrs. Berry became own at Highland as Mrs. Housely, parently no denial of her marriage Housely is known to have been ade, and her attorney has not been formed if such a marriage occurred. e notoriety given the supposed nupals was followed by Housely selling s orange groves at Highland and reving elsewhere, but their present reabouts appears to be a great set.

The Berrys were married in Boston, ere both families are well connected d wealthy. Mrs. Berry suddenly disappeared from her home, leaving her band to find the place deserted on s return from his office, and a note om her explaining that she would ver return. The Supreme Court reersed the decision on several grounds, principal one being that the plainff was not in good faith a resident of is State, but had come here for the press purpose of bringing the divorce t where it would be expensive for e defendant to contest, and probably pposing that the courts of her own ate would not grant the decree.

TRUSTEE WILL STAY, HE SAYS.

RIVERSIDE CITY OFFICER CHANGES MIND.

Offered His Resignation Because Damage Suit of Person Injured on Street Resulted in Judgment Against Him Individually—Friends Urge and He Decides to Withdraw.

RIVERSIDE, June 12.—Capt. V. Lawyer has decided to withdraw his resignation as a City Trustee. A few weeks ago he tendered the resignation on account of complications arising from the Merritt case, in which a damage suit on account of an alleged defective street resulted in a judgment against him individually.

At that time the captain took the ground that on a count of the recent decision on the Merritt case he could no longer assume the responsibility that the case fixed upon the Trustees of this city.

Since then, however, about seventy-five of his friends, citizens of this city, presented him a petition in which they say:

"We . . . desire to express our regret that you have resigned as one of the Trustees of this city and we sincerely ask that you reconsider your action. We know that you have given some considerable time to the public business of this city and it has been very fortunate that you have had the time to spare. We assure you of our appreciation of your labors and we would very much like to have you serve out your term. If our support will in any measure encourage you to continue in your position, will you not reconsider your resignation?"

A number of the captain's friends circulated a petition to secure funds to carry on the appeal of the Merritt case. Over $600 was secured in this way. In view of all this Capt. Lawyer decided today to reconsider his action and accordingly gave the following statement to a Times representative:

Mr. S. C. Evans, Jr., and all other friends, Gentlemen: In answering your request in Saturday's papers to continue my work as City Trustee for the balance of my term, I will say that having met a number of the largest taxpayers and business men a few days ago at their earnest solicitation, and receiving from them the fullest assurance of the hearty support in case of any future trouble that might arise while acting as City Trustee, and now this request following assuring me of your good will and support, I cannot but feel grateful for these expressions of appreciation on the part of so many of my friends and fellow-citizens, and I therefore agree to withdraw my resignation and will continue to act as City Trustees for the balance of my term, promising to use all diligence in looking after the interests of all the people of Riverside. Sincerely yours, [Signed] J. T. LAWYER.

SALT LAKE INQUEST.

The adjourned session of the Salt Lake inquest took place this afternoon. The first and only witness called was W. D. Gillott, the engineer on the overland. His testimony was merely a substantiation of the preceding evidence. He testified that he had received the orders at tower No. 10, and had read them Stalder instead of Streeter. He said he had never received orders to stop at Streeter since he had been on the overland run. He explained that there were only two air signals on the Salt Lake Railroad while on the other two roads three signals are used. He said when he got the conductor's signal he understood it to mean "Go on to the next station and that was Stalder as Streeter had just been passed," the conductor had at that time passed Streeter.

He maintained that even after the wreck he reread his orders and at that time read them Stalder as that was the accustomed meeting place of the two trains. He seemed inclined to take the view that it was a mistake, but a very natural one under the circumstances. He stated to a number of newspaper men that he did not know what course the railroad company would pursue with him.

"The two deaths were caused by the collision of No. 1 overland and No. 6 paper train on the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway, west of Streeter avenue, Riverside, Cal., June 6, 1905, at 5:30 a.m.; caused by reading the order wrong by the engineer and the failure of the conductor to give the usual signal after the whistle for Streeter avenue."

CASA BLANCA'S HOT SUNDAY.

Yesterday afternoon saw lively doings at the ordinarily quiet little town at Casa Blanca station. A number of restless spirits seeking a favorable location for a big beer bout finally decided on Casa Blanca station as the best suited spot for their Sunday revelry. Accordingly two kegs of beer were transported to the old Fay packing-house, now managed by the Citrus Union, and the fun began.

The weather conditions were ideal for such a celebration, the thermometer standing about the hundred mark, and the assemblage took advantage of the fact of the heat of the day and the isolation of the place to the fullest degree.

It wasn't long before bottles began to fly and the company warmed up to the "smashing stage." The big grader was the first thing to attract the attention of the crowd and it was accordingly put out of commission by knocking the tin off of the bin. A systematic search was then instituted to find other breakable things.

After an inventory a few glass windows were discovered and were accordingly demolished in short order. The officers were summoned by a person living near the place, and a number of the city force went down to punish the offenders.

When they arrived on the scene all had quieted down. A search is being made for the offenders, who, if found, will be severely dealt with.

ELSINORE.

WILL RECEIVE CORONA PEOPLE.

ELSINORE, June 12.—A special excursion train is to be run next Friday from Corona to Elsinore, by the Temescal Water Company, which has the longest irrigating pipe line in the United States, it is claimed. The trip is for the purpose of viewing the system. The two hundred or more people that day brought in are expected to remain in Elsinore several hours. Suitable entertainment is being planned by the Home Improvement Society, which met Saturday evening. The ladies of the Presbyterian Church are planning a dinner to be given that day on Main street.

W. P. Haworth of Los Angeles has purchased a place here, and he and his wife will make Elsinore their home.

C. P. Macy is commencing the erection of his large warehouse on the corner of Spring street and Heald avenue, close to the railroad sidetrack. The entire floor up to car height is to be made of big boulders cemented together, the building being of corrugated iron.

MORE WATER IN VENTURA.

LIGHT AND GAS ARE ALSO PROPOSED THERE.

One Man of Means Files Articles of Incorporation for Supply Concern and Several Other Men of Capital Are Associated With Him. Water Bearing Land by Sea.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, June 12.—Articles of incorporation have been filed for a new water, light and gas company, to be known under the name of the Mutual Water and Light Company of Ventura. The chief mover in the enterprise is Clarence E. Chrisman, who is a man of means and has long been a resident here, and who was at one time part owner in the present water and light system.

He owns a fine piece of land fronting the ocean, on which he has sunk two artesian wells, each of which has a good flow. Mr. Chrisman estimates he has already 200 inches of artesian water in sight, and other sources of supply ready when needed. Associated with Chrisman in the enterprise are D. S. Blackburn, J. S. Collins and James Leonard, all men of considerable means. Robert M. Clarke of the First National Bank is also a stockholder and the attorney of the new corporation.

The capital stock is $100,000, of which sum $5400 has been subscribed, as follows: C. L. Chrisman, $5000; D. S. Blackburn, $100; J. S. Collins, $100; Robert M. Clarke, $100; James Leonard, $100. There are 1000 shares of the value of $100 each. Mr. Chrisman was busy today securing signatures to contracts for consumers. He says it is the intention to erect a bath-house on the property at the foot of California street.

MRS. DONOVAN WEEPS.

The divorce case of Donovan vs. Donovan is on in the Superior Court before Judge Ewing today. Mrs. Donovan is the daughter of J. C. Daly, deputy attorney-general of the State, and is represented at the bar by Attorney Sturtevant of the office of the Attorney-General, and by W. E. Shepherd and T. O. Toland of this city. Mr. Donovan is represented by Senator Orr.

The case has atracted much attention because of the standing of the parties. Mr. Donovan has been for years a leading merchant of this place. A year ago the wife left him and went to San Francisco and acquired a residence, taking her two little girls with her. Recently she began suit for divorce, alleging cruelty. There was considerable sparring over the Donovan property and the sheriff finally swooped down and closed up his business on an attachment. It is still closed. Donovan determined the suit should be brought here and filed a cross-complaint asking a divorce on the ground of desertion and had the suit transferred to this county.

This morning Mrs. Donovan, a frail-looking woman, who showed signs of much sickness, took the stand and recounted many unpleasant features of the domestic affairs of herself and husband and what she alleged as his brutal treatment of her in her long spells of sickness, but admitting that he had been sending her $60 each month since her absence from home, both before and since she brought suit against him.

She testified that he gave her little money and few clothes during her married life, but that her wants were chiefly supplied by her father. As to money she said she recalled but $6 he had given her, $5 of which was half his winning on a prize-fight and was given her for guessing the winner. She also stated he was not a liberal provider, as they had meat but once a day, and when eggs were 45 cents the dozen he objected to buying them for her, but was willing his dogs should have them. There were details as to cruel treatment, in the recital of which the witness frequently broke down and wept. The case will go on for several days, as there are many witnesses for both sides.

CHILD'S SHOT TRUE.

and McKenzie; and hidden away in the buggy was the gun with which the slaughhter had been accomplished.

CLAUDINE'S STORY.

The child appeared dazed, but wept quietly as she rode along in her pink frock and sunbonnet, and when she faced the detectives in the office she tremulously told the story of the terrible ordeal through which she was even then passing.

She said she supposed the gun to be empty and in play she had told her brother she would shoot him, and of course there is no other idea in the mind of anybody than that she told the whole truth.

When the detectives had fully satisfied themselves that the shooting was purely accidental, they at once returned Claudine to her home.

Her father says that he has not fired a shot from the gun in six years, but that he has frequently loaned it to other people. Not long since it was returned and he supposed it to be empty. One of the first things he said when he went to his desolate home and was told some of the details, was:

"Where did she find a shell? I have not shot that gun off in six years and I supposed it to be empty. Whoever returned it last must have left a load in it."

Coin was too much dazed to weep or talk, and for the most part acted like one in a dream. He was away at his work, where he was notified of the dreadful occurrence, and it was an hour later when he reached the Police Station.

BOY'S VERSION.

William Cooper, the brother of Mabel, who sat at the piano, tells several stories, though the one he told his mother before he had spoken to others about it is probably the most accurate. This was to the effect that he was at the piano and Claudine had entered behind him and fired the shot before he knew anything about her having entered the room with the gun. Later on he said he tried to prevent her from shooting, but that he was not quick enough. Another time he said he had seen her go out and get the gun and come in with a shell in her hand and put it in the breech.

From the nature of the wounds it is seen that Raymond Coin received the main portion of the load of shot, though it came so near missing him that it ploughed all the flesh off his forehead from his hair to his eyebrows, and some of the shot caused a fracture of the skull, while others destroyed the right eye. Had it struck him full on the head he would have been practically decapitated. That the small shot were "balled" as they passed him is understood by the shortness of the range, which was probably not more than twelve feet, as well as from the fact that the hole through the window glass behind the chair where the two sat, shows that the load went through almost like a ball.

Mabel was a little lower and a little farther away and was struck by the scattered shot, while the bulk of the load went over her head. Some of the shot passed through her right temple and into the brain, while others struck her in the side of the neck and lower down, but her face was not mutilated and did not present the repulsive appearance of the boy's.

The boy's right eye was removed and his wounds dressed as well as possible and he was then sent to the Children's Hospital. The girl was taken to the same hospital and was operated upon last night.

GIRL WILL DIE.

Inquiry at the Children's Hospital late last night elicited the information that there was some hope for the recovery of the boy, who seemed to be doing well, but that there is no chance for the little girl.

The Paint— You Know is Best

TODAY—every progressive person everybody who understands paint knows that an absolutely pure linseed oil paint is the best paint—but then pure lead and oil becomes too heavy, paint will always "chalk off" in a short time.

Rub your hand over a surface painted with lead and oil—see the powder of lead on your hand—the paint is no longer protecting the house, but being blown away or washed off by the rain.

Horseshoe Brand Prepared Paint

corrects the faults of lead because it is not naturally very tough and so it is much tougher and doubly durable as it can't "chalk off" and loss in substance.

Zinc carries 60 per cent more oil than lead and that's why Horseshoe Brand Prepared Paint spreads more than a third further, as it costs less per gallon in the first place it costs over a third less on the job.

Now, oil is the life of paint and zinc is the backbone that holds up the oil and prevents it—and that's why Horseshoe Brand Prepared Paint gives double the wear.

Because the great majority of ready-mixed paints are "doped" with cheap and harmful adulterants, which retard their spreading capacity and ruin their wearing qualities, you have never been sure of getting absolutely pure lead-zinc-linseed oil paint.

But you can be sure now—because every can of Horseshoe Brand Prepared Paint bears a Chemists' Certificate of Analysis and Purity.

ARRESTS IN PASADENA FOR ALLEGED CRUELTY.

Stock Used by Street Sprinkling Contractor Said to be in Deplorable Condition—Site for Convention Hall Not Selected—Killing of Dogs by Police Being Investigated.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 45 South Raymond Avenue, June 13.—Constable Barley Newell arrested A. C. White yesterday afternoon on a charge of cruelty to animals. White is employed in the employ of J. W. Ritzman, who has the city street-sprinkling contract, and it is alleged that practically all of the live stock now being used in that service is in a deplorable condition.

The warrant was sworn out by former Police Officer L. H. M. De Biron, and Dr. Barton, made an examination of the stock in question. Dr. Barton says that he found the team driven by White in such a state that some of the horses fell down several times while they were watching it. Inspector Rittman declared that he found the care of the stock to be poor, and White appeared before Justice Denton late last evening and pleaded guilty to the cruelty charge. He will be sentenced Wednesday morning.

The trouble is that those big sprinkling wagons are too heavy for ordinary horses to pull," said Dr. Barton last evening. "One of those horses in the neighborhood of my grounds, and the condition of the animal while was driving was anything but pleasant. I have investigated the condition of other stock belonging to Ritzman, and it is all bad."

CONVENTION HALL.

Chairman C. D. Daggett of the Convention Hall Committee last evening issued a denial of a report in an evening paper to the effect that the committee has already purchased a site on the southeast corner of Colorado and Fair Oaks. The report stated that Daggett, acting for the committee, had negotiated for the Loughery property, and that the parties were waiting for a deed. A meeting of the Convention Hall Committee was held last evening, following a dinner at the Hotel Maryland, and various matters in the furtherance of the project were discussed.

CASE ON BURDETTE.

Deputy Burdette attempted to perpetrate a little joke, which cruelly backfired on him a few days ago. Two pretty little girls accosted the deputy gentleman on the street, and asked him a bunch of young kittens. Burdette pondered, and could not think of any use he could bestow the innocents in case he should make the request. Then it flashed upon him. Mrs. Grinnell was an inveterate lover of cats. As is very well known, Grinnell's pet hobby is cats. It is said that kittens are scarce across the dead line of Pasadena. "Birds' Retreat." So he purchased the kittens, 10 cents, and ordered them delivered at once. But though Mrs. Grinnell was at home, her neighbors, notwithstanding that the officers had instructions to carry on the front porch and call at home, the neighbor was to be taken away. It was not finally delivered to her.

DOG KILLING A PASTIME.

A valuable bull-terrier belonging to Dr. A. D. S. McCoy, was shot and killed by a Lakeside hunter early last evening. The owner declares that this is the number of instances in which hunters are in the habit of using dogs for pastime. Several dogs have been run over and killed in Pasadena within the past few days, and McCoy thinks it is high time such should be stopped. The Humane Society has been notified, and may follow an investigation of the case going on.

THE SAD STATE.

Pasadena is likely to be losing the mysterious "Tom" whose actions for several weeks have been a terror to the district residents. Curtis was arraigned before Justice Austin yesterday morning, received a severe lecture with a fine of $5 and was claimed to be a victim of circumstances, and said when he was looking for a real thief. He was captured by Officer Hall at No. 750 North Madison avenue while crouching on the porch of the Shults residence Sunday night. He was later turned over to the police. The amount of the fine was reduced because Johnston has been convicted upon him.

SEES BURGLAR AT HIS WORK.

Young Negro, Passing Grocery an Hour After Midnight Observes Cracksman in the Place and Goes in Search of an Officer, but Meantime the Prowler Gets Away.

SAN PEDRO, June 12.—An attempt to burglarize the safe of Nelson Ward, a grocer on Beacon street, was frustrated last night by the discovery of the thief. Peter Dyson, a young colored boy, was passing the store about 1 o'clock this morning, and saw a man standing in the front of the store, near the safe.

The burglar squatted out of sight, and young Dyson ran for an officer. It took him a considerable time to find a guardian of the peace, and when he returned with Special Officer Frank, the burglar had made his escape.

An examination of the premises showed that the cash register had been opened and a small sum stolen, and the safe had been tampered with. Entrance had been accomplished by the removal of a rear window, and tracks leading away indicated that the man was barefooted.

Burglaries are becoming alarmingly frequent in San Pedro. On Thursday and Friday nights of last week houses in the residence section were robbed and money and jewelry of considerable value stolen. It is probable that the Board of Trustees will increase the present police force at its next meeting, so that the entire city can be patroled at night.

STAND BEHIND THE MARSHAL.

Members of the Board Are to Have a Secret Conference With the Head of the Town's Police Department. Joints Not so Wide Open Sunday as Usual.

LONG BEACH, June 12.—The blind pig must go. That much was decided upon this afternoon by the City Trustees, but the method of getting after the violators of law will be decided in closed session with the Marshal.

Trustee Cate called the board's attention to the newspaper stories of the almost open existence of the joints, and asked the majority of the board to take the initiative, pledging himself to support them. Some of the Trustees were inclined to throw the burden on the Marshal to enforce the law, but it was pointed out that funds are necessary, and then, apparently reluctantly, the Trustees argued that the Marshal would be backed up, and asked him to confer with them later. As a result of the exposure, the joints under suspicion were closed yesterday, except to intimate friends of the proprietors.

Bids were opened today for a steam fire engine, combination chemical and hose wagon, and a fire-alarm apparatus. For a third-class engine, the Nott people offered one for $4750, the American-La France $4750 and the Ahrens Company $4700. For the chemical and hose wagon, A. J. Coffee submitted a bid for $2250, and the American-La France $1950; for a fire-alarm system the Gunnwell people will establish a sixteen to thirty-box plant at $300 per box, and the Signalphone Company will establish twenty-four or more at $75 each, and a plant for $3229 additional. Howard C. Holmes, engineer of the $100,000 pier, through his attorney, notified the Trustees today that unless his claim of $1500 is paid he will begin suit. This money is withheld because it is claimed the original cement abutments washed out, necessitating an additional expenditure to replace, and that Holmes was responsible because the abutments were according to his plans.

Children's Day was celebrated Sunday evening in most of the churches with special programmes by the little ones, and every church in the city was packed to the doors.

Functional Weakness

Treatment That is Safe and Certain

Many men are wrongly treated. This is why more cures are not made of chronic conditions. There's nothing accomplished by guesswork. I believe that personal treatment and facilities well adapted to the requirements will accomplish more in one week than can ever be accomplished by guessing through the mail. I treat the exact cause with the most effective treatment and I am safe in saying that my cures are more frequent than by any other known means.

Varicocele

Many men have treated for this diseased condition and few have found permanent cure. My treatment is thorough and cures in four to six days and there is no relapse of the old weakness that accompanied the disease. The treatment is direct and for the exact cause, a treatment not in common use, and is the most effective known.

Stricture

I cure in ten to fifteen days. I have devoted years of study to the formation and complete eradication of urethral obstruction. I restore health and tone to the membrane, my exact cause treatment removes the necessity of any surgery. The right treatment, applied the right way, will always bring good results.

Contracted Diseases

I cure these ailments more quickly, with less pain and inconvenience than any one claiming to treat successfully these conditions. Has your case become chronic through improper treatment or use of cataplastic remedies? Has it caused deep seated inflammation and irritation in the urinary tract? My treatment cures these conditions quickly and the cure is permanent.

CONSULT ME

FREQUENTLY THERE IS A MISapprehension as to the cost of the services of a competent specialist. Some sufferers are inclined to think that because of the complete cures I make my fees are exorbitant. They are not. They are simply FAIR, and are usually worth five times what I ask. Before you try "cheap" treatment it will be to your interest to consult me. That will cost you nothing. If you follow this advice you will SAVE money. If you try "cheap" treatment you will WASTE money; for you will—in all human probability—have to come to me in the end.

Men's Diseases Only

I Have the Largest Practice Because I Invariably Fulfill My Promises.

DR. O. C. JOSLEN.

"WEAKNESS"

My cures of this disorder are permanent and lasting. No tonics that stimulate temporarily, but thoroughly substitute treatment for the removal of conditions responsible for the functional derangement. "Weakness" is merely a symptom of inflammation or congestion in the prostate gland, and under my own original local treatment this gland is promptly restored to its normal state and complete functional activity is the lasting result.

Every afflicted man should read my pamphlet, entitled "LIVE ALL YOUR YEARS A MAN." Mailed free. Consultation free at office or by mail.

MEN

We are Specialists for Varicocele, Hydrocele, Stricture, Piles, Fistula, Blood Diseases, Contracted Diseases, Private Diseases, Loss of Vital Power, Kidney and Bladder Troubles

Varicocele

We GUARANTEE AN ABSOLUTE AND PERMANENT CURE in every case we treat of varicocele. We will show to any man wishing to be cured a dozen leading business men of Los Angeles that we have cured. This fact, with our GUARANTEE of a cure, ought to convince men that they can be cured of varicocele.

Weakness

This trouble—the base of men of all ages—we cure. Our treatment is direct, effective and the cure sure and lasting. We take pleasure in making clear to every man who calls for consultation the cause, the course and the outcome of his particular case. There is no charge for consultation.

Contracted Diseases and Blood Poison

These troubles are thoroughly understood by Dr. Harrison and his associates. For over 21 years they have successfully treated this class of troubles. Experience, founded on a thorough medical education, has brought to them perfected methods by which they can positively promise a cure.

Stricture

This trouble we successfully treat by our improved method, which never fails to bring about a cure. Electricity or electric belts cannot do this trouble any good; when you employ either you throw your money away. Come and let us explain the nature of the trouble and how you can be permanently cured.

Kidney and Bladder Trouble

Dr. Harrison & Co. are phenomenally successful in these troubles, every case that comes to them is carefully examined and the true cause found for existing conditions. It is then easy for us to treat the cause understandingly; not all cases are easily understood; not all men know how to treat them. Our experience for years has taught us just how to cure the very worst of these troubles. Our success in curing demonstrates the positive proof of our ability.

DAILY REPORT OF THE ORANGE MARKET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Navel oranges are in strong demand, and under reduced supplies, the market tends upward. Valencia lates bring high prices in some instances, and other varieties are firm at advanced quotations. Wholesalers say there is good demand for navels and fair request for other sorts, while stocks on hand are slowly declining. Retailers are devoting more attention to other sorts of fruit, high prices tending to reduce sales to the ordinary purchaser.

Time money, 60 to 90 days, 2 per cent.; from 4 to 6 months, 6 per cent.

Commercial paper, 60 to 90 days, unindorsed bills, 6 per cent.; from 4 to 6 months, single names, 7 per cent.

CHICAGO AND ALTON. The bond house of N. W. Halsey & Co. has issued a pamphlet giving an expert analysis, both operating and financial, of the Chicago and Alton Railroad. The figures given are published in such form to show the security for interest of the 5-per-cent. first mortgage bonds. One of the most interesting features is a table showing the combined income account of the railroad and railway.

GREENE PROPERTIES. It is understood that some of the directors of the Greene Copper Company are in favor of the placing of Greene dividends upon a quarterly basis. Intimations that quarterly dividends of 50 cents per share might be decided upon in the future undoubtedly led to the reports of the cutting of dividends.

The Greene Company is now paying dividends at the rate of $2.40 per share per annum and is now earning at the rate of nearly $4 per share per annum. The company is still expending considerable money in new construction, but with a cash balance in apparently sufficient surplus earnings above dividends to take care of new construction and development work.—[Wall Street Journal.

AMALGAMATED COPPER. For the first time in the six years of its corporate existence, the Amalgamated Copper Company has issued a statement to its stockholders. The significant features of the report are that the company has accumulated a surplus over dividends of nearly $8,000,000, and that its capitalization per pound of annual production is much less than the market capitalization of the Rio Tinto and the Calumet & Hecla, two other copper-producing companies of similar magnitude, similarly calculated. The balance sheet is that of the holding company only, and therefore does not show any of the assets of the subsidiary companies, except in the form of securities held by the parent company. Thus the cash balances held by the operating companies, which are stated on authority to amount to between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000, do not appear in the balance sheet published.

Added to the $29,100,000 paid in dividends since the organization of the company, the profit and loss surplus, as stated, indicates that the total earnings in six years have been $38,042,712, or at the rate of 5.08 per cent. on the average amount of capital stock outstanding during the period. The parent company point out that the fluctuations in copper between the highest and lowest prices of the past five years means a difference on one year's output of $9,700,000 in the earnings, or more than 6 per cent. on the capital stock.

The production of 1904 of the Amalgamated Copper Company, made up of the total output of mines owned entire and the parent company's proportion of the output of controlled companies, was 202,000,000 pounds, 25 per cent. of the production of the United States.

An Eccentric Lord.

One of the most eccentric characters in England was the late Lord Grimthorpe, nearly 90 years old, when he died. He was a man of many fads and hobbies, and one of these was clock-making. He designed the biggest timepiece in Great Britain, the clock of the Cathedral of St. Paul, in London, and he also was the designer of the great clock in the Victoria tower of the houses of Parliament. Doubtless it was his usefulness in this line which caused him to be elected president of the British Horological Institute. His Lordship was also an ecclesiastical artchitect of note, and his plans have been followed in the building of churches and restoration of cathedrals. He declined any remuneration for his services, but he insisted that his crest, which is a boar's head, should be prominently displayed in the sacred edifices for which he had made many designs. This display of eccentricity on his part was not taken altogether in good part by those whom he had benefited, but there seems to have been no serious protest against it. As president of the Church of England Burial Association, Lord Grimthorpe was working to abolish the embalming of corpses, hermetically sealed caskets, vaults and tombs, and to bring about the use of wickerwork coffins, which will permit the rapid decomposition of dead bodies. In this latter endeavor he had the approval of King Edward, the head of the English Church. Among other tokens of Lord Grimthorpe's activity were many practical treatises on bells, watches and clockmaking.—[Leslie's Weekly.

BANK STOCK FOR SALE
Plan to Secure 1000 Stockholders. No One Allowed to Purchase More Than $500 of Stock.

The people of Los Angeles can now buy bank stock at only $5 per share. No one will be allowed to purchase more than $500 of stock. Capital is to be increased to $500,000, making bank of a thousand small stockholders, thereby becoming the people's bank of Los Angeles. The Consolidated Bank of Los Angeles has decided to place its stock with the people, believing that in securing a thousand stockholders it will secure a thousand depositors at the same time. Investors can purchase such stock with absolute safety as to perfect security, and realize a handsome profit therefrom, as has been done by the owners of stock in the various other banks of Los Angeles. This is the only opportunity ever offered the general public to buy stock in a Los Angeles bank at $5 per share. We would rather have 1000 stockholders of $100 each than 1000 of $500 each. We want the greatest number of stockholders, as the more stockholders there are the stronger the bank. All stock fully paid up at Five Dollars per share. Purchasers can buy from 1 to 100 shares at $5 per share, but no one can buy more than $500 of stock. Subscription books just opened. Purchasers can subscribe for 100 shares and pay for same in monthly payments of Five Dollars, and receive one share of paid-up stock as each $5 payment is made. We want the people to become the stockholders in the people's bank of Los Angeles. Call or write for further information. Pamphlets, etc., mailed free on application. The marriage is to take place on June 27 at the home of her parents in Riverside. The couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

Loveliest of Brides.

Never a sweeter or fairer little bride was seen than Miss Marion Cecelia Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hopson Owen, who yesterday was married to Gerald Patrick Ryan by Rev. Baker P. Lee.

The pretty ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Stephenson of No. 813 Kensington road at noon before a large company of friends. The artistic home was transformed into a fairy bower of light greenery and sweet blossoms. In the cool green living room an altar was erected in the shadowy window corner. Here asparagus ferns and papyrus made a cool setting for masses of fragrant Easter lilies and Canterbury bells. Over the heads of the wedding party swung a wedding bell of white and pink sweet peas. Over the snowy curtains a veil of soft green fell, excluding the light, and about the room the same greenery was effectively utilized. Over doorways and windows arches of greenery were formed, in which fancy rustic baskets filled with delicate pink sweet peas and ferns nestled. In the hall, with its dark furnishings and finish, great brown Indian baskets filled with black-eyed Susans and gypsofilia were artistic while palms and ferns further added to the effect. In the dining-room where a collation was served, yellow tulip poppies in baskets swung lightly and low bowls graced the table, filled with the bright flowers.

Denubila's Orchestra furnished music and as the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" sounded through the rooms, the party approached the altar, first Dr. Lee with the groom, followed by the charming little brunette bride on the arm of her mother, who gave her away in the forced absence of Mr. Owen, who is ill. The bride was lovely in a beautiful gown of cream lace over chiffon and silk and made with long train. About her neck a string of pearls fell, and on her gown pearl ornaments shone. Her bouquet was of Easter lilies and over her face fell a long tulle veil fastened with a crown of orange blossoms held by a pearl pin. Little George Marygold, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Marygold, was the only attendant. He was a winsome picture attired in white and carrying the ring on a satin pillow. Mrs. Owen wore pale gray crepe with lace trimmings. During the reading of the service, "O, Promise Me" was rendered and at the close Miss Jessie Goodwin sang "Call Me Thine Own," with violin obligato. The Mendelssohn march and other music was played after the service.

Among the guests who were present were members of the Gaipin Shakespeare Club of which Miss Owen was a member, and a number of other old friends.

A luncheon was served after congratulations had been offered, and assisting in the dining-room and at the punch bowl were Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Virgil Owen and Misses Mercedes De Luna and Nona Taylor. Mrs. Stevenson wore pink crepe de chine and lace and Mrs. Virgil Owen was dainty in white dimity with trimmings of pink ribbons and lace. Miss De Luna wore an exquisite little frock of white lace over pale blue silk with butterfly blue in her hair. Miss Nona Taylor was sweet in white silk mull and lace.

The bride is well known in Los Angeles, having lived here since childhood. She is a brunette with exquisite coloring and fascinating brown eyes and and for the past two years has been on the stage, having taken that as her career. She has been most successful, especially in ingénue parts. Mr. Ryan is from Melbourne, Australia, and is a rising young actor.

Last evening the young couple left for Sacramento where they will join a theatrical party, playing opposite parts. Tonight will be their initial performance. Doubtless the pretty little romance will cause much interest in the theatrical company and as the fair little bride said "It is our best wedding present."
